Anti-Vivisection Item. Blind, Not Discouraged. What Is Money? Much. To Fly Mt. Everest.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. COLD AND quiet in this deserted village. All but the real workers are away, telling the country how to vote in November.

West Virginia has a 2-inch snowfall, men in Washington are wearing overcoats. Winter seems to have come.

WASHINGTON IS dull with everyone out of town. Except for a strange and accidental scientific discovery, there is no news.

Dr. Rolla E. Dyer, of the National Institute of Health, had a theory that the American form of typhus, or "jail fever," is caused by the bite of a rat flea. He could not prove it, no one could be asked to let such a flea bite him, for typhus sometimes means death.

DR. DYER experimented with virulent rat fleas, grinding many them to powder, preparing vaccine for tests.

It will interest the Anti-Vivisection Society to know that one of the fleas seems to have escaped and avenged all the others. It bit Dr. Dyer, and proved the soundness of his theory, for Dr. Dyer is in the Naval Hospital, seriously ill with typhus fever.

He will probably recover. Anti-vivisectionists will please observe that scientists are willing to share the risks.

NEAR THE railroad station at Farmingdale, N. J., early yesterday morning, a middle-aged man, totally blind, felt his way along the village sidewalk with a cane held against the curbstone line.

The light, the sky, all the beauty of brightly colored foliage were shut out, every step had its danger.

But the man smiled, as he walked, feeling his way. He rose above the worst of physical calamities and found happiness in refusing to admit defeat. His eyes were gone, but not his courage.

It might have done the army of depression mourners good to see that blind man, with darkness all around him, and light in his soul.

ALL OF US overcome a certain blindness, never think of it. We can see no farther back than the cradle, no farther ahead than the grave. Our origin in the past and our destiny in the future are both shut out from us.

We are blind, except for the few steps we take on this earth, yet we feel our way from infancy to old age, smiling as we go, excited and happy about details that mean so little.

GOV. TEJEDA, of the Mexican state of Vera Cruz, demanding that all foreign capital be driven out of Mexico, should read the history of Sparta, seeking to make its iron money undesirable, or Russia trying to destroy all interest in money. Or let him consider the decay of Spain and Portugal when those countries drove out and humiliated the Jew, that knew how to keep business and money active.

Money is labor and intelligence, frozen into cash. If Tejeda succeeds in driving it out, he will not help his country.

IT WOULD surprise Torquemada, and others who believed they could destroy the Jewish people, to read figures published in the current number of the Menorah Journal, by Jakob Lestchinsky, of Berlin. Within one hundred years the world's Jewish population has grown from three millions to sixteen millions, multiplying itself by five. No other people equal that record between 1825 and 1925.

Since 1825, according to Lestchinsky, Jewish population in this country has been multiplied by one hundred.

THE MARQUESS of Clydesdale, energetic young member of the British Commons, tells his constituents they must excuse him while he flies his plane over the top of Mount Everest, earth's highest peak.

He thinks he may bring back information useful to mountain climbers if they MUST struggle up on foot, also hopes to increase British prestige, especially in India.

If Hindus know that an Englishman has actually been flying over and around the sacred "unconquerable" mountain, they will be impressed.

THE FRENCH filled their subjects in Africa with deep respect for their new rulers, by sending the expert magician, Houdin, whose name others have borrowed, to humiliate the African medicine men and witch doctors.

Houdin fastened a small metal box to the floor, with an electric current. The African magicians could not lift it. He did lift it with one finger.

When they tried again, he ran the current through their bodies, so that they could not let go. French magic was at a premium.

THE ORDINARY human being, especially if he lost money in the Insull collapse, will find this piece of news entertaining.

Big utilities companies that took hundreds of millions from unfortunate investors now ask Uncle Sam to lend them twenty-one millions from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

It should encourage taxpayers whose money would be lent, and the stockholders whose money is gone to know that the reorganization of the Insull companies is now directed by James Simpson, a man not merely honest and public-spirited, but one of very great abil-

AUTHORITIES TO GO AFTER INSULL

Brother 'Broken Man' In Jail Cell in Canada

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 7.—Oct. 7.—(AP.)—John Hampton, assistant state's attorney for Cook County, Ill., who was successful in having Martin Insull, indicted in Chicago for embezzlement, lodged in an Ontario jail, said today Illinois authorities are going to Europe and will bring back Samuel Insull, former head of the Insull utilities interests.

Samuel Insull, also under indictment in Chicago on charges of embezzlement and larceny, was reported missing today from his Paris residence. Hampton said Chicago authorities will leave for Paris within two or three weeks.

Hampton said he would resist bail for Martin Insull, who was held in a jail cell at Barrie, Ontario, while procedure was begun to secure his extradition.

Samuel Insull is an American citizen. Martin still retains his British citizenship.

TORONTO, Ontario, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—The path of power trod so long by Martin J. Insull had ended today in a dingy, windowless jail cell.

He sat in the "death cell" tier of the Simcoe County Jail at Barrie, 50 miles north of this city; the "death cell" tier, so called because it is in that tier where sit those condemned to hang for their crimes.

An Insull—that magic name in Chicago short months ago—is a common prisoner among common men; a soft, almost pleading man in the face of the last two days' stunning events; a man deprived of those simple things of life which he so long accepted as matter of course.

DENIED PIPE

He is denied even the solace of the pipe he cherished and smoked so often in his hours of affluence and in those latter days since he fled from Chicago.

But in the heart of the 68-year-old common prisoner there still flares that spark of battle that led him and his brother, Samuel, to financial lordship before their dream castle of finance crumbled about their heads and those of thousands of investors who lost millions in their enterprises.

It is this spark that caused a determination to fight extradition to Chicago to the utmost of the Insull resources, whatever they may be.

The last words Insull spoke to newspapermen, standing in the rain less than half an hour before he entered the barred door of the prison, were words indicative of a softer mood.

He was asked:

"Won't you say anything in defense of yourself as you face the certain prospect of jail?"

The tall, gaunt, gray-haired man was abject as he answered:

"Those who know me know I am not dishonest. I must not say anything."

MRS. JESSIE M. KEITH-MILLER . . . DEPORTATION DROPPED

Aviatrix Keith-Miller, the Australian Pittsburgh-to-Cuba flier, today preparing to quit the shores of her adopted America—a concession in return for which the U. S. Department of Labor is dropping deportation proceedings against her and British Capt. William Newton Lancaster, who has likewise agreed to go voluntarily.

FLYING COUPLE TO QUIT U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The Labor Department today dismissed deportation warrants against Capt. W. N. Lancaster and Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller with the understanding they would voluntarily leave the country next Friday.

Officials at the Labor Department said the case was closed so far as they were concerned, and attorneys for the Australian flier and Mrs. Keith-Miller said they had booked passage for Friday.

Deportation warrants were sworn out against the two after the trial and acquittal of Capt. Lancaster on charges of having killed Haden Clarke, a writer, at the Miami home of the aviatrix.

Labor officials later investigated reports that the two had been parties to smuggling of aliens into the country from Cuba, bnt no action was taken.

Nixon Cancels 2 Shows In Musicians' Dispute

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Two musical shows booked for this month in the Nixon have been cancelled because the local musicians' union insists upon terms that Manager Harry Brown asserts are impossible of acceptance by the theater if it is to live. Shows cancelled are Brown and Henderson's new revue, "Forward March," booked to have its premiere here October 17, and Ed Wynn's musical comedy, "The Laugh Parade," booked for October 24.

There will be no music next week, when "The Pure In Heart" will be the attraction. After that there may be no more plays at all in the only theater in town open to "road" shows until the difficulties have been composed.

That may result if the stage hands comply with a request of the musicians that they "go out in sympathy" with the later.

Stage hands, Mr. Brown says, accepted a cut, a provision for no pay in dark weeks, and no guarantee of length of season. The theater desires to use a lesser number of musicians for dramatic plays than are required for musical productions, and does not want to pay the men when there are dark weeks and they do no work.

Willingness to sign at once an agreement providing for no cut in pay and a guarantee of at least 20 weeks of work is expressed by Mr. Brown.

BYSTANDER DESCRIBES 'TORTURE'

Victim's Death Quick, He Says; Convict Tells of Bribes

By SAM MELSON
International News Service.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 7.—Twenty-five minutes after the naked Arthur Maillefert, 22-year-old New Jersey convict, was chained by the neck in the dungeon-like "sweatbox" of the Sunbeam chaingang camp, he was found dead of strangulation, a civilian witness testified today in the murder trial of two former prison camp officers.

The startling disclosure came in the testimony of J. A. Taylor, a farmer, who took the stand in the prosecution of George W. Courson and Solomon Higginbotham, suspended guards, charged with responsibility in the alleged torture death of young Maillefert.

PARDON BRIBES

Taylor's testimony followed the startling revelation by Jim Travis, convict, that pardons were offered prisoners as bribes if they would turn defense witnesses and testify that Maillefert had committed suicide.

Taylor described how he ran up to a group of armed guards, who, with bloodhounds, had surrounded Maillefert as he ran from a nearby farmhouse after escaping naked from the Sunbeam Camp.

Taylor accompanied the captured youth and his guards on their return to camp, he said.

He told the jury how Maillefert's legs and feet were nailed in heavy wooden stocks and how the youth, unable to walk, was lifted, still naked, into the "sweatbox" and his neck chained to an overhead rafter. Taylor said:

"I walked over and sat in my car about 25 minutes. Then they took the boy out dead."

The pardon bribe was offered Travis and Snappy Chandler, a

CARD GAME BANDITS ROB 8 WOMEN

Gunmen Enter Oakland Home; 2 Suspects Questioned

Two uninvited "guests" to a friendly game in the apartment of Mrs. Marie Loney, at 421 Atwood street, Oakland, early today forced eight women and two men to hand over their money after lining them against the wall.

Joining a companion who awaited them in an automobile, they escaped with approximately $200 and a ring. It was thought the same gang held up a game at the home of Walter F. Groves, of North Craig street, an official of the City Home at Mayview, escaping with $400.

QUIZ 2 ABOUT AUTO

Two men were questioned—Harry A. Pitler, of Elsinore square, and Max Simon, who conducts a garage in Roberts street. A car bearing license numbers of Pitler's machine, was reported seen near the Loney home, but in Oakland Police Court today Pitler said he had put the auto in Simons' garage last night for repairs. This was corroborated by Simons. Both men will be questioned further.

The victims meet weekly for a friendly game, police said. The final hand had been dealt when the bandit pair entered the room and commanded:

"Stick 'em up and line up alongside of the wall."

Believing it a prank, the players failed to move.

MENACED BY GUNS

Menacing them with revolvers, the command was repeated.

An unidentified woman fainted and another started to her side. She was halted by the order:

"Let her alone, she'll be all right."

The victims and their losses, according to a police report, included: Mrs. Loney, $50; Mrs. Inez Hall, $30, and B. Nydes, $80, of 421 Atwood street; Mrs. Fanny Fine, of 3115 Niagara street, $10; William Simon, $5; Caroline Braun, $4; Bessie Silver, $5; Nellie Smith, a ring, and W. B. Milton, of Atwood street. Police suspected some of the names were fictitious.

One of the women kicked her purse under the table, while Mrs. Smith pulled her purse from one of the bandit pair as he passed her.

Police said the two men loitered in the hallway of the Loney apartment 15 minutes before entering the gaming room.

ATTACK LAID TO REVENGE OF GANG

Girl Accused in Holdup By Cleric Faces New Quiz by Sleuths

The Rev. Isaiah Hawn, 77, retired minister of the Reformed Church, found unconscious on the steps of the Friendship School early Tuesday, died this morning in West Penn Hospital, the victim of gangland vengeance or a holdup.

An autopsy disclosed death was due to shock and hemorrhage from a fractured skull.

When found the aged minister was only a short distance from his home at 124 South Negley avenue.

A month ago the veteran preacher had been held up in Kirkwood street by two men who, he informed police, fled in an automobile with a blonde woman. He was robbed of $53.

A few hours later police arrested Mary Howard, 22, of Carlton street, and Gilbert Martin, 26, of Warrington avenue. At a hearing before Magistrate Charles Papale in East End Police Court, both were discharged, but on insistence of Mr. Hawn, Miss Howard was rearrested and held for court on a robbery charge. She denied the accusation, blaming a rejected suitor for her arrest.

Homicide Lieut. Frank Ferris ordered detectives to question Miss Howard for a possible clue. Ferris declared there was no evidence connecting the girl with the fatal attack.

GOV. ROOSEVELT EXPECTED HERE

The chances of Gov. Roosevelt coming to Pittsburgh for an address were much brighter today.

This assurance came from David L. Lawrence, Democratic county chairman, who returned today from a visit to New York. There he conferred with the Governor's right-hand man, James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman.

Farley favors a Pittsburgh speech by the candidate and will so tell Roosevelt, Lawrence said.

Political observers agree that an invasion of Pennsylvania by Roosevelt might swing the state away from the Republican party.

Lawrence announced that he had arranged to have Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, speak for Roosevelt at a meeting in North Side Carnegie Hall next Tuesday.

The county chairman also landed Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, to speak at the Amen Corner dinner October 29.

BUCYRUS, O., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—An attempt to wreck the Red Arrow flyer of the Pennsylvania Railroad, from Detroit to Washington, was reported today by J. F. Crum, a farmer.

Railroad detectives were investigating. According to Crum, while returning home last night he fell over a wire while crossing the tracks. When he investigated, two men told him to "keep moving or we'll fill you full of holes."

Crum, however, went up the track and flagged the limited. He said the train crew found that an attempt had been made to ditch the train.

Zoo in Phila. 'Broke,' Animals May Be Slain

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7—(INS.)—The animals will be shot or gassed and the Philadelphia Zoo closed unless City Council appropriates $100,000 for its support for the coming year.

This was the ultimatum Dr. William B. Cadwalader, president of the Zoological Society, had delivered today to Mayor J. Hampton Moore.

Dr. Cadwalader believes it would be "a tremendous loss to the city and the country" if the Philadelphia Zoo is abandoned. He said:

"Our pathological laboratory alone is world famous. Here an intensive study of all diseases of animals in their relation to the human being is made."

ROOSEVELT AID ASSURED O'BRIEN IN FIGHT FOR MAYOR

WALKER OUT, GOVERNOR VICTOR

New N. Y. Candidate Sharp Contrast to 'Dapper Jimmy'

By RAYMOND I. BORST
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Tammany's nomination of Surrogate John P. O'Brien for Mayor of New York City to succeed James J. Walker, resigned, meets with the approval of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, it was learned today from sources close to the presidential nominee.

While Roosevelt did not attempt to dictate the mayoralty nominee to Tammany, he warned Leader John F. Curry when the latter was in Albany earlier in the week for the Democratic state convention, that he would not stand for the renomination of Walker.

Gov. Roosevelt is known to have served notice on Curry that if Walker were renominated, Roosevelt publicly would repudiate the former Mayor and throw his support to a fusion candidate.

Mayoralty Nominee Contrast to Walker

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Tammany Hall today put forward a new personality for Mayor of New York City—Surrogate John P. O'Brien—and in so doing cast the picturesque James J. (Jimmy) Walker into the role of their "forgotten man."

O'Brien, 59 years old, firm-jawed, baldish, with gray mustache and a fringe of gray hair—the antithesis of the nonchalant and debonair Walker—was nominated by acclamation for Mayor at the Democratic city convention at Madison Square Garden last night.

Former Mayor Walker's name was not presented to the convention. Neither was that of the present Mayor, Joseph V. McKee, who has succeeded Walker and whose budget-slashing program and salary cutting has grated on the Tammany sensibilities.

In fact, O'Brien's name was the only one presented. He is a veteran Tammany man and he will have the full support of the organization at the mayoralty election which, the Court of Appeals ruled late yesterday, must be held November 8 to fill the vacancy caused by Walker's resignation on September 2, last.

Walker stepped aside at the last minute. In a radiogram from the liner Europa addressed to John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, Walker formally renounced his campaign for "vindication," withdrawing himself from consideration on the ground of poor health and a desire not to hamper democratic success in the nation.

G. O. P. to Run Candidate Against O'Brien

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Republican State Chairman W. Kingsland Macy announced today that his party would offer a candidate from its own ranks to oppose Surrogate John P. O'Brien for the unexpired term of Former Mayor James J. Walker.

S. S. EUROPA, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—James J. Walker wired congratulations today to John P. O'Brien, Democratic nominee for Mayor of New York, the office Walker resigned several weeks ago. The former Mayor lightly dismissed talk of the possibility of the election of a fusion candidate for Mayor. His cable to Surrogate O'Brien said:

"Perfect nomination. Very happy. Command me."

MAN ENDS LIFE IN HOTEL

A man believed to have been William O. Colborn, 33, of Slippery Rock, was found dead in a North Side hotel today, his body hanging from a bed post by a bed sheet.

In the room, police said they found letters of recommendation from Eastern newspapers, and six pages of an autobiography. In a note the man said he was ending his life because he was discouraged over lack of employment.

Hotel officials said he had registered at the place Tuesday as "William Moore, McKeesport, Pa." Letters found on his person indicated, however, that he was William S. Colburn, police said.

Garner Aims Blast At Hoover Again

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(Universal.)—Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential candidate, today is working on another statement blasting the Hoover administration. It will be released to Sunday's newspapers.

Speaker Garner has not yet definitely decided on his speaking itinerary for the campaign. Friends expect him to deliver one major address shortly and follow up with two radio speeches. He is being urged to campaign on the Pacific Coast.

KLINE APPEAL CASE DELAYED

The Superior Court today postponed until the week of October 31, arguments on appeals in the Kline-Succop malfeasance case. The case will be heard in Philadelphia.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today filed a brief in his appeal from the ruling of Judge Thomas D. Finletter throwing out Mayor Charles H. Kline's conviction on one count.

Park denied there was any inconsistency in the jury's verdict and that, even if that were true, it is not ground for nullifying the jury's findings.

The appeal of B. L. Succop, ousted supplies director, from the jury's guilty verdict will be argued at the same time.

GOV. ROOSEVELT TO MAP PLANS WITH REED

'Pork Barrel' Campaign Charged to Hoover By Nominee

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is expected to confer today with former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri.

Mr. Reed is coming here before heading into the Midwest, where he is expected to reply to President Hoover's recent speech at Des Moines.

The Governor himself replied to the speech yesterday in a radio address in which he accused the Republicans of carrying on a "pork barrel" campaign in their proposals for the farmers.

ROOSEVELT TO REST

Mr. Roosevelt will go late today to his home at Hyde Park for a week-end of rest. He will then return here for another week before starting his swing into the southern and border states.

In a speech to luncheon meetings of the Roosevelt Business and Professional Men's League in various parts of the country, Mr. Roosevelt yesterday afternoon said he was "happy" to find that President Hoover "has come to agree with me" that business recovery depends upon the restoration of "prosperity to our agricultural interests, our cattle interests, our mining interests." Roosevelt said:

"This doctrine I have been preaching ever since the day I was nominated.

"We have had an excellent example recently of belated promises addressed specifically to a group in the hope that with some new temporary expedient, suggested a month before election, the minds of farmers may be turned away from the grim fact of a consistently unfriendly attitude on the part of the administration over many years."

CAMPAIGN OF 'PORK'

The Governor said:

"This type of campaigning, which might be called a 'pork barrel' campaign, is not my notion of what the country needs in a time like this."

He called for "economic interchange" with other nations and urged the regulation and planning of industrial production, saying:

"Whenever income in any great group in the population becomes so disproportionate as to dry up purchasing power within any one group, the balance of economic life is thrown out of order. It is a proper concern of the government to use wise measures of regulation such as will bring this purchasing power back to normal."

KINGSLEY DIES; N. L. LIFE HEAD

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The name of Calvin Coolidge was being mentioned today as a possible successor to the late Darwin P. Kingsley as chairman of the board of directors of the New York Life Insurance Company.

Kingsley died last night of a heart ailment in his 76th year. He headed a directorate which included former President Coolidge.

During his administration, a biography issued by his company, pointed out, the New York Life more than doubled in size.

Like Coolidge, Kingsley was a Vermonter. From his father's farm at Alburg, Vt., he went to Barre Academy and the University of Vermont, where he earned part of his expenses by ringing the college bell.

Surviving are the widow and five children. Mrs. Kingsley is the former Josephine I. McCall, daughter of a former president of the New York Life.

GOODNOUGH OUT TO WIN DEFEAT

HARRISBURG, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—C. Jay Goodnough, speaker of the House, today set about the most unusual campaign of the year—a drive to obtain his defeat in a race in which he is unopposed.

Goodnough's popularity, which won him the Republican, Democratic and Prohibition nominations for assemblyman from Cameron County, became a boomerang yesterday when he was named by Gov. Pinchot to a vacancy on the Public Service Commission.

The time for withdrawal has passed and his name must appear on the ballots as the candidate of the three parties. If he should be elected, he cannot, authorities say, accept the commission appointment. A provision of the state constitution stipulates that no legislator can be appointed to a state office during the term for which he was elected to the Assembly.

Goodnough and his supporters in Cameron County prepared today to have the county Republican committee select a successor for whom a vigorous sticker campaign will be waged.

Members attending included Irvin F. Lehman, Leon Wertheimer and William B. Klee.

P. S. C. PROBERS SEEK AID OF SCHNADER

Eaton to Demand Full Investigation of Utility Charges

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 7.—The Senate Utilities Investigating Committee and its counsel, Oliver K. Eaton, of Pittsburgh, this afternoon will invite Attorney General William A. Schnader to co-operate in the inquiry into alleged improper influence of certain utilities or their officials, upon one or more former members of the Public Service Commission.

This invitation will be extended by the committee chairman, Senator William S. Rial, of Greensburg, and Eaton.

In the absence from the capitol of Gov. Pinchot it is not expected Schnader will indicate his attitude. The Governor himself has plainly indicated that he did not intend in the initial stages of the committee's work to give it any further assistance or leads than he has furnished in charges against the late Commissioner W. D. B. Ainey, and former Commissioner James S. Benn, who resigned in 1931, while under fire of Pinchot.

PINCHOT HOLDS RECORDS

Pinchot has had transferred to his office, all records obtained by the administration in the investigation made by agents of the Department of Justice, which, compelled the Senate reluctantly to undertake the investigation being mapped today. These records cannot be subpenaed, as they could have been had they remained with the Attorney General.

Eaton, who so far has met only Rial and Senator James J. Coyne, of the committee of seven, is to confer with the full body this afternoon, and learn the tentative scope of the investigation. He is expected to outline his own views. It is known he will insist upon a thorough and expeditious inquiry if he is to be identified with the probe.

EATON AGAINST DELAY

He is averse to any lagging or dilatory tactics. He is not favorable to restricting weekly sessions to two days if there is material at hand to furnish the basis for more protracted questioning. He favors energetic work by an investigating staff yet to be selected, and which will be set to work immediately on leads furnished by the various charges and statements made by the Governor, both to the Senate and in public statements.

If the Governor declines to furnish all the data in his possession, as he will at this time, he will be asked by the committee to indicate some of the sources of his information, so that the committee may obtain details through its own investigators. If these investigators turn up information similar to that acuired by the Governor, and if the committee evinces a disposition to carry on a real probe, it is assumed the Governor will relent in his antipathy to the committee and share with it some of the material in his hands.

SCOPE OF INQUIRY

This afternoon the committee will outline the scope of its inquiry, the lengths to which it will go. There are members who feel that the personalities of individual commissioners are not so important as the endeavor to determine whether utility companies sought to influence them by gratuities. At least one member of the committee is known to feel that it is the utilities rather than the commissioners which should be put on trial.

There are senators on the committee who hitherto have adopted a "public be damned" attitude, but they now realize that any feebleness of the investigaition by a committee with an appropriation of $100,000 would be a transparent attempt to protect suspected utilities and the Republican organization which has protected their interests through guarding commissioners against former attacks by Pinchot.

ELECTION INVOLVED

The committee is faced with the necessity of getting in some real work prior to the November election. If it does not do so the Governor is certain to charge that delay is intentional in an effort to prevent the utility question becoming a campaign issue. In the event of delay the Governor would link the Republican organization of Pennsylvania to the Hoover candidacy and charge that both were friendly to the power interests.

BOARD FOR RAIL SURVEY MEETS

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The Coolidge nonpartisan Railway Commission, at its first formal meeting today, discussed a program for an extensive survey of the nation's transportation problems.

The commission, with former President Coolidge as chairman, met at the offices of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, one of the members, in the Empire State Building. The other members are Bernard Baruch, financier; Alexander Legge, former head of the Farm Board, and Clark Howell, publisher.

The commission will employ experts and investigators to analyze the ills which are now besetting the railroads with a view of later making recommendations to Congress for remedial legislation.

McBride, Cavanaugh Face Tax Charges

C. J. McBride, former secretary of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes, and Burgess John C. (Jack) Cavanaugh, political leader in Homestead, were expected to learn today whether they will be prosecuted by District Attorney Park's office for alleged assessment juggling in Homestead. They and three others were accused of juggling assessments by Leo Riordan, investigator for the County Commissioners, in a recent report.

McGovern Denies Pinchot Rift Over P. S. C.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern today scouted rumors that relations were strained between him and Gov. Pinchot over the appointment of Speaker C. J. Goodnough to the Public Service Commission. Laughingly branding the rumore as "ridiculous," McGovern said:

"Naturally I would like to have seen an Allegheny man appointed, but it is absolutely silly for anyone to say the Governor and I have fallen out."

Robins Bootl g Victim, Wife Tells Woodcock

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Raymond Robins, wife of Col. Robin, who disappeared September 3, and for whom a nation-wide search has been made, today told Prohibition Bureau officials she was convinced her husband had been abducted by bootleggers.

Mrs. Robins, who is in Washington as a guest at the White House, conferred for two hours with Amos W. W. Woodcock, chief of the Prohibition Bureau.

She later said she was returning to the White House for a talk with President Hoover.

Woodcock said Mrs. Robins had given them no additional information about the disappearance of her husband and that they had been unable to furnish her with any clues.

Robins disappeared when he checked out of the City Club in New York and left a Washington hotel as his forwarding address. He had an engagement with President Hoover on Tuesday, September 6, which he failed to keep.

Weeping Willow Dying Over Harding Graves

MARION, O., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The weeping willow tree inside the Harding Memorial—its branches forming a canopy over the graves of President and Mrs. Harding—is dying.

Within the year, Hoke Donithen, Harding Memorial Association secretary said today, it probably will have to be removed.

Although no definite plans have been made, Donithen said the willow likely will be taken out next spring and replaced.

The tree was planted when the late President's body was removed from Marion Cemetery to the tomb six years ago. Although it apparently had a healthy growth, tree surgeons have informed officers of the association that it cannot be saved.

REYNOLDS WILL IGNORING LIBBY TO BE FILED SOON

SUM REPORTED BEQUEATHED FIRST WIFE

(Copyright, 1932, Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—A will executed by Smith Reynolds less than a year before he was fatally shot at Winston-Salem, N. C., is to be filed for probate here soon, leaving his entire share of the Reynolds tobacco millions, except for a few specific bequests, to his brother and his two sisters.

From a source close to the Reynolds family it was established today that the will was drawn during the summer of 1931 while young Reynolds was occupying a Long Island cottage near the summer residence of Libby Holman, Broadway torch singer now under indictment for his death. He was not yet married to Miss Holman at that time, however, and she is not mentioned in the will.

BEQUEST FOR WALKER

It was learned that there is a bequest of $50,000 to Smith Reynolds' friend, Albert Walker, who is also at liberty under bail awaiting trial in the death of Reynolds.

There are also said to be bequests of $50,000 each to Reynolds' first wife, Anne Cannon Reynolds, and their daughter, Anne Cannon Reynolds II. Reynolds and his first wife were divorced shortly after the will was drawn and it was reported at that time that he had made a financial settlement of approximately $1,000,000.

One of the longest articles in the will is understood to be directed at preventing any possibility of anyone attempting to contest its validity or alter its provisions.

DRAWN BEFORE TRIP

It was learned that the will was made in August of 1931, the apparent motive for making it at that time being that Reynolds was within a few days to leave by steamer for a long and hazardous solo flight from England to China.

Coincident with disclosure that there is such a will, it was also learned that Reynolds kept a detailed log of his Far Eastern flight. While this document, entrusted by Reynolds to a flying associate on his return to New York, contains all the usual formal notations of an air log such as distances, times, atmospheric conditions and the like, it is really more like a personal diary of the months between the time when he left Long Island until he reached China.

LOG 'HUMAN DOCUMENT'

The man to whom Reynolds entrusted the log after his return to America said today that in his opinoin its chief value seemed to be "as a human document refuting various reports which have circulated since his death insinuating that Ryenolds was of a weak or spendthrift nature."

He pointed to passages in which Reynolds referred tersely to mishaps or hardships as ordinary events in a flier's life and told of pushing on, sometimes in the face of adverse weather reports in country where a forced landing might mean disaster.

He also called attention to the fact that the log was sprinkled thick with notations of expenses incurred, even such small purchases as a tankful of gasoline being duly recorded and sometimes commented on with bitterness against what Reynolds considered an overcharge.

GETS 25 YEARS IN MAIL HOLDUP

For robbing the mail and jeopardizing the life of a man handling mail, Angelo Direzo, 25, alias August Falcole, was sentenced to 25 years in a federal penitentiary today by Judge R. M. Gibson in Federal Court. The penalty was the heaviest imposed in Federal Court here for many years.

Direzo pleaded guilty. His confession told of three holdups of the drug store postoffice station of Dr. Louis G. Ingelzi, Larimer and Shetland avenues, last February, April and May.

Many cases, postoffice inspectors said, are pending against him in Allegheny County Courts. His confession tells of holdups of the Atlantic Refining Company station at Bigelow boulevard and Telegraph square, May 6; of a news distributing agency at 5964 Ellsworth avenue, May 15, and of the Ritz Theater, Fifth avenue, May 21.

He was arrested in Diamond street, May 30, in a chase after he had attempted to holdup an assistant manager of the Warner Theater, Fifth avenue, Postoffice Inspector J. P. Nolan testified.

It was the first time he said he has known of oysters with glasses but a tonger once found several oysters clinging to a pair of false teeth.

CABINET QUITS KING CAROL

BUCHAREST, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—The cabinet, headed by Premier Alexander Voivod, resigned unexpectedly today.

The resignation was reported due to some extent to the recent open quarrel between King Carol II, and his estranged wife, Princess Helen, over their son, Crown Prince Michael.

The Peasant Party, headed by former Premier Jules Maniu, passed a resolution protesting against the League of Nations' financial recommendations for Rumania. Maniu was understood to be determined to precipitate a crisis for the real purpose of forcing Carol to act in the interest of his dynasty by giving up his favorite, Mme. Magda Lupescu and gaining international support by a reconciliation with Princess Helen.

SEIZE CHURCHES IN VERA CRUZ

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Catholic priests in the state of Vera Cruz were deprived of their citizenship today by decree of the State Legislature and all church property was ordered confiscated by the Governor for other purposes.

The action was taken at a special session of the Legislature last night. The decree declaring the priests no longer citizens leaves them liable to expulsion from the country under provisions of the federal constitution.

The procedure, an aftermath of the expulsion from Mexico this week of Archbishop Leopold Ruiz y Flores, papal delegate, was accompanied by a decision on the part of senators and members of the federal congress who belong to the National Revolutionary Party to investigate the status of Archbishop Pascal Diaz, of Mexico City, to determine whether he is performing religious functions and whether he is entitled to do so by being registered under the ecclesiastical laws.

Threaten Two Infants In Home of Banker To Obtain Loot

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Stirred into action by the daring $35,000 jewelry theft from a private banker and his family who were held up in their fashionable apartment in the exclusive Park avenue section, police today strenuously hunted two bandits.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Sava Kehaya, who live in the same house where John W. Davis, former Democratic nominee for president, occupies an apartment.

WOMAN TRAILED

From the talk of the two robbers, who locked the private banker, his wife, their niece, Nobe Kehaya and Robert Roberto, a friend, in a room while they ransacked the apartment, Kehaya gathered the bandits had trailed Mrs. Kehaya from New London, Conn., when she recently wore her jewels.

The two criminals, shabbily dressed, asked the house doorman to tell Kehaya "Mr. Guarini" wished to see him.

Kehaya, who has a banker friend of that name, asked the visitors be shown up. He was talking to his wife, who was dressed in lounging pajamas, his niece and friend at the time. The two infant daughters of the banker were asleep in the nursery.

Stepping from the elevator into the foyer of the Kehaya apartment, the two burglars boldly walked up to the banker, one pointing a pistol at him and demanded the jewels.

CHILDREN THREATENED

The banker answered:

"You made a mistake, my wife's gems are in a vault at the bank."

The men retorted:

"Cut that. We followed your wife to Connecticut and back. We know they are here. You have two small children asleep here. If you don't come across, they'll get it."

The threat scared Kehaya. He indicated to the robbers the closet where the jewels were. The occupants of the apartment, who included a governess, who joined the banker as the thieves approached, were herded into a room and locked in.

With their loot, they calmly descended by the elevator and strolled out of the house.

3 INDIAN GIRLS HELD IN SLAYING

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Three Indian girls were in custody today in connection with the slaying early yesterday of W. C. Bitney, 25, a sailor attached to the U. S. S. Sands.

Detective Sergt. Jerry Lightner said Patsey Edwards, 26, an Indian, admitted she had beaten Bitney with a heavy slipper in a fight in which the three girls were arrayed against three men.

Bitney died of a fractured skull, an autopsy revealed. His body was found at the waterfront.

Lightner said the three girls, Miss Edwards, Catherine Morrill and Bernice Scholder, had gone on a drinking party with Bitney, Louis Damron, a Marine, and a sailor named Dyer, of the Sands. Police asked officers aboard the Sands to place Dyer in custody.

Lightner said no charges would be filed until after the coroner held an inquest.

Mr. Phipps founded the Phipps psychiatric clinic here, and with his wife gave more than $2,000,000 to Johns Hopkins Hospital.

To the late Henry Phipps, Pittsburgh owes its two conservatories in North Side and Schenley Park, the Phipps apartments and the Phipps gymnasium and community house, both on the North Side, and numerous other buildings.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(Universal.)—"Wanted: One bona-fide nobleman with credentials."

That was the ad Will Oakland put in a newspaper. He wanted to give his Broadway night club patrons a host with dash, an air, and he was willing to give an unemployed nobleman just $40 a week to supply it.

Applicants came—100 of them—and today it looked as though Count Nicholas George de Rachat had won the job on the strength of a bright answer. Oakland asked:

"Can you play an instrument or sing?"

Said the count:

"Maybe, if I had a few drinks."

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that caused the cloudy and rainy condition the past two days is now in the Far Northeast. It caused additional rain over the Middle Atlantic and New England states yesterday and last night, but the skies have cleared now except in Northern New England. The Hudson Bay low extends southwestward over the plains states to the Far Southwest. High pressure is centered over North Carolina and Tennessee and covers the country east of the Mississippi. It is attended by clear skies and moderately cool weather, although the temperatures are rising over the Mississippi and Ohio Valley states. A high in the Far Northwest is causing a drop in temperature over that section to below freezing. Light to heavy frost occurred this morning over the Ohio Valley states and as far south as Southern Alabama.

MOUNT LEBANON MAN GUILTY OF ARSON

Garvin Convicted of Firing Downtown Building

Daniel M. Garvin, 69, of Mt. Lebanon, proprietor of Garvin's Lunch, 826 Liberty avenue, was found guilty of arson today before Visiting Judge R. R. Lewis. Sentence was postponed pending disposition of a motion for a new trial.

Firemen testified that when they broke into the second and third floors, occupied as storage and bake shop of the restaurant, July 16, in response to an alarm, they found oil and gasoline in open cans and that Garvin was on the second floor with paper cups filled with gasoline.

Assistant District Attorney Earl R. Jackson brought out that there was $38,000 insurance on the restaurant, which he contended was $16,000 in excess of its real value.

'FLYING NURSE' WRECK SEEN

LONDON, Oct. 7. — (INS.) — Confirmation of the sighting at sea of the wreckage of an airplane believed to be the American Nurse was received today by the James Nourse Company, owners of the steamer Jumna.

The wreckage, according to a letter sent by the commander of the vessel, was seen off the Azores at 5:20 p. m., October 1. Previous reports indicated the wreckage had been sighted in the Mediterranean.

The American Nurse disappeared on September 14 with three aboard. The commander's letter read:

"After making certain there was no life aboard the wreck, the Jumna proceeded on its voyage, due to approaching darkness."

ENSIGN FREED OF WIFE NO. 1

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The matrimonial triangle of Ensign George O. Augustine, U. S. N., apparently was straightened out today when District Judge R. P. Hill awarded the San Diego, Cal., naval officer a divorce from his first wife, Mrs. Marie Augustine, Washington, D. C., nurse.

The woman's plea for $1,000 alimony and cross petition for divorce were denied. She vanished from the court room yesterday and Judge Hill said she had placed herself in contempt of court by absenting herself during the proceedings. Augustine said:

"I don't think she will ever return."

Augustine and the nurse married in 1913, and, in the belief she died following their separation eight years later, Augustine remarried. When he learned she was alive he started efforts for divorce, but two decrees were set aside on technical grounds.

LATE RETURNS MAKE PENNA. DOUBTFUL

By COLE E. MORGAN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Michigan are playing a game of see-saw in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States.

New returns tabulated today showed Michigan adding 396 to Gov. Roosevelt's previous majority. Last week Michigan gave President Hoover 48 the best of the week's returns. Today's gain increased Roosevelt's Michigan majority to 1,057, with 16,675 ballots counted.

Pennsylvania on today's new returns gave Hoover a majority of 90, reducing Roosevelt's previous majority from 1,158 to 1,068 out of 28,782 ballots. Last week Pennsylvania gave Roosevelt a 271 majority.

Hoover got a majority of 65 on today's new returns from Ohio to bring his Ohio margin up to 175 with 22,709 ballots tabulated. Last week Roosevelt drew a 208 majority of the week's votes from Ohio.

Indiana for the second consecutive week today gave Hoover the best of the week's ballots. The margin of 33 reduced Roosevelt's Indiana majority to 861 with 16,241 votes recorded. Last week Hoover got a 55 majority from Indiana.

The margins Hoover has in Ohio and Roosevelt has in Pennsylvania, Michigan and Indiana, as a result of the see-sawing back and forth, leaves all of these states still so close that they cannot be classed as otherwise than doubtful, and extremely so at that.

SMITH TO SPEAK IN PHILA.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Both Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, will speak in Philadelphia before the presidential campaign ends, it had been revealed here today.

Smith will appear late this month, while Roosevelt will address a rally here on November 5, just three days before the election.

Latest developments in the Democratic campaign saw factional splits in this city wiped out in the swing to Roosevelt for President. National Committeeman Sedgwick Kistler, who opposed the nomination of Roosevelt at Chicago, issued a statement calling for whole-hearted support of Roosevelt.

How Men, Women Vote

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Revised tabulations of returns to date in the nation-wide presidential poll of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States follow. The table shows the division by states of the Hoover and Roosevelt vote, and how it is subdivided for each as between men and women. It also shows the potential electoral vote for each candidate.

PROBE DEATH IN ALMSHOUSE

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 7.—(INS.)—State and county authorities launched an investigation of the death of Lewis Goldberg, 61, former local merchant, at the Hillside Home of the Scranton Poor District.

Coroner F. A. Bartecchi, accompanied by state troopers and county detectives, visited the home after receiving reports that Goldberg's body was badly bruised and that his lungs had been punctured by several broken ribs.

Goldberg had been admitted to the home two days ago, according to authorities. They refused to comment pending an autopsy.

Westminster Head To Be Inaugurated

Students of Westminster College, faculty members and alumni will form the committees in charge of the inauguration day ceremonies for the Rev. Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, former Bellevue pastor, as president of the college. Dr. H. H. Donaldson, of Pittsburgh, president of the board of trustees, will preside at the inaugural service tomorrow afternoon, representing the board of trustees on the general committee.

G.O.P. Raising Religious Issue, Farley Says

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—James A. Farley, chairman of the National Democratic Committee and Gov. Roosevelt's campaign manager, charged in an address today before the Rhode Island Democratic convention that Republican leaders "have been conducting a campaign for the revival of the religious issue." He asserted:

"They are trying to persuade men and women who voted for Gov. Smith to vote against Gov. Roosevelt on the hypothesis that Roosevelt's nomination was in some way a reflection upon our candidate of four years ago."

Mr. Farley told the convention that he had just come from the New York state convention, where "perhaps the two greateset Democrats in the organization," Roosevelt and Smith, had combined to make the state ticket, headed by Lieut. Gov. Herbert Lehman.

Republicans, counting upon disunion in the Democratic party, he said, had been bitterly disappointed by the result of the New York convention.

REGISTRATION DECREASE IN STATE SEEN

HARRISBURG, Oct. 7.—With only one more day to register, Pennsylvania cities have enrolled for the coming election slightly more than one-half the number of votes registered for the 1928 presidential election.

Democrats and Republicans have been equally reluctant to register during the first two registration days this fall and figures compiled today by the Associated Press show a remarkable parallel between the total and party trends.

55 PER CENT ENROLL

Ten cities which enrolled a total of 1,155,942 voters for the 1928 election have thus far registered only 638,405, or 55 per cent of the last presidential total. Detailed figures from seven cities reveal 1932 two-day totals of 510,746 Republicans, or 52 per cent of the 1928 total of 972,576. The Democratic percentage is exactly the same, the figures being 95,602 for two days this year and 181,984 for the three days in 1928.

In nine cities for which the two-day totals of this year and 1928 are available, a decrease of 30 per cent in total registration is paralleled by drops of 30 per cent in Republican enrollment and 31 per cent in Democratic registration.

To equal the 1928 registration total, the cities of the state would have to register on the final day, tomorrow, practically as many voters as have been enrolled during the first two days.

FIGURES LOWER HERE

Comparative registration totals of representative cities for the first two days of 1928 and the first two days of 1932, follow:

BUTLER TO TAKE STUMP TUESDAY

HARRISBURG, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler will take the field next week to begin an active speaking campaign in behalf of the presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, Warren Van Dyke, Pennsylvania state Democratic chairman, announced today.

The itinerary for next week is: Mifflintown, October 11; Butler, October 12; Kittanning, October 13; Greensburg, October 14, and Bedford, October 15.

Gen. Butler will be in the field continuously until the November election, Van Dyke said, but the remainder of his itinerary has not yet been completed. The ex-Marine officer is expected here Saturday to confer with state Democratic leaders.

Jubilant Athlete Plays Paul Revere

DETROIT, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Paul Revere instinct (or something) came to life in Walter Stupek when the indoor baseball team he captained won the title. He set out to ring all the door bells he could find and tell sleeping residents about the grand victory.

They stuck their heads out of windows and yelled "police." A judge let Stupek off because there's another championship to be striven for in Chicago soon.

Big Socialist Vote Seen in November

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—A surprisingly large vote will be polled in the presidential election next month by the Socialist party, Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, of Milwaukee, predicted today.

Here to speak on behalf of the candidacy of Norman Thomas, Socialist presidential nominee, Hoan said the Socialist vote "would declare that America is waking up."

Dolly Gann Lauds President's Speech

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Oct. 7.—(INS.)—President Hoover's Des Moines speech "brilliantly summed up the present situation of the country," Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Charles Curtis, told a Republican rally here last night.

JUDGE HOLDS UP APPOINTMENT OF DEPUTIES

When Kline and Coyne factionists swarmed into Quarter Sessions Court, each asking the naming of four deputy constables in the First Ward, Judge Frank P. Patterson read them a rule of court which provides that appointment of a deputy constable cannot be approved until the ward alderman files in writing a promise to give work to the deputy. The Judge said:

"Under this none of your petitions is in order. Neither can the court permit itself to be made the instrument of political factionists. We hope the parties can bring about an amicable agreement."

HEARING ADJOURNED

Judge Patterson adjourned the hearing for two weeks, after specially deputizing two former deputies to serve in the meantime. They are William J. Duncan and William A. Riley.

Andrew M. Maloney, Coyne adherent, was appointed constable of the ward by Judge George V. Moore recently to fill the place vacated when Paul Walsh, son of Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, resigned.

Alderman Thomas Flanigan, a Kline-Walsh factionist, did not want Maloney for his constable, and the two played hide and seek for a week before Judge Patterson ordered Maloney to report to Flanigan for work. Maloney has kept his position as city detective. It is said he expects to keep both jobs, and have deputies perform his constable duties.

FLANIGAN ATTENDS

Maloney asked the approval as deputies last week of John J. Cain, ex-fireman; John J. Mobrey, ex-police operator; B. J. Scully, ex-policeman, and T. J. Macaluso, ex-county assessor. Judge Patterson set late yesterday afternoon for a hearing.

When they appeared Flanigan was also there with petitions for reappointment of the men who had been deputies under Paul Walsh. These are Duncan, Riley, Ross S. Talamo and Peter Lee.

Asked by the judge if he had entered on his duties as constable, Maloney said he had, adding that he had been given some civil writs to serve by the alderman, but no criminal warrants. At the close of the hearing Maloney asked Judge Patterson if he did not think it would be proper for the court to order that Flanigan direct all the warrants to Maloney, and if the latter could not serve them, he could have the deputies do it. Judge Patterson opposed this suggestion, and said he would let the matter stand until the final hearing.

Suits Ask $120,000 From Dravo Co.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Claims for alleged damages aggregating $120,000 constitute the basis for seven suits filed against the Dravo Construction Company, Pittsburgh, in the Circuit Court. These suits are results of the death of two workmen and injuries received by five other workers caused by a landslide at the Marmet Dam construction project last spring.

VILNO, Poland, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Polish border guards near here reported a Russian university student slipped across the frontier into Poland disguised as a cow. SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The Southern Pacific Railroad Company announced more than 1,000 men had been put to work repairing the main line over the Tehachapi Mountains, badly damaged by floods last Friday night, and that it appeared the road would be reopened to traffic next Wednesday.

Man Climbing Tree Mistaken For Squirrel

BOONE, Ia., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The squirrel Oscar R. Pearson shot at and hit failed to come tumbling down as he expected, so he climbed the tree to see if he couldn't shake it loose.

Two other squirrel hunters came along. Not noticing Pearson was in the tree, one of them blazed away.

Pearson's wounds are not serious, but there are many of them.

W. C. T. U. SHUNS BOTH PARTIES

COFFEYVILLE, Kan., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, Brooklyn, N. Y., president of the W. C. T. U., told the state convention of the organization yesterday "we cannot officially support candidates of the Republican or the Democratic parties in November." She said:

"Their platform planks serve notice on us that our votes were not wanted. We will take no part in the presidential campaign, but our members are urged to vote. Other questions than prohibition will determine the votes of our members and each will and must follow the dictates of her enlightened conscience but each should endeavor to find a way in which she can show her disapproval of the platform planks on prohibition."

FARMER TELLS OF 'TORTURE' KILLING

trusty, by Capt. Courson, who was temporarily in charge of the Sunbeam road camp when the New Jersey youth, neck trussed in a chain, feet and legs nailed in boot-liked wooden stocks, strangled to death in the "sweatbox" punishment chamber, Travis testified. The convict quoted Courson:

"You're on the wrong side, boys. The gate is open for you boys if you get on the right side."

Travis said he and Chandler walked off without commenting. The alleged pardon bribe was offered after a searching probe of Maillefert's death was launched by the Duval County grand jury, the witness testified.

Travis declared he is the only one of four men sentenced with him who has not received mercy from the State Pardon Board since Maillefert's death.

CONVICTS PARDONED

Two have been pardoned outright, he said. The third, Ed Hawkins, a defense witness, has had his term reduced from 12 to 5 years and will be released on parole in 26 days, Travis testified. All four men were given 12-year sentences.

Seeking to break down Travis' damaging testimony, Defense Attorney Averitt questioned the witness on cross-examination regarding his previous prison record.

Travis admitted he had seen previous prison servitude. He said:

"But this is my first experience in chain gangs. They don't have 'em in Pennsylvania where I'm from."

"There isn't another man in this courtroom who could stand the torture Jersey (Maillefert) did."

Judge George Couper Gibbs ordered this statement stricken from the record.

Travis charged that Maillefert's buddies double-crossed the dead youth by succumbing to the lure of the alleged pardon promises.

Everett Dawson, convict defense witness, was pardoned through the influence of Capt. J. F. Baker, whose removal as a chain gang camp warden was recommended by the Duval County grand jury which brought murder indictments against Courson and Higginbotham, but who is still in charge of Camp No. 36, and State Convict Superintendent Ben H. Dickens, Travis testified.

VICTIM 'BETRAYED'

The witness said:

"Maillefert's friends double-crossed him. Dawson, his buddy, is out because Dickens and Baker helped him, and we (the convicts testifying for the prosecution) are still in."

Defense Attorney Fuller Warden asked:

"You've sort of got it in for the South, haven't you?"

Travis replied:

"Not since I met the people of Duval County. They're civilized. But there's no reason to torture a man just because he's from the North, like they've done to me."

Travis said he had undergone several operations as a result of the "way they treated me." He declared:

"I've seen men work until they dropped."

An intricate stool-pigeon system was operated by Capt. Courson at the Sunbeam road camp, Travis charged. He said:

"The first man who got to him with a story was made a trusty."

CHAPLAIN IN PEN FOUND GUILTY

JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 7.—(INS.)—The Rev. Arthur G. Larkey, former assistant chaplain of Michigan State Prison, today was convicted of taking funds entrusted to him by prison inmates. The jury deliberated 45 minutes.

The former chaplain accepted the verdict without emotion. He was accused specifically of converting to his own use $387.50 entrusted to him by Floyd Maxon, crippled war veteran inmate of the prison. Larkey borrowed $500 for Maxon on his bonus certificate and deposited the money in the bank in his own name. He could account for only $112.50 of it.

ity. Whatever can be, will be pulled out of the mess.

GERMANY AND France both decline Britain's suggestion for a four-power meeting in London. Those two nations know that in the next chapter of war history they, both, will figure.

Germany demands military equality with other powers, since there is no disarmament. France says "No." England says:

"Perhaps, let us discuss it."

WHILE THE discussion proceeds, the science of war may make all nations equal by making them all equally dangerous, as the possession of a pistol makes men equal in killing power.

Aerial torpedoes, carrying explosives and deadly gases hundreds of miles, even across the ocean, with no crew, may make possible a new "barrage" that no country could resist.

Men will stop fighting, at first, because war will have become too dangerous, and later because they will have become civilized.

IN LOS ANGELES bankers in convention urge the government to cut taxes and debt.

John J. O'Connor, finance department manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce, tells the American Life convention in Toronto that our government could easily cut eight hundred millions from its annual expense account. That sum seems worth saving, especially now that we have learned that the sky is NOT the limit.

MEANWHILE, Uncle Sam, his credit still good, goes merrily along borrowing. He is just now borrowing four hundred and fifty millions for four and a half years at three per cent. Part of the money goes to pay off three hundred and thirty odd millions of old debts, adding about $117,000,000 to the public debt.

He will also borrow $75,000,000, pay off $50,278,000 of old debts and add about $25,000,000 to the public debt.

One of Dickens' most lovable characters used to say, as he paid an old note with a new note:

"Thank God, that debt is paid."

Captain of Liner Escapes Drowning

BOMBAY, India, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Capt. Banor, of the American liner President Van Buren, now on a world tour, narrowly escaped death by drowning today while he was bathing at Juhu, Bombay's seaside resort.

An expert swimmer, he swam out to the open sea, but was carried off by a swift current, and later was found unconscious on the beach by fishermen.

Poison Gin Found in Car Of Rose Allen's Brother

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Contents of a bottle found in the automobile operated by William Allen, whose brother, Edward, was acquitted of having slain Francis A. Donaldson III, has been analyzed as poison alcohol, flavored with essence of gin, two city chemists reported to the office of Superintendent of Police William B. Mills today.

That the beverage was of deadly nature was the mutual opinion of Dr. Charles Lampert, city chemist, and a noted authority on analysis of this type, and Dr. Edward Burke.

Police found the bottle in Allen's auto after it crashed into a milk wagon driven by Morris Toll. Toll was slightly hurt.

Investigation disclosed Allen's automobile really belonged to his debutante sister, Rose, whose love affair with Donaldson precipitated his death. As she had turned against Edward when he was tried for the killing, Rose spurned to aid her younger brother when he was arrested. She told police her family took her machine away from her six months ago.

Armed Force Hunts Kidnapers of Doctor

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Dr. James Faveluke, wealthy Buenos Aires physician who was kidnaped for ransom last Tuesday, has been located on Carolina Island, near Campana, on the Parana River, in the hands of his captors. A navy motorboat set out immediately for the island and a clash with the kidnapers was expected.

The kidnapers, in a letter, demanded $25,000 ransom.

ILL SCIENTIST FIGHTS TYPHUS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Dr. R. E. Dyer, scientist of the National Institute of Health, remained seriously ill of endemic typhus fever today while fleas fed on the blood of the stricken research worker.

Dr. Dyer, it is believed by officials of the United States Public Health Service, became infected from a flea bite while conducting experiments with forms of European typhus or "jail fever." Although his illness is serious, the scientist's recovery is confidently predicted.

The fleas that now feed on Dr. Dyer will next be allowed to bite ginea pigs. If the animals develop typhus, the experiment will prove that fleas can transmit the disease to humans.

Previously this experiment could not be made without subjecting a person to the dreaded typhus germ, which is usually disabling and often fatal.

Russia's Education Program Praised

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Soviet Russia successfully undertook a tremendous program of adult education, Susan M. Kingsbury and Mildred Fairchild, of the Bryn Mawr College faculty, who were back today from a tour of Russia, declared.

So effective has the plan been, they said, that illiteracy of the population was reduced from 78 per cent to 25 per cent.

SMUGGLERS GET PIGS DRUNK

BUDAPEST, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Complaint was made to the Hungarian government today that smugglers are evading the strict customs laws on hogs by taking intoxicated young pigs across the border dressed up like babies in perambulators.

The smugglers, according to the Austrian complaint, buy the young pigs in Hungary for about 50 cents apiece. They then force brandy down their throats to make them drunk and quiet, doll them up like infants and wheel them over into Austria—where they bring $2 each.

Hundreds of young pigs were smuggled over in this manner during September.

13 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

CITY TAX FUNDS STILL BELOW ESTIMATE

Collections $3,029,032 Short of Budget Requirements

City tax collections have failed to improve during the third quarter with the result that the incoming revenues are still 6.3 per cent behind even the estimated collections, according to a report issued by Controller James P. Kerr.

Recently Controller Kerr reduced the salaries of his office force 10 per cent in addition to a 5 per cent cut previously made.

COLLECTIONS DROP

Current tax collections for the first nine months of the year are $3,021,463 less than the same period last year. This figure, however, includes the tax reduction of 2½ mills made by City Council at the beginning of the year.

The city enters the final quarter of the year facing a larger amount of uncollected taxes than last year. Last year at this time, the city was $2,461,281 short of budget requirements in its current tax collections. This year this figure is increased to $3,029,032.

Recent furlough measures taken by the Mayor and Council have set up savings in expenditures estimated at more than $1,000,000. It was believed at the time this action was taken in August that the savings would cover the deficit, but with collections still falling, it appears that further economy action may be necessary at City Hall.

BIGGER DEFICIT SEEN

Not only tax collections have fallen off this year, but miscellaneous revenues of the city have slumped to the extent of $1,076,922 at the end of the third quarter. This drop is caused by the fact that two very large items which the city received last year will not come in this year. These are the guarantee of deposit fund of $500,000 and the refund from the American Reduction Company of $350,000.

The city entered the year with a $900,000 deficit. The city deficit at the end of the year, taking into account only a part of the furlough savings, has been estimated by the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board at $2,300,000.

Wellesley Girls Name Rogers Classmate

WELLESLEY, Mass., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Will Rogers, cowboy humorist, has been selected by Wellesley College seniors as their honorary classmate.

Each year the seniors nominate an honorary member of the class, who is invited to deliver the traditional address at the class supper in June.

Last year George Arliss, the actor, was so honored.

CHARGE PATIENT SLEW DOCTOR

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—Climaxing the fatal shooting of a physician by his patient, murder charges were filed against the invalid, Fred Frank Erwing, 40, retired oil man, following a Coroner's inquest into the death of Dr. O. Paul Rieger, Hollywood physician.

Erwing is gravely ill of pneumonia in Hollywood Hospital. Dr. Rieger died several days ago of a bullet wound suffered when Erwing snatched a gun from under his pillow and fired at him.

Dr. Tad A. Rieger, brother of the slain doctor, testified that his brother told him, during periods of consciousness after he was wounded, that the shooting occurred immediately after Erwing cried out:

"Somebody's going to get killed."

Mrs. Erwing, who was an eyewitness to the tragedy, described the shooting and said she was positive her husband was delirious.

Pittsburghers Named To Musical Groups

Michael Cicco, 6902 Fifth avenue; Richard Smith and Don Rodgers, Wilkinsburg; George Harvey, of Homestead; Adam Kuzniar and Nelson Bramer, Ambridge, and John Young, Greensburg, are among the musicians accepted for membership in Ohio University music organizations at Athens, O., following tryouts early this week.

Smith, Rogers, Harvey and Young are members of the men's glee club, while Cicco, Kuzniar and Bramer are violinists in the university orchestra.

SHE ALMOST LOST HER HUSBAND

Women Should Not Grow Careless About Their Weight

She made the mistake so many women make. She grew careless about her figure, allowed herself to get fat. And her husband—well, slender women do attract.

If your figure is spoiled by excess fat, you should know about the Harvin System of Reducing. It is a system devised by specialists to take off fat harmlessly and pleasantly.

Ask your druggist for a package of Harvin Salts, which contains the famous Harvin Plan of Eating.

Take half a teaspoonful of the Salts every morning in a glass of water and eat according to the Plan.

In a few short weeks your friends will be amazed at the change. Surplus fat will have disappeared; your figure will be slim—you'll have the kind of a figure men admire and women envy. And your complexion, too, will be clear, healthful, radiant.

Harvin Salts, as pleasant to take as an after-dinner mint, stimulate sluggish glands, the cause of overweight in 80 out of 100 persons. They also keep your intestinal tract free from poisonous waste, and correct excessive acidity.

The Harvin Plan of Eating allows you to have the foods you enjoy most—even sweets are not denied. Yet it keeps your weight under scientific control at all times.

Start today to lose fat, to have a slender figure. Ask for a package of Harvin Salts. Only 65c for the six weeks' package at all

TAX PAYMENTS DROP MILLION IN YEAR

County tax collections are more than $1,000,000 less this year than in 1931, according to figures submitted by the County Treasurer's office to the Commissioners.

The total collected on September 15 was $14,109,730.22, which is $1,133,921.80 less than last year when the total was $15,243,652.02.

The County Commissioners are not considering making county taxes payable in instalments, they said yesterday. The treasurer, in a letter, asked the commissioners if any such plan was being contemplated for 1933.

STATE MILITIA OFFICERS MEET

A Pittsburgh group of commissioned National Guard officers is in Williamsport attending the fourteenth annual convention, National Guard Association of Pennsylvania today and tomorrow.

Col. Wood

Col. Eric Fisher Wood is president of the association. Maj. Gen. William G. Price, Jr., commander of the 28th Division, who has announced he will retire from service as head of the Pennsylvania National Guard next spring, was expected to be present, along with other officers prominent in the guard activities.

TAX COLLECTION RESTRAINED

On petition of Harry A. Pearson and John C. Hattman, taxpayers, a preliminary injunction was granted by Judge W. Heber Dithrich restraining Frank J. Bayer, Kennedy Township tax collector, from further collection of road taxes for 1932, pending a final hearing Monday next.

The petition said Bayer has not filed a required bond, that the township supervisors have not fixed the amount of the bond for road tax collections, and that the secretary of the board of supervisors delivered road tax duplicates to Bayer without first requiring him to file bond to the state in the amount of taxes assessed.

Franklin Bus Line Seeks Mail Service

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 7.—Postal inspectors today investigated the request of a bus line to carry mails between here and Mercer. The plan would care for mails ordinarily routed by railroad, but which have been handicapped greatly by withdrawal of trains. No decision has yet been reached.

Heavy Rains Relieve Drought In Venango

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 7.—Rainfall totalling 1.28 inches in 36 hours brought relief to the drought situation in Venango County. The Allegheny River and French Creek, are moving up beyond the zero mark, held for five weeks. Many springs, gone dry, may not be replenished, oldtimers declare, until after the winter's snows.

WRIGLEY DOLLARS BRIGHTEN DULL DAY

Rain Can't Check Flow of Dollar Bills; Wrigley's the Best, Rain or Shine.

By MISS MINT

"A terrible day," seemed to be the battle cry in the city yesterday, and with just cause. The drizzling rain was depressing. But Wrigley's Dollars tended to brighten the day for a vast number of people. Out-of-town visitors resented, perhaps, the nasty weather with which they were greeted, but when I asked MR. SHIRL M. RUDOLPH, Long Beach, Michigan City, Indiana, to show me his package of Wrigley's, and I presented him with a new, crackly dollar, a 'smile came shinin' thru'! "Wrigley's in the new package is most refreshing," he remarked, "I have used Wrigley's for many years." We hope you will continue to use it for many more years, Mr. Rudolph.

The rain didn't keep all the folks at home yesterday, for many were in line for dollar bills, among them we list:

FERN SEVER, 5531 McCandless Ave., A. HOFFMAN, 2117 East Street, M. TRAHEY, Steubenville Pike, Gayly; ANNA McWILLIAMS, 368 West Penn Place; C. H. WOLRATH, 4630 Bayard Street, SUE LOONEY, 1907 Converse Street, J. O. BICK, Coronado Apartments, BETTY DAVIS, 85 West Industry Street, AGNES McGROGAN, 317 Fifth Avenue, Carnegie; ELEANOR M. GRADY, 348 South Millvale Avenue.

Always carry Wrigley's gum with you, morning, noon, and night, rain or shine. It is goodness itself, but a Wrigley Dollar is a double inducement. Carry Wrigley's, get a crisp, new, crackly dollar. What a delightful combination.

PROPOSE PUBLIC SHARE TRANSIT LINE COSTS

Unfair competition, oppressive special taxes and a variety of other developments are responsible for the serious condition of transportation facilities in Pittsburgh and other cities, according to a report adopted by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce last night. It said:

"A program for efficient and co-ordinated city passenger transportation, taking into account the public benefits to be obtained, is vital to the stability of property values, and the orderly development of urban communities. Where the public interest requires additions to transit facilities and the cost cannot be financed on the basis of prospective receipts from patrons, the public should participate in the expense, with assessments against property owners who receive any special benefits."

The report, adopted unanimously, was presented by the committee on municipal affairs, of which William P. Witherow is chairman. The chamber took up the subject of the request of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which is taking a referendum of chambers of commerce throughout the country on the state of transportation service in all the cities.

In presenting the report to the board, Chairman Witherow said a special committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, embracing in its membership 15 leading business men of the country, recently completed a study of several months into the various systems of city passenger transportation.

It found that despite the increased use of private automobile and taxicab the large industrial centers are almost as largely dependent on their mass transportation agencies as ever. These agencies, declares the committee report, have a capital investment of $3,350,000,000 at stake, and in 1930 carried more than 14,000,000,000 passengers, which is substantially as many as they carried 10 years ago.

The directors at last night's meeting adopted a resolution indorsing the Welfare Fund campaign and urging business corporations as well as individuals to make generous contributions.

Trolley Lines Speed Service to Boroughs

New and faster schedules for street cars serving Sheraden, Ingram, Crafton and Carnegie will go into effect next Monday, officials of the Pittsburgh Railways Company announced today. Greater speed with safety will be obtained, it was said, by rewinding of motors and a change in the braking system. The new schedules call for a 30-minute run from Penn avenue and Stanwix street to Carnegie.

Two Angora Cats Seized to Pay Doctor Bill

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—It seems odd perhaps, but in Evanston it's possible to pay a doctor's bill with cats.

Constable Henry Kluge was sent out yesterday to pick up a pair of Angora cats, valued at $200 each, after a physician had received a judgment lien on the personal property of Waldemar De Bille for services given in connection with a broken arm suffered by Mrs. De Bille three years ago.

Kaufmann's began, you know, as a Men's Clothing Store—61 years ago. So we have had plenty of time to know our clothing. That knowing is back of the Plus-Six label. It seems scarcely believable that Plus-Six Suits and Topcoats could be better than they were last season (at the price). And all we ask is that you look at the fabrics—that you look at the tailoring with hand-operations at all those points that matter most in good clothing. And regardless of your build, we can fit you.

BONUS VETS END MEETING WITH CHEERS, HOOTS

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—With a final outburst of mingled cheers and hoots, the first national convention of the Bonus Expeditionary Force came to a close last night in a cold, damp warehouse that served as the meeting hall.

Today, tattered delegations, representing more than a score of states, departed in dilapidated automobiles, trucks or hitchhiked.

The delegates were in agreement on most of the major issues they discussed in the three-day convention, but there was evidence of factional strife up until the final gavel.

The convention elected national staff officers yesterday after hours of vigorous debate while a disgruntled group, refused admission while the ballot was being taken, stormed the doors of the hall and shouted challenges to the officers of the day.

The complete list of officers, including National Commander Walter W. Waters, who was re-elected Tuesday, comprises George Kleinholz, Portland, Ore., vice commander; Hoke Smith, Bradford County, Fla., national field officer; George Anthony, Camp Huska, near Chicago, national contact officer; H. C. Failey, Seattle and Uniontown, national adjutant, and John W. Rankin, Fayette County Commissioner, Uniontown, national finance officer.

The convention finally adopted a set of by-laws and a national policy which includes the following points:

"Support of honest persons in both parties; support of congressional candidates favoring just veteran legislation; 100 per cent opposition to Herbert Hoover, and opposition to any third party movement prior to November 9, 1932."

Chicago was selected for next year's convention.

Back Broken, Youth Attend University

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—It takes more than a broken back and lacerated hand to keep James McCloskey, of Dubuque, Ia., from attending classes as a junior medical student at the University of Iowa. He was hurt in an automobile accident in July.

With the aid of a nurse and a fraternity brother he is moved from his bed to a stretcher and taken to class rooms. His notes are taken by Thomas Salm, a fraternity brother, and he is given oral examinations by instructors.

Wealthy Cashier Gone, Bank Closes

LEWISVILLE, Ind., Oct. 7.—(INS.)—The First National Bank here, a $206,000 institution organized in 1900, of which Luther F. Symons, state bank commissioner, is president, was closed today as the result of the mysterious disappearance of Hawley Hall, the cashier.

Hall, who enjoyed the reputation of being the wealthiest man in Henry County, has been missing since September 23.

2 YOUTHS FIGHT COLLEGE DRILL

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Briefs filed by two suspended students, setting forth their views against compulsory military training in college, were before the Board of Regents of the University of Maryland today.

The scheduled meeting of the board for today was postponed until next week.

Ennis Coale, a freshman from Belair, Md., said he opposed the course on religious grounds, while Wayne Lees, of Washington, opposed military training because of principle.

Erring Policemen Given Own Medicine

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 7.—Regulations prohibit police from riding to work in private automobiles, but when Chief Ratcliffe checked up on motor cars parked in restricted areas near district police stations he found 14 of the 30 cars were owned by policemen. He ordered $1 fines for each, and gave them a good talking to besides.

Former Railroader Dies of Apoplexy

Stricken with apoplexy while visiting a friend in FV tower, Pennsylvania Railroad, at Trafford City, last night, Jerry Miller, 62, of Trafford City, a retired railroader, died before the arrival of a physician.

Jailed as Drunk, Dies of Pneumonia

John M. Gerow, 56, of Tionesta, Pa., died last night in the county jail, where he was serving a 10-day sentence for drunkenness, according to the Coroner's report. Death resulted from pneumonia.

Pittsburgher's Auto In Crash, Man Dies

HARRISBURG, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Jacob Hinterleiter, 65, of Canton, O., died in a hospital here today of injuries suffered in an automobile collision Wednesday.

Hospital reports said the car of Robert Hindmarsh, of Canton, collided with that of John Casey, of Pittsburgh. Mrs. Suzanne McIlvain, riding in the Casey car, is recovering in a hospital.

MAN FINED $100 FOR 'JOB' BOAST

A boast that Vincent Caelfo, 23, of Soho, denied making in a Twenty-first street garage while he waited for his car to be repaired, cost him a $100 fine in Central Police Court today. The police testified Caelfo, who admitted having been arrested before as a speakeasy proprietor, had boasted he intended to "pull off a few jobs" at Cheswick.

Louis Zevolta, 26, of North Euclid avenue, arrested because he happened to be with Caelfo, was exonerated by the police, but Magistrate Leo Rothenberg fined him $10 on a suspicious person charge. Rothenberg did not explain this fine.

Celebrators Forced To Pay Fine to Bride

LAMAR, Col., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—A dozen youths charged with disturbance of the peace at the charivari were ordered by Police Magistrate Earle Garvin to pay the usual fine and costs to the bride and bridegroom, because, he said, in these times they need it. The couple will receive $9.

PICKETS RENEW FARM SIEGE

Associated Press.

Another protracted siege of several midwestern cities was apparent today in the farm strike for higher prices.

Sioux Falls, S. D., was the center of anti-marketing activities as several hundred farmers established semi-permanent picket stations on 13 highways leading into the city. They began their strike blockade yesterday and succeeded to a point that only a few truckers attempted, unsuccessfully, to enter the city.

Persons close to the Chicago milk situation alluded to the possibility that racketeers, seeking to control the Chicago Milk Drivers' Union, had bombed the plant of the Burlington (Wis.) Co-Operative Milk Association, as part of a campaign of intimidation.

At Granite Falls, Minn., charges of manslaughter in the third degree were filed against Ole Anderson and his son, Leonard, 19, in connection with the shooting Tuesday night of Nordahl Peterson, 25-year-old Canby (Minn.), farmer at a picket station.

'Airplane Judge' Speeds Justice In Far North

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Three burglars were in jail here today after a judge, who tried them, and a police inspector, who took them in custody, made a 480-mile round-trip into the northland during daylight hours of just one day to accomplish their mission.

J. E. Lussier, the judge, and Inspector Fowell, of the mounted police, made the flight to Isle a la Crosse, 220 miles north of here, yesterday. They returned before dark with the three men, who had broken into the Hudson Bay Company's store there. This was believed to have set a record for speedy performance of the law in the Far North.

O'MARA SEEN AS IRISH CHIEF

DUBLIN, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Stephen O'Mara, of Limerick, who was an Irish spokesman at Washington during the era of the "Black and Tans," probably will be asked to accept the post of Governor General of the Irish Free State to succeed Governor General James R. McNeill, it was reported here today.

The appointment is expected to be made some time during the next three months, the Irish Independent said.

Indian Mostems To Renew Parleys

BOMBAY, Ind., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—India's Moslem leaders decided today to hold an informal conference October 15 as a preliminary to a further discussion with Hindu leaders for a settlement of the communal problem over which Mahatma Gandhi recently began a "fast to the death."

WARNS DRIVERS ON SPEED

If motorists realized that automobiles driven 60 miles an hour strike with the force of a similar car dropping from a 10-story building, drivers would cut down automobile accidents, Walter Rosenbaum, education section chairman of the Better Traffic Committee, said today.

He gave the warning in connection with the annual traffic essay contest, which is engaging the attention of 80,000 pupils in city and parish schools.

The subject for division two, which includes the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, is, "When I become a driver, what can I do to become skillful instead of reckless?"

Mr. Rosenbaum, explaining the force of a car, declared that a car going 40 miles an hour strikes four times as hard as one going at a 20-mile rate. The essay contest closes October 24.

Coach Stagg In Football Show

An original idea in the presentation of unique musical effects over the air is inaugurated over an NBC network, including KDKA, tonight at 8 o'clock during the "Chocolateers" program, when Phil Spitalny leads an augmented orchestra combined with a choir of voices. Spitalny's scheme is to use the voices for coloring, giving them parts which would ordinarily be given to groups of instruments, with only occasional words to sing.

Mr. Stagg

Amos Alonzo Stagg, Chicago's 71-year-old dean of football coaches, is presented by Christy Walsh as guest speaker during the All-America Football Show over a Columbia chain and WJAS at 9 o'clock tonight—on the eve of the Yale-Chicago game which brings him back to his alma mater's gridiron for the first time in 40 years. Other highlights are the re-enactments of the two most spectacular plays of the week and Walsh's announcement of the 10 best players of the week.

Mrs. Edith E. Wurtheimer, soprano, is featured with a string ensemble under the direction of Ralph Federer in a program of semi-classical and popular selections, presented on WCAE tonight at 7:30 in connection with Frank and Seder's Silver Anniversary celebration. Talks by Dorothy Randall, the "Madelon" of the Sun-Telegraph's weekly shopping column, "Madelon's Mirror," and other fashion and shopping authorities of the Pittsburgh district also are heard.

Listening In On Radio Gossip

Invariably Georgie Price reads his material to his Japanese chauffeur and colored cook before he thinks about bringing it into the studio for rehearsal. If they laugh and like it, the script is unchanged, but if it doesn't register, out it goes . . . Leo Reisman usually sits down while directing a studio rehearsal. . . . Rudy Vallee leans on a music stand and Rubinoff frequently leaves an assistant to keep time while he rushes into and out of the control room. . . . Aside from arranging music, which he likes to do day or night regardless of office hours, Victor Young goes in for photography in a big way. He has taken over 10,000 pictures.

Mr. Price

Members of the sound effects department of NBC's Chicago studios, who claim to be able to reproduce any known sound, admit they are balked by the patter of a kitten's feet on a carpeted floor, the whiz of an arrow during a battle scene in which the entire cast is shouting and the fall of a barometer. . . . All of which means. . .?

Clyde McCoy, the band leader, has a collection of 223 pipes, ranging in price from 50 cents to $45.

Another good chatting average—during one of his sports talks on WWSW recently, Ed Sprague reeled off his news at the rate of 172½ words per minute for a 14-minute period.

Their nicknames . . . To their pals their known as "Hack" Wilson, "Gus" Haenschen, "Pat" Kelly, "Ginny" Rea, "Kel" Keech, "Nat" Shilkret, "B. A." Two Chinese plays written by Samuel Kwok Ying Sung, Carnegie Tech student, of Dormont, were produced recently over WTAM, Cleveland. Several of Mr. Sung's works also have been heard over KDKA.

Dr. Webster N. Jones, director of the College of Engineering at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, speaks on the topic, "Training the Technical Man," on KDKA at 5.

KIDNAP THREAT AIDS THEFT

DETROIT, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Two telephone threats to kidnap his 12-year-old son, received yesterday by Representative Clarence J. McLeod, were a ruse intended to clear the way for robbery of the McLeod home, police said today.

After the second call was received, Representative and Mrs. McLeod hurried to the school where their son, Clarence, Jr., is a pupil, and while they were gone the house was entered by two men. The maid said the men were Negroes.

The McLeods found their son safe at the home of Mrs. McLeod's mother.

The maid told police that the two men entered the house soon after the McLeods left and that one of them struck her on the head "and dragged me around." Then she fainted.

Nothing was reported taken from the house. Police said the men probably were frightened away by the maid's screams.

Houston Resigns As U. S. Court Clerk

Attorney Charles I. Houston, deputy clerk in the office of J. Wood Clark, clerk of the United States District Court, has resigned and will engage in practice of law at St. Marys, Pa., associated with Attorney James H. Thompson.

Houston has been in the government service six years, and three years ago was admitted to practice of law.

COX CONSIDERS EASTERN DRIVE

Father James R. Cox, presidential candidate on the Jobless party platform, was considering today whether he will carry his campaign into the East. He arrived in Pittsburgh last night from the West, coming from the coast by plane.

The caravan of the priest, which he left in the West, is expected to come directly to Pittsburgh, instead of stopping at a number of places as originally had been planned.

WARNS WIFE NAMING BEAUTY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Attorney Harry Sokolow has thrown down the gauntlet on behalf of his client, Albert J. Cohen screen writer, who is being sued for divorce by Mrs. Estelle A. Cohen, who charged he had been "entirely too friendly" with Corliss Palmer, the "Georgia Peach," wife of Eugene V. Brewster, former millionaire magazine publisher. The lawyer said:

"If Mrs. Cohen plunges my client into a domestic scandal, she will kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, because Mr. Cohen's employers will take advantage of a 'moral clause' in his contract and he'll be out of work. Mr. Cohen intends to vindicate himself on these unpleasant charges."

Mr. and Mrs. Cohen faced each other in a preliminary court battle at a temporary alimony hearing. Mrs. Cohen, who also has filed a $100,000 heart balm suit against the beauty, was awarded $35 a week temporary alimony for support of herself and her 5-year-old daughter, Barbara.

Marine Corps Needs Men for Reserves

COLLISION KILLS FATHER OF 11

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Martin Mulroy, 45, father of 11 children, was killed, and two other men were injured as their automobile crashed into a concrete culvert at Moyer, near Connellsville, last night.

Matthew Collins, 40, suffered a fractured skull and his condition was reported critical. He was taken to the Connellsville State Hospital with Edward McGivern, 40, who also was injured.

The men, who lived at Everson, were riding from Connellsville to the Pleasant Valley Country Club.

WIFE HELD IN POISON DEATH

L'ANSE, Mich., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—A widow who claims, officers said, that she gave her late husband poison at his request to relieve severe stomach pains, was held for trial today on a charge of first-degree murder.

She is Mrs. Elizabeth Ziolkowski, 60, half-breed Indian. She was bound over for trial yesterday after she had waived examination.

Her statement, which Sheriff William Netti, of Baraga County, and Fred Ennis, state police detective, said was tantamount to a confession that she was responsible for the death of her husband, John Ziolkowski, 35, was made after her arraignment.

Officers said they also would investigate the death of the woman's second husband, John Boston, which occurred in 1928. They said they were told the woman mixed Boston a hot drink shortly before his death.

Both Boston and Ziolkowski, they said, were insured—Boston for $1,800 and Ziolkowski for $2,500. Both were World War veterans.

U. S. SENDS IDLE VET TO PRISON AS HE ASKED

Marco DiPietro, 42, of 13 Boundary street, a veteran of the World War, today at his own request was to be taken to the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., on a technical charge of being a parole violator, by Deputy United States Marshal J. F. Austin.

Since his release on parole from Leavenworth September 20, 1930, after serving 11 years of a 20-year sentence imposed by a court martial of the United States Army of Occupation in Germany, DiPietro has made repeated requests to federal authorities here to be returned to the penitentiary.

He said that since returning here on parole he had been unable to find employment and lacked funds for food and shelter. The case was reported to Sanford Bates, director of the Federal Prison Bureau, who directed that DiPietro be returned to Leavenworth on the technical charge of being a parole violator.

Deputy Marshal Austin will also deliver to the federal authorities at Chicago another prisoner, John Savardo, who was arrested here, after he was alleged to have jumped a $5,000 bond, following indictment on a charge of impersonating a prohibition agent.

PINCHOT FAVORS RATE RELIEF

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The Board of Trade announced Gov. Pinchot will refer to the Public Service Commission the matter of establishing lower intrastate bituminous coal rates from Pennsylvania mines to the Erie region to match similar rates from Ohio mines to lake ports. The Governor said, in a message to the board:

"I see no reason why it should not be acted upon simultaneously with the appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission. I am immensely pleased you approve the proposal to seek fair rates from Western Pennsylvania mines to the lakes."

Cruelty Charged By Wife in Suit

Ruth S. Porter, 6356 Wilkins avenue, filed a divorce suit against Roy S. Porter, of 7 Union avenue, Crafton, charging cruelty.

Divorce suits were also filed by Ralph L. Herrington against Viola B. Herrington, Hazel Hunger against Joseph Hunger, Albertine W. Musser against Layman E. Musser, Emmalew Heinen against Eugene Heinen.

Beauty Shop Aids Women Patients Regain Sanity

NORFOLK, Neb., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The beauty shop is an aid to sanity at the Norfolk State Hospital for the Insane.

Women patients who have grown careless about personal appearance are given treatments in the shop and, as a result, many of them take a new interest in life. Mrs. Nellie Benson, a member of the State Board of Control, said hospital authorities credit the shop with the first stimulus for two recent recoveries.

The shop was established for $150. A regular employe, assisted by patients, is in charge.

BIRTH CONTROL FOES REPLY

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The National Catholic Alumni Federation made public today a protest sent to President Hoover and Secretary Hurley against the recent report of James R. Beverly, governor of Porto Rico, in which he advocated birth control as a solution to the island's problem of over-population.

The federation, composed of the alumni associations of leading Catholic colleges and universities in this country with a combined membership of 300,000, declared:

"Gov. Beverly has certainly exceeded the proper functions of his office in advocating such practices among the Porto Rican people."

It requested the Governor be admonished to cease advocating birth control and "be required to publicly withdraw the recomendation that he has already made, since it is contrary to the laws of the country."

TUNNEY URGES YOUTH TO RULE GOVERNMENT

The young men and women of America should take political affairs out of the hands of the older statesmen, Gene Tunney advises in his article, "Political Graybeards and Youth, in the November Cosmopolitan. He says:

"The political-minded young man has far more energy, spirit, courage, vision, idealism and honesty than the usual run of graybeard politicians. It is claimed that youth is unreliable, is not in the habit of thinking through, is impulsive and dangerous when in high places. Yet, when complementing the reputedly great secretaries of the Treasury, the flatterers invariably say: 'The greatest Secretary of the Treasury since Alexander Hamilton.' Hamilton happened to have been at the ripe age of 32 when he established the system of government financing that has hardly been changed to this day.

CITES OTHERS

"It is thought by many of his friends and associates that Dr. Robert Hutchins, 33, president of the University of Chicago, if called upon, would do as good a job as Alexander Hamilton did. And Kingsland Macy, the young political leader of New York state, matches the Hamilton genius in party organization. Mr. Macy has the distinction of having told the Governor of the New York Stock Exchange in 1928, during the early days of the stock-market inflation, that the whole thing was insanity—a crazy plot between important politicians and avaricious gamblers that would lead the country to ruin if it were not stopped. And accordingly, rather than be a party to it, he resigned his seat in the Stock Exchange. All his time and energies are spent now in the interest of good government."

Mr. Tunney, in his Cosmopolitan article, names as examples of youthful leadership, David Ingalls, of Cleveland; Trubee Davison, of New York; James A. Douglas, of Chicago, and Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, of Long Island. These "independent and intelligent young men" by entering their names as candidates for office are a few who are determined to make the opportunity to take an active interest in their government, according to Mr. Tunney.

POINTS TO HISTORY

He points out that in the history of our revolution and the struggle for national existence and constitutional government, we find the names of such men as Hamilton, Patrick Henry, and Charles Pinckney.

Mr. Tunney deplores the fact that the youth of other nations—especially the college students—take an active interest in the government of their countries, whereas the average American student is indifferent. He even advocates curtailing the American student's participation in sports if it kills his interest in the government of his country. He declares:

"Enthusiasm for athletics and sports is a wholesome tendency, and one that should be encouraged when kept within certain bounds. But when this enthusiasm reaches the fanatical stage and precludes any sort of intellectual interest, then it becomes a narrowing influence and should be checked in the student's interest, if for no other reason."

WILL SIMPLIFY COUNTY BUDGET

The County Controller and Commissioners are getting ready for their 1933 budget making. The budget will be made up so that there will be no leeway for slipping over any items during the year that might have been forgotten at the beginning, if Commissioner C. C. McGovern has his way.

Suggesting that the budget printing be held up until after the first of the year so that all 1932 expenditures can be included in the budget figures, McGovern said:

"The way budgets have been built up and inflated in the past by chief clerks nobody could figure them out with the complicated transfers required. We will try to start off this year with a simpler budget."

The Commissioners will request Controller Robert G. Woodside to agree to withhold the printing until after the first of the year.

Incinerating Site Approval Sought

Seeking approval of a site for a garbage incinerating plant, the Borough of Homestead filed a petition in Common Pleas Court stating a site 50 by 110 feet in West Sixth avenue has been selected and bids have been taken for building a modernly equipped plant. Judge W. Heber Dithrich fixed a hearing for October 26.

WIFE OF GANG VICTIM BALKS INQUIRY INTO DEATH

POLITICS

Pinchot Offered Job on Executive Committee

—By MARK SHIELDS—

There has been much speculation as to how far, if at all, Gov. Pinchot would interest himself in the success of President Hoover with the voters of Pennsylvania. There even have been suspicions expressed that the Governor would swing entirely to the opposite political pole and declare for the election of Gov. Roosevelt, the Democratic candidate.

The entire subject is speculation, for Mr. Pinchot says nothing, and will not for the present, certainly.

But there are straws blowing in the wind to evidence that Mr. Pinchot is not enthusiastic about the success of the leader of his party. Mr. Pinchot being classed all the time as a Republican, a classification to which he is entitled quite as much—perhaps more, in view of the birth principles of the party—as are the most faithful of the organization stalwarts.

Mr. Shields

* * *

Absence of Pinchot Appointees Noted

Observe the ranks of those active in the Republican battle this year in Pennsylvania, and you find enlisted none of the Pinchot appointees. There are men there who have fought beside the Governor, such as County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, but McGovern is an elective officer, and is not beholden to the Governor for his place. If anything the obligation is opposite.

The absence of Pinchot appointees in the Hoover army does not come about by chance. To such as have asked the Governor as to a course of conduct there is reliable information from Harrisburg that he has instructed them to remain silent.

His attitude is that there need be no precipitancy about action, that the campaign still has more than a month to run, and that many things can happen.

That is his personal position, as well as the position he requests of his appointees.

* * *

Difficult to See How Governor Can Serve

As an illustration, State Chairman Edward Martin has offered him a place on the executive committee of the Republican party in this campaign. That is a remarkable proffer, in view of the fact that in public gatheirngs the state chairman is accustomed to refer to Lieut. Gov. Edward Shannon, a distinguished member of the organization, as "our governor," a plain implication that he does not consider Gov. Pinchot one of the true faith.

Gov. Pinchot's reply to this invitation of the state chairman has been that he wished to wait a few days before deciding what he should do. In view of his constant warfare with President Hoover, his undoubted friendship for Gov. Roosevelt and complete agreement with him on such a major issue as power development, it is difficult to see how the Governor can serve on the executive committee.

Doubtless little actual service was expected of him. No more was wanted than his name as an example to independent voters of the state, the same principle which has actuated the Allegheny County Republican Committee in listing on its "active roll" some identified as independents.

* * *

Mrs. Gann Should Be Grateful to Pennsylvania

When Mrs. Dolly Gann appears in Wilkinsburg Saturday night to advocate the election of Mr. Hoover and her brother, Vice President Curtis, she probably will speak in grateful remembrance of Pennsylvania at the national convention. It was Pennsylvania which nominated Mr. Curtis, and the only reason some of the delegates did so was Mrs. Gann.

Except for her they wouldn't have given a hoot about Brother Charlie. But she had come into the state before the convention, she had appeared at a few gatherings, and had made an extremely favorable impression. When the question of the vice presidency hung in the balance, and when it could have been turned elsewhere than to the Kansan had Pennsylvania willed, some of the delegates who had heard her remembered their impressions.

They thought such a pleasant lady should at least be given another chance to sit at the head of the dinner tables of Washington, if her brother could make the grade with the voters in November. They swung along to that thought the other delegates who were more interested then in trains home than vice presidential candidates.

Yes, Mrs. Gann should feel grateful to Pennsylvania.

RELIEF HEADS STIRRED BY SHORTAGE

Funds Inadequate As Needy Shiver In Cold

Relief leaders of Pittsburgh were uncertain today whether to be panicky over the small allotment of federal and state aid to Pittsburgh, for October, or to be reassured by predictions that they can expect "more" later in the month.

Whatever the outcome, however, they pointed out that, with colder weather, the needy were shivering, and lacked shoes, clothing, underwear, coal and enough food in the county and, in the city, were short of shoes and clothing, at least.

$322,211 IN OCTOBER

Allegheny County, including Pittsburgh, will receive $322,211 from state and national government in October. Of this, the county outside the city will receive $173,994. It has no other funds. It needs, for food orders alone, $264,000 if it is to continue its starvation allowance of 60 cents per person per week.

The city's share is $148,217. It has, however, other funds to supplement this, obtained from a recent $800,000 bond issue.

The county's plight is made worse by the necessity of repaying to the city $37,000 it borrowed from the city's share of September state aid. Also to be deducted is $30,000 advance from the October appropriation which was used to bridge over a threatened lapse in relief in September.

Result is that the county will actually have only about $107,000 for October. The only apparent hope for the situation was the possibility that the Poor Directors and County Commissioners can find common ground to settle their quibbling, one relief leader said, and borrow money to supplement the state and federal aid.

SHOE BIDS OPENED

City Supplies Director W. R. Dunlap today opened 41 bids for supplying between 10,000 and 17,000 pairs of shoes for Pittsburgh's needy. The shoes will cost approximately $50,000. The bids will be tabulated within a few days. The shoes are to be distributed under the direction of the Department of Welfare and the Allegheny County Emergency Association. It is planned to divide the city into zones with a central headquarters in each where people can obtain orders. Director Dunlap also opened six bids for supplying 1,000 blankets for the city home at Mayview. These also will be tabulated within a few days.

WOMAN DENIES STORY TOLD BY SLEUTHS

Repudiates Testimony Fearing Vengeance, They Assert

Fear of gang reprisals, county detectives say, caused Mrs. Antoinette Pecora to deny today at the Coroner's inquest their testimony in the slaying of her husband, Attilio, alleged Volpe lieutenant. He was shot down in the presence of his wife in State street, Wilmerding, September 3.

The jury returned the verdict, "killed by persons unknown."

TELLS OF STRANGER

County Detectives Edward Frank and J. T. Burke told Deputy Coroner John Aldirsert, statements alleged to have been made by the widow. She had told them, they said, of a call from a stranger on the Thursday preceding the killing. The stranger was said to have wanted to start a still in Pitcairn.

Pecora, the detectives quoted Mrs. Pecora, was afraid to go into the deal, because the stranger owed him $700 and the Volpe killings were fresh in his memory.

MAN NAMED

The detectives quoted Mrs. Pecora as saying the stranger had refused to eat dinner in her home that night. Next day, the detectives said Pecora, accompanied by another woman met two men in Homewood. The name of a man said to have been seen in an automobile similar to one from which two slayers pumped bullets into Pecora's body, was mentioned.

Mrs. Pecora, on the stand, denied telling the officers these details. She denied he was in the liquor business, denied the conversation with the stranger and his visit, and of Pecora's visit to Homewood. She said she did not know the man whose name had been mentioned.

Members of the Wilmerding police force, questioned relative to the sale of liquor by Pecora, said it had been reported, but they had not been able to get evidence.

GRILLING LINKS GANG IN HOLDUP

Five holdups and the shooting of Constable C. F. Hildebrand, of Reserve Township, were admitted by seven members of an alleged bandit gang of 10 after an all-day questioning in the District Attorney's office yesterday, city detectives said.

The seven were said to have admitted holding up the East End garage of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, the Ingram carbarns, a street car in West View and the Firestone service station, Baum boulevard and South Negley avenue.

John Maug, 30, of 834 North Lincoln avenue, and Herman Molden, 48, of East Stockton avenue, alleged ex-convicts, were named leaders of the gang which was rounded up in the past two weeks by detectives led by Detective Frank K. Morgan. Those reported to have confessed their parts in the robberies were John Flaherty, 24, of Sandusky street; Charles Moyer, 24, of Forbes street; Rosco Biggert, 21, of Perrysville avenue and his brother, Wallace Biggert, 26, and Edward Tarparck, 26, of 228 Ophelia street.

The shooting of Constable Hildebrand, last July, was admitted by Maug and Flaherty, detectives said. Alexander Stemler, 22; his wife, Eleanor, 22, of 834 North Lincoln avenue, and Edna Friedel, 22, of 116 West Erie street, held as accessories, were not definitely linked with the holdups.

DISTRESS EASED AT MINES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(INS.)—As a result of the work being done by relief organizations and the coal companies themselves, the bituminous mining regions of Central Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Illinois probably will get through the coming winter without any "severe suffering," John C. Cosgrove, Johnstown (Pa.) coal operator reported to President Hoover yesterday.

The President had called Cosgrove in to ascertain what was being done to help the men out of work and what might be needed in the way of additional aid. Cosgrove declared:

"In my contacts, I have run into few cases of acute distress, although the question of suffering is quite relative.

"More men are going back to work in the mines now and they are working more hours. There has been an improvement in the soft coal business."

STATE ALLOTS MORE RELIEF

HARRISBURG, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Practically two-thirds of the state's counties share in the October allocation of federal and state relief funds, announced yesterday by the State Emergency Relief Board.

For most of the counties, it is their first "taste" of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's advances for which Gov. Pinchot fought in a series of communications between President Hoover and directors of the R. F. C.

Pinchot's efforts to obtain federal funds for Pennsylvania began during the last special session of the Legislature. His original request was for $45,000,000, of which he asked $10,000,000 immediately. The first tangible results were in the form of a $2,500,000 advance granted several weeks ago, with the R. F. C.'s specification that the funds could be used only in Philadelphia, Allegheny and Northampton counties. This advance was to cover both September and October.

A few days ago the R. F. C. voted an additional $3,342,000 for Pennsylvania, upon receipt of unemployment and other data which it had demanded for each of the counties.

The October allocation of federal and state funds, the state board announced, may be used only for food and other necessities, and not for administration of relief agencies.

2 Arrested, Rum Seized in Raids

Holding of More Than One Job In Public Pay Common Practice

Many in Politics Hold Several Positions

While many families are represented on the payrolls of city, county and state with as many as seven or eight, and the practice of nepotism goes merrily on, a practice which goes deeper into the debatable ethics of public service payroll use is the holding of more than one job.

Like the family racket, it is difficult to perceive in the complicated payroll systems and lack of publications, with the added confusion of difference of names.

James H. McClure, of Glassport, has been a member of the Legislature since 1923. As such he gets $3,000 a session, and $500 for each special session. In the past two years, there have been one regular and two special sessions—a $4,000 reward.

Recently he was appointed by Commissioner Mansfield to an assistant county solicitorship, which pays $5,000.

He is also solicitor for the School Board of Glassport.

John Kenna, Republican chairman of the Eighth Ward, holds the aldermanship and recently was appointed to a state job paying over $3,000.

Mrs. Anna Boggs was appointed to the State Inheritance Tax office as a $165 a month clerk by Senator Coyne. Her husband, draws a salary as superintendent of Emsworth schools.

Frank Ferris, Lieutenant of the City Homicide Squad, at $2,940, is constable in the Twenty-fifth Ward and also serves as a judge of boxing bouts under the State Athletic Commission, at $10 a night. Of course, there are not so many bouts, but it all helps, since the constable job, a fee office, is reportedly a rich plum.

Gus Ellis, a city detective, is also a constable, as is William Laughlin, a deputy sheriff.

Congressman Harry Estep, who has law offices with other attorneys in the Berger Building, has on his Washington payroll Miss Adaline Solomon at $166.66 a month. She is a notary here, and is stenographer in Estep's suite here.

A recent appointee as an engineer in the County Bureau of Property and Supplies is William Shore, a city engineer for many years who was pensioned at a maximum of $125 a month. The new job pays him $250, for a total of $375 a month.

United States Senator James J. Davis has a brother here, David J. Davis, who gets

Senators and House Members Linked In 'Racket'

$3,000 a year as inspector in the Labor Department. During the past winter another brother died in Mooseheart, Ill., where he was postmaster for many years.

Mrs. Frank Boyle, prominent independent faction leader, is represented in the state and county with a husband and son. The former, Frank Boyle, is with the State Department of Revenue, and the son, Edward, is attorney for the Registration Commission at $166.66.

The Sullivan family once was much better represented than it is now, but P. J. Sullivan is still Congressman, although a lame duck. Luke, his brother, is alderman in the Sixth Ward, while a son-in-law, William R. McNamara, is police magistrate at $3,000 a year.

Thomas D. Jones, magistrate in Morals Court, gets $4,000 a year. He also is alderman and ward chairman of the Eighteenth Ward.

And there are others—galore.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 7.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

I been flying, train-riding, automobiling, horseback and buggy riding over Texas for 33 years and I've never seen a tenth of it.

Will Rogers

If it had been in Europe, eighty wars would have been fought over it. There are single ranches here bigger than France. Counties bigger than England. Saddle horse pastures big as Alsace-Lorraine. The lakes of Switzerland would be buffalo wallows in Texas. It's located between Mexico and the U. S. to keep Mexico from annexing the United States. It's so far to town that the cowboys started in to vote for "Teddy" arrived in time to register for "Franklin." Its sole industry is internal politics. It's so big that no one governor can handle it—they have to have a man and his wife. It's the only state where a Republican has to have a passport to enter.

Yours,

WILL.

Suspect Escapes Shot In East End Chase

Chased over half a dozen blocks in the heart of East Liberty early today, during which one shot was fired, a burglar suspect who entered the office of Dr. J. E. Stewart, at 6104 Penn avenue, and then attempted to enter the Sheridan Square Theater, 6108 Penn avenue, escaped.

The shot was fired by Deputy Sheriff Walter Smith, of Iowa street, who joined Jerry Cronin, of 5643 Rural street, an usher in the theater, in the chase. It went wild.

Police said the suspect hurled a chisel from a window of the office of Dr. Stewart on the third floor, across an areaway to a ground floor window of the theater.

Investigating the noise of the falling glass, Cronin said he saw a man run from the building and took up the chase.

HITLERITES SEE POWER FADING

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—Faced with what seems a certain loss of 30 to 50 seats in the Reichstag election November 6, deep depression camped in inner National Socialist (Fascist) circles today over the fading prospect of Adolf Hitler's getting political control of Germany by legal means.

Some Hitler lieutenants admit the probability of a loss of up to 30 seats in the Reichstag, but other circles point to the barometer of Hitlerite losses of 20 to 80 per cent in local elections in four cities in the past two weeks.

Firm, active and constructive efforts on the part of Chancellor Von Papen's presidial "super" party has taken much wind out of the Hitler sails. In some quarters the present is considered the twilight of the Hitlerite movement, with the outlook for the future being the drying-up of Nazi campaign financial contributions.

A sudden cooling-off of popular fervor for Hitler is attributed to his own lieutenants' personal attacks on President Von Hindenburg. There seems little interest and no enthusiasm in the present campaign, which is the fifth big election this year in the Reich.

CITY STUDENTS TO CAST VOTES

Students in Pittsburgh's public high schools will have a practical lesson in citizenship during the next few weeks in which they will familiarize themselves with all the steps necessary in voting at a national election. Under a plan announced today by Dr. Ben G. Graham, superintendent of schools, the students will hold an election November 3, voting for presidential candidates.

Each school will be known as a state and will be divided into voting districts for registration and election, according to Dr. Graham. Registration and election ballots will follow the legal form in Pennsylvania.

Representatives from all of the high schools will form a "congress" to receive reports of the electoral college, following the voting.

Stronger than He Was at Twenty

FIFTY-FIVE years old, and still going strong!

Do you want the secret of such vitality? It isn't what you eat, or any tonic you take. It's something anyone can do—something you can start today and see results in a week! All you do is give your vital organs the right stimulant.

A famous doctor discovered the way to stimulate a sluggish system to new energy. It brings fresh vigor to every organ. Being a physician's prescription, it's quite harmless. Tell your druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Get the benefit of its fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and that pure pepsin. Get that lazy liver to work, those stagnant bowels into action. Get rid of waste matter that is slow poison so long as it is permitted to remain in the system.

The new energy men and women feel before one bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin has been used up is proof of how much the system needs this help.

Get a bottle of this delicious syrup and let it end that constant worry about the condition of the bowels. Spare the children those bilious days that make them miserable. Save your household from the use of cathartics which lead to chronic constipation. And guard against auto-intoxication as you grow older.

Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin is such a well known preparation you can get it wherever drugs are sold and it isn't expensive.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

There's one thing that's a benefit to everyone, and that's a benefit entertainment. For it helps everyone—it aids the needy, gives folks some social life, rather lacking this winter, and creates a demand for costumes, a welcome state to department stores and specialty shops.

An especially worthwhile benefit will be the buffet dinner-dance and bridge the West Penn Cot Club will give Friday, November 18, at the Longue Vue Country Club.

Just where it will take place I don't know yet, but I do know that Mrs. Charles Howard Johnston, who's chairman of the Cot Club's entertainment committee, will be in charge.

Mrs. Charles Howard Johnston—Mrs. Theodore F. Smith, one of the committee members, yesterday said:

"Our funds are down to almost nothing."

This state of affairs must be changed, for this group of women maintains the entire children's ward at the hospital. And that's quite a financial undertaking you'll agree, I'm sure.

And as if that were not enough, the club also supports a private room and a cot in the men's ward and one in the women's ward. Mrs. W. R. Normecutt is president of the organization.

The Charles R. Arrotts are delighted with their little daughter, Lyde Ramsey Arrott, who arrived September 21. She's the first daughter in the family. The Arrotts have two small sons, William and Anthony.

Daughter Arrives

Mrs. Arrott, nee Scheffler, is a talented young woman as anyone who has seen her in Sewickley Cot Club plays will agree.

Mrs. John S. McCormick and her daughter, Cecelia, who are always traveling or stopping at some resort, are expected home soon from Atlantic City.

PARISIENNE DESIGNERS FAVOR VELVET FOR FALL FASHIONS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Velvet is everywhere this year. Paris is going in heavily for all sort of nap fabrics. These are crepe velvets of varied thicknesses—some soft and pliable as chiffon, some heavy and thick as woolens. There are fur velvets—those which look like ermine, like caracul, like breitschwantz. There are soft silk velvets made into gowns whose skirts fall in soft voluminous folds, and heavy cotton-back velvet dresses with full flaring skirts whose hems cover spaces each a yard and a half in diameter.

* * *

VELVET IS used not only for dresses and coats, for evening wraps and gowns, but for daytime suits, for pajamas, for lounging robes and negligees, for cocktail suits, for gloves and shoes, for hats—in fact for practically everything modern women wear.

* * *

THE VELVET gloves are among the newest of the 1933 accessories introduced in recent Paris fashion collections. They are in gauntlet style and have palms and finger-insides of leather in color to match the velvet. Velvet shoes in bright color are often worn in Paris with white evening gowns that have velvet sashes whose colors matches the wearer's shoes.

* * *

TWO EXTREMES of velvet evening fashions are shown in today's sketches—a Patou evening dress of white velvet, with cire sash in dark and light browns, and a Mirande jacket of royal blue velvet with big sleeves whose fulness is plaited into the shoulder-yoke.

Club to Be Told Of Long Hunt For Trees

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

When the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club hears James A. G. Davey, of the Davey Tree Expert Company, at the president's reception on Monday, they will learn of a most unusual hunting expedition. This expedition, which was made by Mr. Davey and his wife in 1928, was equipped with a battery of cameras and note books instead of rifles and bullets, and its object was a search for beautiful and unusual trees.

Mr. and Mrs. Davey went far off the beaten path of tourist travel. From the west coast of the United States they traveled into the South Seas, through Australia, New Zealand and Tasmania and from one end of Africa to the other.

Thousands of photographs were taken and with each one, Mrs. Davey made detailed notes regarding the colors of all the objects shown. As a result the slides with which Mr. Davey will illustrate his lecture, "A Pilgrimage to God's First Temples," are authentic as to coloring.

Monday's program, which has been arranged by the club's garden department, is under the chairmanship of Mrs. H. F. Phillips and also will include music by Lillian Gardner, Leola Conoway and Eda Kreiling, with Nellie Risher Roberts accompanying.

Kisco and his car crashed, and now he's no more . . . I'll miss Donald Freeman . . . I'll miss that shrewd counsel he always gave me when I needed it . . . That comforting something that all men have to have when they're not sure of themselves . . . They talk about "highbrow" magazines and "highbrow" editors who are, to hear the legends, frigid to people who haven't made a name for themselves . . . What rot! . . . Freeman kept after me—as did Burton Rascoe—long before my luck changed, and made me sit down and write pieces for Vanity Fair—and when everybody else was called him on the phone and saying: "Why do you encourage Walter Winchell? Let him stay in the tabloids—don't help him get anywhere!"—Donald Freeman, bless him, ordered extra articles from me (when money was a godsend!) and played me up as being a "somebody" . . . And to make sure I would be accepted and not ridiculed, Donald Freeman polished my pieces of drivel, embroidered them with big words, and gave them such tone that his class subscribers actually believed I could write!

Interesting item, that one about the Dupont people, the music publishers or whatever they are . . . They sent out 75,000 letters to locals and asked them to tell them what song they wanted to hear most on the radio . . . And the winner was an ageless ditty named "Silver Threads Among the Gold" . . . Wonder if there is man or woman in town who would be interested in encouraging an etcher who certainly "belongs" . . . His tag is Edward Van Baerle, and his etchings are masterful . . . He drives a cab for a living in the Broadway area . . . And his manager, who knew me when, peddles papers in front of that cafeteria at 725 Seventh avenue . . . The "manager" goes to high school and has rejection slips from Mencken and the better mag editors. But he's trying all the time—and you can't lick a guy like that . . . I gotta help that etcher land . . . If Donald Freeman were only here, that's where I'd send him first . . . Wonder if Arthur Samuels would be interested? . . . Or Frank Crowninshield or Conde Nast? . . . Maybe George Jean Nathan could use a genius on his forthcoming newspaper? . . . Catherine Brody couldn't be stifled . . . She lost her job a year ago and then decided to write a book called "Nobody Starves" . . . She submitted it to 36 publishers, all turning it down, some with sarcastic notes, begging Catherine to quit submitting trash . . . Finally Longmans Green printed it . . . So what happened? . . . Haw, haw, haw! . . . Sinclair Lewis, Lincoln Steffens, Fannie Hurst and other biggies now claim it as the literary "find" of the year—the most promising book! . . . The first 36 rejections are the oddest!

Among my priceless inheritances, I think, is that army of readers who accept what I say as being the "gossipel" truth . . . When I founder or boner an item they put up with me, or they tell me that they believe me at least fifty per cent of the time—which is fair enough . . . But that recent report here of the man and woman, who were willing to give their baby to anyone who would nourish it until the breaks got better, was accepted without any to-do about it, and they responded nobly . . . Some of them were comfortably fixed. Some were only moderately well off, but most of the letters, hundreds of them, came from families who are poor, but who were willing to share what little they had with that baby . . . One man made an opening at his mid-town club for the father, so that they wouldn't have to part with the child—a noble deed, indeed . . . The mother's note of gratitude follows: "I haven't the power of expression to tell you how much we appreciate what you have done for us. We were bewildered and lost, weighted down by too heavy a burden of problems, and now we are at least assured of a roof over our heads and food for our baby. Please convey my heartfelt gratitude to your readers, who have made it possible, to your lovely Miss Cambridge, and to those who offered a home to our child . . . The human heart is kind."

All of which reminds me of Morris, the elevator boy at the Palace, who came to me with his problems several months ago . . . And told me how he was accused of a wrong back-stage, and how he was fired as a result . . . And so I used the column to ask the manager "What's the big idea?" and it got swift action . . . Morris was back at work shortly after, and I was happier . . . But now I'm not so happy about Morris, who went to actors and others during his trouble, and got financial assistance with his true story about his wife and baby, etc. . . . And several actors, who were working then, gave Morris five and 10 spots, and now these same actors are not working and broke, and they could use those five and tenners . . . And Morris, who makes a small wage with tips, hasn't offered them any part of that dough, which is not so hot, and if I were Morris I would pay my debts or at least offer those people an ace or deuce spot until I had squared myself . . . Wonder why people forget pain so quickly? . . . I never met the guy yet who kept his word on a promise—and all but two of them intend to one day . . . Probably that's why I'd rather play the role of villain . . . It's better than being a phony hero any time.

Workmen Recalled To Speed Up Tests

GROVE CITY, Pa., Oct. 7.—Pattern makers at the local plant of the Cooper-Bessemer Company have been called back to work to speed up experiments on a new type of Diesel power unit. If the new type is successful a number of large orders are expected.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Theresa Helburn, who directed "The Pure in Heart," by John Howard Lawson, second Theater Guild production of the season, which will come to the Nixon next week under the banner of the American Theater Society, is the directing head of the Theater Guild itself. She has written several plays as well as verse and articles for magazines. Besides being executive director of the guild, she is its casting director. When at home she is Mrs. John B. Opdycke. June Walker and Osgood Perkins are featured in "The Pure in Heart," for which seats now are on sale.

The principal locale of "As Husbands Go," comedy vehicle for the Edwin Vail Players in the Pitt next week, was not laid in Keokuk, Iowa, just hit or miss. The author, Rachel Crothers, is a product of the same kind of soil, having been born in Bloomington, Ill. She is a graduate of the Illinois State Normal School. As an instructor she has been teaching playwrights how to turn out successful work for many years. Perhaps not in the class room but by conspicuous example. "As Husbands Go" will give the several principal members of the company excellent roles.

Pittsburgh is to have a permanent Yiddish theater, Boris Vernardi has come from New York to establish the Hollander Troupe in the Lando Theater, Center avenue, and hopes to remain the entire season. The first presentation, October 10, will be "The Big Sister," starring Hannah and Isadore Hollander, both of whom have been seen here in traveling Yiddish companies. Mr. Vernardi, himself a son of prominent Jewish players, recently returned from a tour of South America as manager of Jacob Ben-Ami, one of the great Yiddish actors, who also has appeared on the local stage in English drama, notably in a stellar revival of "Diplomacy" a few years ago.

* * *

William Powell and the missus, Carole Lombard, will visit Cuba after the finish of his picture now in production . . . Margaret Mann, unforgettable mother of "Four Sons," and not since smiled upon by Hollywood, will have a part in "If I Had a Million," as will some others whom the talkies have passed by . . . "In the Jungle," next Wheeler and Woolsey comedy, is expected to be finished for Christmas week release.

New Pictures Billed

Norma Shearer, supported by Frederic March and Leslie Howard, will come to the Penn screen today in "Smilin' Through," a romance.

Opening in the Stanley today, Edward G. Robinson, Richard Arlen and Zita Johann will be seen in "Tiger Shark." Robinson plays the role of captain of a fishing boat.

Beginning in the Warner today is "The Phantom President," with George M. Cohan cast as a medicine show doctor and candidate for president. Jimmy Durante supplies the laughs and Claudette Colbert the love interest.

"Miss Pinkerton," mystery drama written by Mary Roberts Rinehart, is billed for the Davis and Sheridan Square tomorrow. The cast is headed by Joan Blondell and George Brent.

The Enright tomorrow will show "70,000 Witnesses," starring Philips Holmes and Dorothy Jordan. The story concerns a murder committed on a football field.

"A Nons, La Liberte," ("Liberty for Us,") French satire, is the picture booked for a week in the Avenue Cinema beginning Monday. Rolla France and Paul Olivier play the leads.

The current attraction in the Fulton is Mary Astor's starring vehicle, "Those We Love," picturization of the rise of a young author.

"Merry Whirl," burlesque show starring Rosemond May, will open a week's engagement in the Academy Sunday night with a midnight show.

Miss Tashman In Fulton

By EDWARD W. GOSS

One thing worth while in "Those We Love," Fulton picture, is the acting of Lilyan Tashman.

Miss Tashman, a member of the supporting cast, easily steals the show from Mary Astor, billed as its star. Miss Tashman's efforts, however, do not save the picture from being sort of humdrum, although its theme is rather more wholesome than the usual triangle affairs.

"Those We Love" is a picturization of the rise of an author, played by Kenneth MacKenna. The author, before he is capable of turning out best sellers, marries a governess, portrayed by Mary Astor. They have a son. The picture jumps forward approximately 13 years and the author is successful. A charmer (Miss Tashman) then enters. The wife of the author, who, by the way, shared his lean days with a "brave little smile" on her lips, imagines unpleasant things and takes herself and her son away from the author-husband. The fade-out finds everything jake. The charmer is made to realize the terrible thing she almost did to a happy family and everybody has a good cry.

One of the more mawkish scenes comes when the young wife coyly intimates a "blessed event" impends, and the husband rends the air with lusty sobs and kneels at her feet.

Bathtub Installed In Opera for Singers

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Discovery of a tiled and completely outfitted bathroom off the manager's office in San Francisco's new civic opera house brought forth various explanations until Gaetano Merola, opera director, spoke up. He notified the curious by long distance telephone from Los Angeles that he expected to have many auditions, and that it was a matter of musical history that some people sang their best while taking a bath.

Finalists in Contest To Get Chance

Although Kathleen Burke, of Chicago, has been awarded the role of the Panther Woman in Paramount's "Island of Lost Souls," the four runners-up in the nation-wide competition for this screen opportunity may yet achieve stardom. Gail Patrick, of Birmingham, already has received a long-term contract and been cast in "If I Had a Million." Verna Hillie, of Detroit; Lona Andre, of Nashville, and Maxine Land, of Atlanta, the other three finalists, are to be given exhaustive film tests, for which they are now studying under the tutoring of Stuart Walker.

Johnson Will Be Legion Posts' Guest

FOLLANSBEE, W. Va., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Louis Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, will be the guest of honor here October 19 at the installation of officers of legion posts in Chester, Weir-Cove, Follansbee and Wellsburg.

Elissa Landi To Return To Fox

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7. Those rumors about Elissa Landi leaving Fox were all wrong. I have it on good authority she'll be back on the lot to do the lead in "Forgotten Kisses." Once upon a time this was a Noel Coward play called "The Last Trick."

My informant goes on further to say that the author-actress comes back with a new contract—and that Fox intends to give her a better break on stories in the future.

What hurt this actress most in the past was the early publicity hailing her as a new Garbo. Then, unfortunately, some of her first pictures supported rather than dispelled the idea that Fox was grooming her as a rival to the mysterious Swede.

Recently, her vehicles have improved and Cecil B. DeMille gave her a chance to get completely out of type when he borrowed her to play the Christian girl in "Sign of the Cross."

Miss Landi is now in Canada complying with immigration rules about visitor's permits. She'll return here in about a week and her new picture will get under way shortly thereafter.

BOULEVARD TOPICS

Greta Nissen insists it didn't mean anything when she went to Victor McLaglen's party with Weldon Heyburn. They're still estranged, she says, and she is living at a hotel . . . Miriam Hopkins and Claudette Colbert are among the first to inaugurate the new winter season at Palm Springs . . . Humorist Robert Benchley is heading back to New York. He played two bits in the R-K-O picture, "Sport Page," and wrote some dialogue for Constance Bennett's "Rockabye" . . . Polla Ann Young has been going places with Houston Branch . . . It will be Barlett Cormack, associate producer, in the future . . . Part of the prize won by Kathleen Burke in her selection as Paramount's "Panther Woman" was a five week's stay at the Hotel Ambassador, with all expenses paid. Now, she'll have to spend two of those weeks, living in a tent on location.

Though Radio says it's still a matter of conjecture, one of those Joel McCrea starring pictures may be "On Parade," a West Point story by Bill Rankin, former Fox scenarist. The treatment is now up for a decision, and overtures already have been made to secure Christian (Red) Cagle, Army's greatest football hero, for technical adviser on the picture.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Dreamy Gus

IN A SMALL town on the west bank of the Mississippi, Dreamy Gus enjoyed the distinction of being the neighborhood simp. He wasn't a bad boy. But he had dreamy ways, and the only people who are paid off for that are Spiritualists.

From the time that he was 14—and that was 10 long years ago—Dreamy Gus had worked hard in Weinstein's Emporium. All day long he leaned over a counter and discussed the weather and the price of dill pickles with the customers.

Now, Weinstein's Emporium was the only store in town. If you wanted a silk hat, you went to Weinstein's. Or if you wanted beans, Weinstein's was the spot to get them.

Naturally, Dreamy Gus knew everyone in the small town. Correspondingly they knew him. And, if old man Weinstein was not in the store, Gus could be depended upon to forget to collect for several of the items purchased during his absence. Which evened matters up in a way, for old man Weinstein never forgot to collect for several items which weren't purchased . . .

Gus lived by himself in a small shack near the store, and there he did some of his finest dreaming. What did he dream about? The future mostly. Like most of us, he dreamed about the day when he would be hailed by his fellow men as a great guy. But Gus's dreams took a peculiar twist.

His visions, somehow, were mostly mixed up with bandits. Big, tough gorillas who stood before Dreamy Gus and quaked in terror. Brawny rascals who begged him to let them off easy. Killers who fell to their knees before the vengance of our Gus.

He could hear Al Capone pleading with him for another chance. He could see his own face, dominant and righteous. He could see the tears streaming down Mr. Capone's pudgy cheeks.

He imagined himself relenting after awhile. He could see the great gangster's gratitude. He could see the man, in later years, leading a Sunday school choir in the town church.

Oh, yes. Our Gus was a tough baby, all right. Nothing could stop him—and that includes the U. S. Cavalry. He was a Buffalo Bill, a Kit Carson and a Frank Merriwell all rolled into one.

The only thing that troubled him was a means of meeting some bandits or killers who needed taming. To offset this, he used to attend all gangster movies and dream himself to be in the place of the righteous cops who break down the door at the last moment and shoot the villain in the fadeout. (Which is as good a spot as any.)

Now, Gus might have been waiting yet for his big chance had it not been for an advertisement which he read in a magazine.

"Buy a Zip Pen," it read. "Protect yourself at all times with this harmless device. When in danger, you merely press a lever and gas renders your antagonest unconscious for 10 minutes."

You can imagine what effect that had on Gus. He carefully clipped the ad, filled in the blank, inclosed two dollars, and mailed it with a prayer.

Within a week, the mailman brought him the coveted fountain pen. He was itching to try the gadget, but he didn't know where he could get more gas after it was used.

So, with a new arrogance, he attended to his duties at the store and was confident that, sooner or later, he would be a hero. A live one...

But someone must have tipped off all the bad men in the vicinity, for our Gus waited and waited without anything untoward happening. The boy began to feel that there would be no use in keeping the darn thing, when his big chance came after he had the pen almost a year.

A tall, broad-shouldered man walked into the store just before closing time. In fact, the lights in the windows were already out and Gus was affording himself the luxury of a yawn when the stranger entered.

Gus instinctively smelled a large rodent. The customer had a face he didn't recall seeing before. And a stranger in this town was in the nature of a big event.

Gus felt for his fountain pen and smiled to himself. It was there! He walked over to the man.

"Anything I can do for you, sir?" asked Gussie.

"I hope so," replied the man. "What're you here for?"

"Well—uh—that is, I didn't know—"

"Forget all that," said the customer. "I want a suit of clothes."

"A suit?" repeated Gus. "What kind of a suit?"

"What kind ya got?"

"Oh," replied the nimble-witted Gus, "we just got in a stock of lovely London lavenders. Would you like to see one?"

The customer scowled.

"Are you trying to kid me?"

"No, sir," replied Gussie. "We also have some blue serges."

"Well, let me see some. Size forty-eight."

To make a short story fill this space, Gus showed him one suit after another. This one was too big. This was too wide in the shoulders. This was too tight. And that one was too loud.

Gus stood behind the man smoothing a nice brown suit over the shoulders and feeling for the fountain pen with the other hand.

"This one fits nice," ventured Gus. "I mean, you look as though you were made for this suit."

"Yeh," replied the villain. "It's a beaut. I'll take it."

Gus smiled cutely.

"Will you eat it here or shall I wrap it up?"

"...e or mind the w... re."

replied the customer. "I'll wear it. Where's the boss?"

"The boss," replied Gussie, "ain't here."

"No? Ain't nobody here?"

"Nope. No one. 'Cept me."

The stranger smiled.

"Now isn't that just too bad? Take your hands off that counter and pretend like you're reaching for a bird's nest."

He pointed a young howitzer at the boy. Gus felt as though he was looking into the large end of a megaphone. But, somehow, he didn't have brains enough to hold up his hands. Instead, he reached for his inside coat pocket.

In a flash, the gunman's arm went up and down with crushing force. What damage he might have done to Dreamy Gus' skull is doubtful, but he missed.

Gus got the small pen out. He pointed it at his adversary and laughed triumphantly. This was his big moment. In that brief space, I have no doubt that he visualized big headlines and bigger medals. He was a hero!

He pressed the lever. A jet of vaporized gas shot out. When next he came to, a neighborhood crowd was standing about, howling and shrieking gleefully. Mr. Weinstein was shaking his bony arms at the ceiling and screaming strange, incoherent words.

The bandit had left. And so had half the contents of the store. Dreamy Gus had made a slight error. He had aimed the pen at himself! ...

$7,500 VERDICT FOR PROPERTY

For her property taken and damaged by construction of the McKees Rocks-North Side Bridge, Rose Hanover was awarded $7,500 by a jury in Common Pleas Court before Judge S. J. Snee, the second trial of the suit. At the first, in January, a verdict of $3,477 was set aside by Judge Samuel H. Gardner as inadequate, and a new trial allowed. The suit asked $19,500 damages.

Viewers had awarded $3,850. The property, on Munson avenue, McKees Rocks, consisted of two lots, with a two-story brick building and a four-car garage.

Almost Instant Relief Now from Neuralgia

Because of Quick Dissolving Property BAYER ASPIRIN Starts "Taking Hold" 3 or 4 Minutes After Taking

Think of a headache going in three or four minutes. The pains of neuralgia, neuritis or rheumatism being eased, often, in that little space of time!

Due to important, scientific developments in the famous Bayer Aspirin laboratories, millions of people are enjoying this almost unbelievably quick relief from pain.

That is because Bayer Aspirin dissolves almost instantly in the stomach. And thus almost INSTANTLY starts to ease pain. The average headache, for instance, eases in as little as four or five minutes. Think of what a time saver this is to busy people.

Remember, it is Genuine BAYER Aspirin which provides this unique property. So see that you get the real article when you buy. See that these three words "Genuine Bayer Aspirin" are on any box or bottle of aspirin that you buy. And that the name "Bayer" is stamped in the form of a cross on any tablet that you take.

Remember that when you buy. And remember, too, that Genuine Bayer Aspirin cannot harm the heart. Take care you get the genuine.

Whisky Once Bought Valuable Property

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The days when liquor sometimes substituted for currency were recalled today with the finding of an old bill of sale. It revealed that Andrew S. Farrar sold a corner lot in downtown Cincinnati to James and David Heuston for 40,000 gallons of whisky. That was in 1842. Five years ago the same property sold for $50,000.

Policeman Extracts Tooth for Citizen

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Policeman Edward Stemple believes in doing his public duty even if it requires a tooth extraction. A citizen came into the police station bemoaning a toothache and asking relief.

Stemple got out his pliers and a few minutes later the citizen walked out minus the aching tooth—which, by the way, was his last.

LYTTON, B. C., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Frank Gott, 76-year-old trapper, who was wounded and captured by officers seeking him after the slaying of Game Warden Albert E. Farey, died yesterday while being taken to a hospital in Kamloops.

Withdraws Offer To Take Job Free

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—B. W. Irvin, of Big Run, has withdrawn his offer to serve as County Treasurer until January 1, 1934, without pay.

Irvin made his original offer because the treasurer's office is closed due to the death of the treasurer, Grant Sheafnocker, and there is no one with authority to pay the county's bills.

Who sheds the blood in the battle of bargains

A WARNING on your market page

Today the danger of "bargain" tires is more acute for a reason which you can check by turning to the market page. The prices of cotton and crude rubber—the raw materials used in making tires—are much higher now than they were four months ago. With raw materials going up, quality must sink still lower in tires built with only price in mind.

In this year of screaming prices the tire which outsells any other tire in the world, which occupies by far the largest bracket of Goodyear production—is not its lowest price tire—not even its next lowest price tire—but its world-famed, time-tested, high-quality standard Goodyear All-Weather. In this year, as in every year for the past seventeen, the public places goodness above price and buys the best-known and surest value.

FOR months now the public has been bombarded with "bargains." Cheap goods at cheap prices. Quality sliced, value ignored, to "beat competition to the business."

In most lines of business the only penalty of buying shoddy bargains is disappointment.

But it may cost you more than cash to buy shoddy tires.

When the struggle for lower tire prices whittles down the quality—when safety is sacrificed to chisel a few cents out of the selling price—the customer stakes his tiny saving of money against possible loss of life and limb—against injury, or worse, for himself and his family.

Who sheds the blood in this battle of bargains?

The unwary purchaser who thinks "all tires are about alike" and buys only on price.

Because Goodyear buys the most materials, because Goodyear builds the most tires, it is plain common sense to say that Goodyear is able to put the greatest value and the greatest safety into every tire which bears the Goodyear name.

This is no news to millions of car owners. They know the truth of these statements so well that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind—and have for seventeen years.

Doesn't sensible caution as well as thrift put this question in your mind: "Why take chances with any second-choice tire when first-choice costs no more?"

-/- Prudence Penny's Recipes -/-

This week let's give the family something quite different in the way of a meat dish. You should learn a new dish every week, you know, just to keep up in your own cookery and to make your work more interesting.

Fresh ham is specially priced according to the Meat Council reports just now so take advantage of that. You can bake the fresh ham much as you do a smoked ham. To cook it quickly and have the least shrinkage, roast it with the rind on. Finish the roast ham with studded cloves and brown sugar browned on top the last thing as you do a smoked ham.

Veal is a real delicacy that should be served much more frequently because of its daintiness, ease of digestion and help to the budget.

I am personally partial to the dishes to be made with veal shank. The meat is tender yet firm and there is so much natural meat gelatin in the bone that expensive appearing aspic molds or nutritious soups can be made in addition to the loaf, curry, stew, veal a la king, creamed veal, veal salad or sandwiches you make of the major portion. That, however, is an ordinary meat you should learn to cook in your regular budget extending campaign.

* * *

PANBROILED HAM—Rub the bottom of the pan with a little of the ham fat. If the ham slice is thin, cut in individual servings before cooking. Brown on both sides, then cook slowly. Turn frequently. Allow 10 minutes for thinly sliced ham, and 15 to 25 minutes for slices ½ inch thick.

* * *

VEAL STEW—2 pounds veal breast, 2 cups carrots, 1 cup canned tomatoes, celery salt, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 1 cup diced potatoes, 3 tablespoons butter or bacon drippings, salt and pepper.

Cut veal in cubes and brown in butter or drippings. Add 1 cup water and tomatoes. Simmer until meat is almost tender, then add vegetables and simmer until vegetables are cooked.

* * *

VEAL AND HAM SCALLOPS WITH ITALIAN SAUCE—Cut 1 pound veal from the shoulder or rump into oval shape. Cut an equal amount of ham into similar rounds. Place 2 tablespoons butter in a frying pan, add the veal and ham rounds and brown on both sides. When nicely browned add the Italian sauce and simmer the whole together until meat is tender. Place a veal and a ham scallop on toast and pour sauce over.

* * *

ITALIAN SAUCE—½ cup minced onion, 3 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 1½ cups stock, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 cup mushrooms, fresh or canned.

Cook the onion and butter until slightly browned. Stir in the flour, then add the stock, parsley and mushrooms. Cook until thickened and serve.

* * *

VEAL TIMBALES — ¾ cup chopped cooked veal, ½ cup milk, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 4 eggs, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon paprika.

Beat the eggs, add the liquid and seasoning, then the ham. Pour into buttered timbale molds, place in pan of hot water and cover with greased paper. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) from 25 to 30 minutes or until a silver knife stuck into the center of each timbale comes out clean. Makes six medium sized timbales.

* * *

TROPICAL CROQUETTES — 2 cups minced cooked ham, ½ cup blanched chopped Brazil nuts, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon paprika, dash of pepper and celery salt, ¼ teaspoon curry powder.

White sauce—½ cup milk, ½ cup water, 1 tablespoon ham drippings, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon onion juice, dry bread or cracker crumbs, 1 egg.

Make a white sauce; melt drippings in sauce pan; add flour, seasonings and liquid. Cook until the consistency of a thick white sauce. Cool, and add the other ingredients. Mix well, when cold and firm, shape into croquettes, roll in bread or cracker crumbs, then into beaten egg to which one tablespoon water has been added, then again into crumbs. Fry in deep lard, at a temperature of 390 degrees F., until golden brown. Drain on brown paper; serve with a Creole Sauce. Makes six medium sized croquettes.

* * *

HAM SOUFFLE—1 cup milk, 1 cup water, 3 tablespoons ham drippings, ⅔ cup bread or cracker crumbs, 3 egg yolks, ⅓ cup grated cheese, 2 cups cooked chopped ham.

Heat milk and water in double boiler, add drippings and crumbs. Mix thoroughly. Remove from fire; add the ham and egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon colored. Beat well, then fold in the egg whites beaten until stiff. Pour into a well greased baking dish. Sprinkle top with grated cheese mixed with two tablespoons bread crumbs. Set in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 45 minutes. Serves five to six.

* * *

RAGOUT OF BEEF—Slice roast or pot roast of beef very thin, there should be about 2 cups of meat. Put into a saucepan, add 3 sliced onions, a dash of salt and pepper to season and pour over left-over gravy. There should be enough gravy to cover the meat. (Two bouillon cubes dissolved in 1 cup of boiling water may be used in case there is no stock.) Bring to a boil, add half a cup of mashed tomatoes, ½ cup chopped mushrooms and a few capers. Thicken with flour mixed to a smooth paste in a little cold stock or water; season with ¼ teaspoon curry powder. Simmer 10 minutes. Serve in a casserole. Serves five.

* * *

POTATO SOUP—2 cups diced raw tomato, 1 quart boiling water, 1 pint milk, 1 onion, 2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, 4 tablespoons butter or other fat, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper.

Cook the potato in the boiling water until soft, drain off and keep the potato water (which should measure about 1 pint). Rice the potato. Heat the milk in a double boiler with the onion. Cook the parsley in the fat, add the flour, stir until well blended, combine with the milk, potato water and potato, stid until smooth, cook for 2 or 3 minutes, and add the salt and pepper. Remove the onion before serving.

* * *

PEACH TAPIOCA—¼ cup quick-cooking tapioca, 1 pint hot water, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup peach juice, 2 cups sliced, canned peaches.

Cook the tapioca and water in a double boiler for 15 minutes, add the sugar, butter, salt and lemon and peach juice, which has been drained from the peaches. In a greased baking dish, make alternate layers of the tapioca and peaches arranged so that a layer of peaches comes on top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 30 minutes, or until brown on top. Serve either hot or cold.

* * *

GRAPE PIE—5 cups Concord grapes, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, pastry.

Pull the grapes from the stems. Slip off the skins, and keep them separate from the pulp. Heat the juice and pulp for about five minutes. Then rub the pulp through a sieve to remove the seeds. Combine the sugar, cornstarch and salt, mix with the grape pulp and cook for about 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Then add the grape skins and lemon juice and pour the fruit filling into a pie pan lined with pastry. Cover the top with strips of pastry, and bake in a hot oven for about 30 minutes.

* * *

LEMON SHERBET—2 cups milk and 1 cup cream, or 3 cups rich milk, 1¼ cups sugar, 1 cup lemon juice, ½ cup water, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Heat 1 cup of the milk, add the sugar, stir until the sugar is dissolved, and add the other ingredients. Use a freezing mixture of 1 part of salt and 4 to 6 parts of ice, and turn the crank of the freezer slowly. After freezing, remove the dasher, pack the freezer

Honey, Similar Foods Lend Variety to Meals

Something Like This Is Most Acceptable When Sweet Foods Are Asked For.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

One of the purposes of a meal is to give a sense of satisfaction. To get up from the table with a feeling of hunger is irritating and disappointing.

There are certain foods that "stick to the ribs." That is, they possess what the scientists call "satiety value." A test of a good meal is to have it made of a variety of things, and then to have it produce in you a feeling of comfortable fullness and content.

Most of us like to end breakfast, as well as the other meals, with something sweet. That is why hot breads, griddle cakes, muffins and the like are so popular. When served with honey, maple syrup or some other syrup, not to speak of jelly or jam—who can doubt that there will be a feeling of satisfaction?

OVER-EATING HARMFUL

There are some writers on food who rail against "sweets." Perhaps they are right, but frankly I could never get enthusiastic over that doctrine. To my mind, a temperate amount of sweetening won't hurt any healthy person.

It must be remembered that the great majority of people are well and hearty. They have normal digestion and can handle almost any wholesome food, provided it is consumed in reasonable quantity.

It is over-eating and too frequent eating that do the harm. If meals are so spaced that the stomach has time to empty and to rest a bit before another meal is taken, there will be little trouble with indigestion.

HONEY APPROVED

It is my belief that honey, maple syrup and similar sweet things are quite all right when taken as I have suggested. Certainly they tickle the palate and add a lot to the breakfast.

Sweet things taken between meals are not so acceptable. The trouble is they take the edge off appetite and interfere with the eating of suitable quantities of more important foods. Within reason, however, they are valuable additions to the diet.

In children the excessive eating of sweets between meals is undesirable, because it reduces the appetite, particularly for milk. Milk, with its minerals and vitamins, its proteins and fat, is essential to child health.

But the average child wants something sweet now and then. Then it is that honey or another of the sweet things I have mentioned will be most acceptable.

MOON RUN BOMB SUSPECT HELD

One man was under arrest today and two others were being sought by county detectives in connection with the bombing of the butcher shop of Santo Flora, Moon Run, early yesterday, which resulted in damage estimated at $5,000.

After questioning Flora, the detectives arrested Tony Maruca, of Moon Run, and lodged him in the county jail on a district attorney's detainer. A dynamite bomb was planted in the building after attempts to extort money from Flora failed. Flora told detectives he had received threatening letters, each demanding that he place cash on the road near his store.

Add the cheese and season with salt, pepper and scraped onion. Combine the sauce and macaroni. Drain the tomatoes and fill with the macaroni mixture. RHUBARB-STRAWBERRY PIE

Mix together 1 cup of sugar and ¼ cup of quick-cooking tapioca.

Add 2 cups of rhubarb cut in ½-inch lengths, and 2 cups crushed strawberries.

Put into a pie tin which has been lined with pastry and rubbed with ½ teaspoon flour. Strips of pastry are put across the top of the filling diagonally, making diamond-shaped holes with the pastry latticed. Each strip is fastened to the edge of the lower crust by moistening with cold water and pressing firmly.

When finished, a long strip is placed around the edge of the pie, on top of the other strips, holding them firmly in place and making a higher rim to the pie.

While the filling may bubble up, it will not run over the edge. This is a very practical way to make a juicy pie, and attractive.

Bake in a very hot oven.

Add 1 well-beaten egg mixed with ¾ cup of thin cream.

Stir until the batter is smooth and thick.

Then pour over the fruit and bake from 30 to 40 minutes at 350 degrees, or until the crust is brown.

Serve while hot with hard sauce.

BANANA WHIP

Beat 1 egg white until stiff; add ½ cup sugar, gradually while beating. Then add ½ cup of sifted, ripe banana pulp and ½ teaspoon lemon juice.

¾ cup sugar.
1 Tablespoon gelatin.

1 teaspoon vanilla.
6 macaroons, or ½ cup stale cake crumbs.

While the coffee is hot, add to the sugar, cream, and the gelatin softened in cold water.

Beat egg yolks very light with salt.

Fold into hot coffee mixture, adding vanilla and macaroons, crumbled, or stale cake crumbs.

Cool and when mixture begins to congeal fold in stiffly beaten egg whites.

Pour into sherbet glasses and chill.

Some Women Unfair in Their Demands for Alimony

What do you think of alimony?

What Roy thinks can't be printed.

Once, when business was good and he was more or less of a big butter and egg man, he fell for a pair of melting eyes and sleek ankles, and said pair of eyes and ankles fell for him—or his bank roll. Anyway, he married 'em.

And now? Listen!

"My dear Miss Martin:

"I know you're a woman, and maybe you'll think I'm just talking out of my turn in this letter, because I've always heard that women stuck together whenever some man had anything critical to say about what one of them did. But I'd like to ask you—What do you think of alimony? And of the modern practice of throwing a man in jail, if he can't pay it?

"I'll tell my story from the beginning, and I'd like to have some opinions on it, from you and the fans as well.

"In the summer of 1928 I met a girl. She seemed awfully sweet, and she seemed to take to me. I took her out quite a lot, and finally fell in love with her.

"To make a long story short, in May of 1929 we were married. I had quite a bit of money then. My business was booming, and I was a good spender. So long as things went on that way, everything was jake. We got along fine together, with her stocking up handsomely on clothes, and a car, and such jewelry as I could afford. I didn't mind that. She was pretty and popular, and I was proud of her.

"Well, then the crash came. We couldn't spend so much. I begged her to try to economize—and that was the beginning of the end. Economizing made her irritable, sarcastic. We began to quarrel, and finally separated.

COULDN'T PAY ALIMONY

"She sued me for divorce, with alimony, and got it, although her folks are well off. My income had been around $800 a month. She got an alimony allowance of $250 a month, in spite of the fact that I brought documents into court to prove that I had lost most of my money and that my business was slipping.

"Well, for a year and a half I managed to pay that, by depriving myself of almost everything I wanted, and living in a cheap hotel.

"Meantime, my business got worse and worse, and finally I felt I couldn't pay it any longer. I managed to get it reduced to $150 a month, and had a hard time paying that, and finally couldn't pay it. And then it happened! She had me arrested when it was two months in arrears, and thrown into jail.

"I pleaded with the judge: told him it was absolutely imperative that I be on deck to look after what business I had left; that if I wasn't it would go to smash, because I had been just nursing it along and hanging by the skin of my teeth.

"But he wouldn't listen. Alimony was the only thing he could see. He threw me in.

"I was there four months. Then my brother, who had managed to weather things a little better than I had, paid her off and I got out. But my business was gone to wreck by that time, and now the alimony is in arrears again. I've managed to dodge getting picked up so far, but I am working for only $25 a week, and can't possibly pay her anything.

AVOIDING JAIL

"She is not in want. She is with her folks. But as soon as they spot me, I know I'll be in again. I know they're looking for me. My brother has kept me posted.

"I am across the line in another state, but she won't hesitate to bring me back, and her folks have the money to do it. She is purely vindictive about it, and told me the last time I saw her that she'd see me rot in jail for the rest of my life, if I didn't pay up. She even said she hoped I couldn't pay, so she could keep me there.

"It sounds incredible, I know, but it's the truth. What a sap I was to ever fall for her—or anybody else, from what you read in the papers about the same subject.

And the judges uphold women like that! What's wrong with such judges, anyway? Why should some woman be allowed to ruin a man, just because he was once silly enough to think she was worth marrying? Can you tell me? Or do you agree with such women? "ROY."

Do I agree with 'em? I'll say I don't! Nor does any other self-respecting femme.

As racketeers, they have Al Capone backed off the map! And the law that lets them get away with it is all wrong.

All right—shoot the works! And see how much of a hand you get!

Depend on Your Own Will to Win, Says Fay King

WILL-POWER
I MUST USE MY WILL POWER TO PREVENT THESE NAGGING, DESPONDENT MOODS I FALL INTO WILL-POWER IS THE WINNING PUNCH IN LIFE, THAT EVERY ONE CAN DEVELOPE TO CHAMPIONSHIP CLASS
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

There is no power on earth more marvelous than the human will power.

There is no fault, no failing, no self-destroying habit, such as drunkenness or drugs, and no temptation which cannot be overcome by a will that means to conquer.

It takes a hard fight, but the will can always win.

The danger of defeat is not so much from within as from without.

Beware of stronger wills who bit by bit undermine the resistance of your own will.

Even those stronger wills who would lend you their good support accomplish little and that only temporarily.

Depend upon your own will alone.

Develop it so that it does not bend to discouragement or depend upon encouragement.

And you have WON!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Acidosis Not a Common Disorder

The medical word "acidosis" is greatly abused, misunderstood and misapplied. So commonly is it used that the average person believes acidosis is a common disorder. In reality it is rare, and the possibility of getting it should not cause anxiety or alarm.

Dr. Copeland

Frequently I am asked what foods produce acidity and what foods should be taken to prevent it. Not so long ago I wrote an article enumerating the foods that encourage acidity and those that produce an alkaline reaction. Since then I have received numerous requests concerning foods I did not include in either list.

May I impress my readers with the fact that if the diet is well balanced and contains abundant fruits and vegetables, there is no need to worry about acidity or acidosis.

Real acidosis may occur after a severe operation. It may follow an excessive loss of blood, as in a severe hemorrhage. It may be encountered in cases of prolonged starvation. In these cases the term acidosis can be properly used.

When acidosis is present there is, as the term indicates, too much acid in the tissues of the body and in the blood. Severe acidosis is extremely serious.

In the blood there is a definite relationship between the normal amounts of acid and alkaline substances. It is true that the diet can influence the degree of acidity in the body, but it does not necessarily alter the reaction of the blood. Only when fever has been present for a long time, or when an individual has been suffering from a prolonged organic disturbance, is there a definite change in the blood's reaction.

Contrary to common belief, most acid foods, such as the citrus fruits, actually combat the tendency to acidity. They help to keep the blood alkaline, and prevent the urine from becoming acid.

In the previous article I pointed out that certain foods are known as "base forming" foods. These tend to reduce the amount of acidity in the body. Among them are almonds, apples, asparagus, bananas, cabbage, milk, lemons, raisins, radishes, potatoes and turnips. On the contrary, bread, eggs, fish, particularly haddock and pike, as well as lean meat, chicken, pork, veal, oatmeal, oysters, peanuts and rice are included among the acid producing foods.

Do not be confused by the term acidosis. There may be temporary acidity, of course, but that is not very important, while real acidosis is.

Remember that a safe diet is one that contains a variety of foods, such as fresh fruits, vegetables, cereals, cream, milk, butter and eggs. Bear in mind, too, that true acidosis is rarely caused by diet. It is usually occasioned by some organic disturbance of the body.

Answers to Health Queries

E. M. R. Q.—What do you advise for perspiring feet? What for nervousness?

A.—For nervousness, have a complete physical examination to find the cause, including the teeth, tonsils and urine. Build up the general health with nourishing food, plenty of rest, fresh air, gentle exercise and diversion. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for full particulars and restate your other question.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Maybe the melancholy beauty is an interesting character in a book, but in real life she is a wash-out long before her time. Dragging spirits aren't good for the insides or the outsides of the feminine frame. They retard digestion, interfere with tissue repairs, knock appetite for a heavy fall, chisel furrows in the face. Women who stay young in looks are those who keep young in spirit, no doubt about it. Laughter is a health help, and an enemy of wrinkles. Those little laughing lines about the eyes don't count. Anyhow, tapping massage and a heavy cream will rout 'em.

Beauty is a blessing that all women are seeking. It is a satisfaction to glimpse a face in a mirror that one doesn't want to make faces at. Beauty has such a high valuation that $5,000,000 a day is spent in the United States trying to get it. Its effects are far-reaching. By looking well a gal feels fit. The smart coiffure, the sassy hat, the complexion that is cultivated with diligence and care, the shining finger tips all inspire a feeling of self-respect. When a woman doesn't care how she looks, life has her beaten. So attend to the beauty chores every day. Carry on!

No need to go about with the face in a dead calm lest wrinkles come. Keep the corners of the lips lifted; use the eyes for expression. But don't, if you value your only portrait, get into the habit of frowning, squinting, lifting the eyebrows. Many wrinkles are of a woman's own making. She doesn't mind her facial manners; there's a heavy drain on the appropriation for beauty repairs. At the first sign of lines make it a daily habit to iron the complexion with ice, to tap in a tissue sustaining emollient that is heavy enough to keep the fingers from slipping and sliding.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Gifts in Taste

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

No need to tell you how interesting and important your column is. Many people undoubtedly write to you every day and express their thanks. It certainly does help one in many ways.

Here is my problem: A girl I have known for two years is going away for a few weeks for a rest. I am very well acquainted with her parents. (I mention this because her parents will most probably accompany her to the train.) Shall I see her off when she leaves town and present her with a little "something?" If so, what shall that "something" be? MERE MAN.

Thank you, kind sir, most heartily for your appreciative words. They made me very happy . . . and very proud!

First ask the young lady if you may have the privilege of seeing her off on the train. I'm sure that she will grant your request, but this is a request that must be made, no matter how well we know the people who are leaving.

Perhaps you'd like to send her a corsage to her home on the morning of her leaving. Girls like this, you know . . . makes 'em look very "elegant" and popular. Three gardenias, with only their own leaves as a background (no ferns of any kind to take away the glory of those glistening leaves), make a lovely corsage.

Or, if you prefer, send her or take her to the train, one or two books to read on her travels. Or if you wish to add a box of candy, that will be fine, too.

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

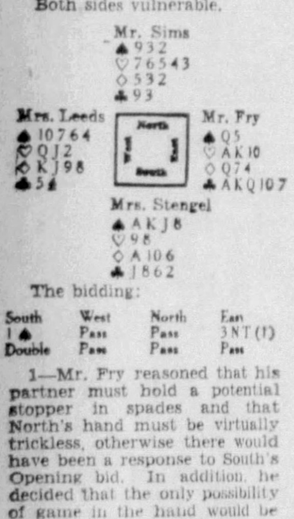
Inferring a Stopper

The language of bidding is a beautiful language when partners are able to interpret correctly. By drawing correct inferences from opposing bids and responses master players frequently achieve results which, without consideration of their mental processes, appear impossible.

A recent example of brilliant bidding inference gave to Mr. Samuel Fry, Jr., of New York, a very fine score on the hand below, which was played in the mixed pair championship event at the recent American Bridge League Tournament at Asbury Park, N. J. Something that added to his satisfaction was the fact that he played the hand against Mr. P. Hal Sims and his partner, Mrs. Margaret Stengel.

South—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	Pass	3NT (1)
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Mr. Fry reasoned that his partner must hold a potential stopper in spades and that North's hand must be virtually trickless, otherwise there would have been a response to South's Opening bid. In addition, he decided that the only possibility of game in the hand would be at notrump, as South, who opened vulnerable, probably held at least two Aces and a King. The fact that Mr. Sims failed to respond to the Opening bid placed West by inference with any strength not in the South hand.

The Opening lead was the heart 9, and then Mr. Fry laid down the Ace of clubs and followed by establishing the diamonds. When Mrs. Stengel won the trick with the Ace of diamonds she was still unwilling to lead spades, so returned a club, thereby presenting Mr. Fry with two extra tricks.

Against any lead, the contract of three notrump was safe, as, in accordance with Mr. Fry's brilliant inference, his partner's hand contained a potential stopper in spades.

Many players might have made the bid of three notrump, but few would have had the courage to play it at three notrump, doubled, when vulnerable.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Mrs. Culbertson will be glad to answer any specific question on bidding or play sent in by readers. Address her in care of this newspaper, inclosing a three-cent stamped self-addressed envelope.

TODAY'S QUESTION

South, Dealer, bids one heart, and West passes. North bids one spade and South jumps the bid to three hearts. What would North's inference be?

Answer — The inference is that South has a strong heart suit, as well as a fairly strong hand, and wishes partner to continue the bidding if he holds something more than a minimum response indicated by his bid of one spade.

Household Hints

Keeping upholstery clean and free from dust and dirt is a problem to many housewives. Thorough brushings do not always seem to remove the dust and having them professionally clean is quite an expensive undertaking. But there is a way that it may be cleaned quite simply and without expense.

Just color some warm water with soapsuds, enough to give it a milk appearance. Take an old Turkish towel, dip in the water and then wring to remove all surplus water. Place this smoothly over the chair, chesterfield, or cushion to be cleaned, and then beat with a switch or carpet beater. The towel collects a remarkable amount of dirt. Incidentally the larger the towel the better for the purpose.

The unschooled nurse is apt to be a bit awkward about her important duties. One of the first things she must remember is to be ever on the alert to keep the quality of her voice soft and pleasant. Even though the patient may be difficult and irritable, the nurse must retain an even disposition. The sick-room should be airy and well ventilated, with the windows open at the top. No article of unnecessary furniture should be permitted to remain in the room, and all that is in it should be of a kind that can be easily washed with soap and water. Medicine glasses should be washed in soapy water and thoroughly rinsed after each dose is administered. The novice nurse should be just as exacting about permitting her patient to see callers as should the efficiently trained nurse.

ASK THIS QUESTION ABOUT YOUR LAUNDRY SOAP

...Will it Eat Through Paint?

Of seven leading brands of soap tested by the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory, six ate right through three heavy coats of paint and enamel. Only TAG did not.

This is because TAG is made without the slightest trace of chemicals, acids, caustics, or adulterants. It's all pure soap—every grain of it.

Get a few bars of TAG from your grocer and compare it with the soap you're using now. We believe you'll find that it gets things cleaner in less time—that it lasts longer and costs less to use—that it's more satisfactory in every way. At any rate, this is the reaction of the thousands of women who now use TAG regularly.

Read This Report of the Pittsburgh Testing Laboratory

Six well known, nationally advertised bar soaps and a bar of "TAG" soap were used. A board was prepared with one coat of white flat paint and two coats of high-grade white enamel.

The test consisted of placing the soaps on the painted surface and keeping the bars wet continuously by means of a wick drip. After 18 hours the soaps were removed and the surface of the board washed clean. All six soaps tested in comparison with "TAG" removed the paint more or less completely. The bar of "TAG" soap, although showing some effect on the paint, did not cut through to the wood at any point.

Add 1 banana cut in small—very small—pieces and pieces of maraschino cherries to give color to the whole and, too, a bit of their distinctive flavor.

Add a third of a cupful of walnut meats broken in small pieces and put these ingredients into a pint of cream that has been whipped stiff.

Place on the ice for at least eight hours and serve in sherbet glasses with slices of a white cake that is not frosted.

PIQUANT SANDWICH FILLING

To 1 cup mayonnaise, add ¼ cup chowchow or India relish, ¼ cup chili sauce, ¼ cup chopped celery, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento. Spread on a layer of scantily buttered white bread, cover with shredded lettuce, and then press on a slice of Graham bread.

DATE AND CHEESE SANDWICHES

24 (½ package) quartered dates.

1 1-pound loaf bread (24 slices).

1 to 2 tablespoons cream or rich milk.

1 cream cheese or ½ cup dry cottage cheese.

¼ cup (⅛ pound) butter.

Follow the general directions for sandwiches, spreading one slice of bread with softened butter and the next with the cheese which has been rubbed to a paste with the cream or milk. Cut the dates into quarters lengthwise with scissors. Press the quarters into the cheese, allowing two dates for each sandwich. If crusts are to be removed, be sure that the dates do not extend to edge of the bread to be wasted with the crust.

Cut 6 tomatoes in halves.

Place in a well buttered baking dish.

Sprinkle with 2 cups chopped green peppers and 1 teaspoon chopped onion.

Add 2 tablespoons of melted butter and season to taste.

Then remove to rounds of well buttered toast.

To the liquid left in the pan add 2 tablespoons each of butter and flour rubbed to a paste.

GRAPE JELLY WEEK!

Save 2½¢ PER GLASS on your Grape Jelly

The cheapest, most delicious grapes of the year are crowding the local markets. So read below how you can make jelly quicker and cheaper than ever this year . . . and then go to your grocer at once.

BY Mrs. F. W. Bateman
ILLINOIS STATE JELLY CHAMPION

Mrs. Bateman is only one of the many State Fair jelly and jam prize winners who use Certo in making all their blue ribbon jellies and jams. Indeed, Certo gives such amazing results that today nearly half the jelly makers in America are using it. Why not try it yourself? It will save you lots of money!

"I just hate to think of women still making jelly and jam the old-fashioned long-boil method. It's so costly. And so terribly tedious!

"I make all my prize-winning jellies and jams with Certo. And I would never think of doing it any other way.

"In the first place, Certo reduces boiling time for grape jelly, for instance, to ½ minute. And, of course, that is how it saves me so much money. For, with so little boiling needed, not one bit of the fruit juice has time to boil away. And as a result I usually get fully 5 more glasses from the same amount of fruit . . . and save as much as 2½¢ on every glass.

"Of course, this ½ minute of hard boiling also saves me lots of time, too. Indeed it takes me only 11 or 12 minutes from the time I put my fruit and sugar mixture on until the time my finished jelly is cooling in the glasses.

"And with Certo you get much better tasting jelly or jam, too. Certainly the 37 prizes the State Fair Judges awarded my jellies and jams in the last two years testify to that!"

★ ★ ★

Why don't you do as Mrs. Bateman suggests and order a supply of Certo today—with your grapes and other jelly making supplies? You will be delighted at the money and time it will save you!

And the extra flavor it will give your jellies and jams, too . . . if you will simply follow carefully the Certo recipes that come in the booklet attached to every Certo bottle.

So don't delay. In a few days these marvelous grapes may be on the wane.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Dukes May Surprise Foe. | No Offer for Brandt.
Upset of 1923 Recalled. | Night Grid Advantages.
Doubt About Cub Bids. | Acid Test of Leonard.

FIGHT LOOMS FOR PITT DESPITE EDGE

PITT'S ROUT OF West Virginia, 40 to 0, after Duquesne had beaten the Mountaineers only 3 to 0, would appear to indicate little chance for the Dukes in their biggest of big-time efforts at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon when they get their long-awaited opportunity to measure strength with the mighty Panthers. But this is a case where comparative scores don't count. The Bluffites will be primed for this game as for no other in their history, they will be at the highest possible mental pitch, and they'll throw everything they've got into the game that means more to them than any they ever played. There's plenty of trouble ahead for the Panthers in spite of their edge, and they won't win without a fight.

Jim McDonald

Remembering the renewal of Pitt-Carnegie hostilities back in 1923, many local grid followers see a chance that Duquesne may surprise the Sutherlands. The Skibos that year had only one outstanding back, Jimmy Robertson, but he was good enough to give his team a 7-to-2 win over the Blue and Gold. The Dukes this fall have two fine ball-carrying left halfbacks in Jim McDonald and Al DeLuca, and the one that happens to be in use is sure of able support from the Sullivan-Pawlina-Zaninelli combination.

OF COURSE, THE present-day Panthers are stronger than the Pitt team of 1923, but even so they may have their hands full tomorrow. And their big score against West Virginia was misleading in a way, according to a number of Pittsburghers who saw the game.

These fans came back expressing the opinion that Duquesne, playing as it did against West Virginia at Forbes Field, might have run up a much larger score if the Mountaineers had played as poorly as they did against the Panthers.

IT'S A QUESTION in fandom's mind whether the Chicago National League club is sincere in its reported plan to go after various star players for next season or is merely slipping some soothing syrup to its patrons to make them forget the world series disappointment.

The whole business is out of order anyhow. It's one thing to want star players owned by another club, but it's quite another thing to get them. It still takes two to make a trade.

AND A CLUB that really is trying to acquire an athlete from another outfit doesn't usually go about it by shouting the news from the house-tops. The customary and the ethical procedure is to lay a proposal very quietly and privately before the owners of the player in question. Broadcasting that you'd like to get a certain pastimer amounts practically to tampering, as it may make the man dissatisfied with his old berth or give him an exaggerated idea of his value because he gets the impression that he is greatly in demand.

Ed Brandt

CLUBS THAT ARE on the level in trying to make trades or purchases often attempt in the regulation way deals that are never heard about in public. The offer is rejected and that ends it all. Yet such a club, doing business in the right way, may be accused of not trying to improve its lineup, whereas a lot of undeserved credit goes to another club that publicly makes huge cash offers for players it knows it has no chance of getting.

On top of the reported plan to bid for Chuck Klein, it is now announced that the Cub management will try to get Ed Brandt, crack southpaw pitcher of the Braves. The trivial formality of mentioning the matter to Bill McKechnie or Judge Fuchs appears to have been overlooked, according to word from Boston.

BUT IT WOULDN'T have made any difference, for the Brave officials declare that Brandt is not on the market. They say there is no chance for anybody to get Brandt, or Walter Berger or Bob Brown.

The Braves admit that they need infielders, and though they think they could get Woody English and Stanley Hack, with Pitcher Pat Malone added, in exchange for Brandt, they have no intention of sacrificing any part of their satisfactory pitching alignment to get the desired new infield strength.

WRITING TO CONTEND that the credit for introducing night football in this region belongs to New Castle High School, which he holds was the first institution in Western Pennsylvania to play an outdoor athletic contest by artificial light, Ralph H. Gardner, faculty manager of athletics at that school, adds an interesting point which his observations have brought out in connection with floodlight games. He finds that players suffer fewer injuries than in the daylight contests and do not experience the same degree of exhaustion. "While night football has increased the attendance and given many persons employed in the daytime an opportunity of seeing games which they would not have otherwise," Manager Gardner writes, "we have found that the greatest advantage to us lies in another direction, and it is two-fold.

"FIRSTLY, IT IS not an uncommon thing for an entire game to be played at night without any time being taken out on account of injuries to players. Secondly, the players, particularly those on high school teams, will come out of a night game with far less exhaustion than is the case in day games.

"This is particularly true of the early season games, and we figure that the injuries and exhaustion resulting from such games when they are played in the daytime are due largely to the high temperature which commonly prevails at this season of the year in this climate."

IT'S A QUEER turn of the fistic wheel that brings Jimmy McLarnin and Benny Leonard together in the Madison Square Garden ring in New York tonight. There is a difference of virtually 10 years between the ages of the principals. Neither dreamed, far back on the trail of time, that they would ever meet as opponents.

Benny Leonard

When Leonard started his fistic career in 1912, McLarnin was a 6-year-old tot playing with toys in Vancouver. When Benny became lightweight champion of the world in 1917, Jimmy was only a grade school student of 12, and when Leonard hung up his gloves to retire in 1924 McLarnin was just 18. Jimmy didn't enter the ring until a year after Leonard had left it.

NOW, WHEN LEONARD is 36 and McLarnin only 26, the fistic fates throw them together inside the ropes. It's the acid test of Benny's comeback campaign, the particular fight for which he has been pointing ever since he started to climb back up the hill. Ordinarily, such a match would be considered absurd, this sending of a Queensberry old man who was out of action for seven years against the hardest-hitting welterweight in the world. But Leonard has been an exceptional comeback. He has beaten several men against whom he was thought not to have a chance. On the other hand, McLarnin has not fought often enough in the last year to keep himself on edge. There is doubt about his form, which was far from normal when he resumed fighting a couple of months ago after a long idleness. Those things give tonight's bout an angle of uncertainty which would not otherwise exist. If he is anything like himself, McLarnin ought to win handily. There is too much youth, strength, speed and hitting power for Leonard to overcome. But if Jimmy isn't just right, or his brittle hands go wrong again, he may have lots of trouble.

SOUTH, PEABODY FACE TOUGH RIVALS

By JULIUS LEVIN

With feature attractions offered in all sections of Western Pennsylvania, the scholastic football battles carded this afternoon and evening show indications of developing into interesting duels.

Two contests scheduled in Section I of the City League, promise to provide plenty of fireworks for local scholastic gridiron enthusiasts. These games bring together Taylor Allderdice and South at Langley Field and Peabody and Westinghouse on the latter's grounds. Schenley should encounter no trouble defeating Fifth Avenue in the third game on the Section I card.

CARRICK MEETS ALLEGHENY

Only one game is offered the followers of Section II, but this should prove a thriller from start to finish as it brings together Carrick and Allegheny on the Oliver High School field.

Allderdice displayed a lot of class in holding Schenley, last year's Section I titleholder, to a scoreless deadlock last Friday and may prove a stumbling block to South's fight for the crown.

Peabody and Westinghouse likewise should present an interesting duel as the two teams are evenly matched and rated among the favorites for the title.

The Carrick-Allegheny contest offers the Lyons boys a chance to take undisputed possession of first place in Section I. Carrick has beaten Langley, 7-0, giving it a tie for first place with South Hills. South Hills is not scheduled for league action today and a victory for Carrick will break the deadlock for the top berth. Allegheny, however, as a result of its victory over Westinghouse in an intersectional game, may upset the Lyons machine.

Two members of Section II engage in non-league contests, Perry playing at Shady Side Academy and Oliver at Bellevue.

FIVE NIGHT GAMES

The program listed for out-of-town fans is featured by five attractive night battles. Scott High entertains Midland at North Braddock; Coraopolis plays at New Castle, Canonsburg at Monessen, Fayette City at Charleroi and Glassport at Homestead.

Glassport at present is leading the parade in the fight for the Class B crown, but the Homestead game will not have any bearing on the championship in this division.

The Mt. Lebanon-McKees Rocks game at Mt. Lebanon is attracting much attention despite the fact that Mt. Lebanon is out of the race for the Class A crown. Mt. Lebanon is bent on turning the tables on the McHenry eleven for the defeat suffered last season. This was the only setback inflicted on Mt. Lebanon in 10 games.

RANKIN AT EDGEWOOD

Rankin and Edgewood stake all their hopes for the Class B title on the outcome of their game at Edgewood. Rankin, fresh from its surprising 6-6 deadlock with Wilkinsburg, a Class AA team, is the favorite. Edgewood started its season with a 19-0 victory over Shady Side Academy last week.

Duquesne plays at Stowe Township, Elizabeth at West Newton, Crafton at Avalon, Freedom at Sewickley, Central Catholic at St. Mary's of the Mount, Leechburg at Kittanning, McDonald at Aspinwall, South Union at Georges Township, Redstone at Trinity, Evans City at Springdale, Dormont at Ben Avon, Bridgeville at Carnegie, Brentwood at Leetsdale and Duke Preps at St. Justin's in other big games.

GOPHER STAR ON MEND

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Continued improvement in his condition, even though slight, today strengthened hopes for the recovery of Myron Ubl, University of Minnesota football player, seriously ill for two weeks.

Ubl was definitely better yesterday, his physician reported, and early today he was resting comfortably. Ubl has a fractured sternum, suffered in football practice; pneumonia and a lung abcess.

Wilmer Hines Wins Mid-Atlantic Title

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Wilmer Hines, University of North Carolina tennis star, won the fourth annual Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate tennis tournament yesterday by defeating Donald Morrison, University of Virginia, 6-2, 6-2, in the finals. The victory, an easy one for Hines, gave him his third consecutive triumph in the Middle Atlantic event.

Hines and his new doubles partner, David Morgan, gave North Carolina possession of the Greenbrier trophy, as they trounced the Virginia doubles team in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3.

LAYDEN SENDS STEVE SINKO TO TACKLE

By JESS CARVER

The last hours of respite and grace are at hand for the varsity elevens of Pitt and Duquesne and tomorrow, barring a calamity of national proportions, they'll inaugurate gridiron hostilities in the Pitt Stadium. The stage is set, the scenery in place and all that remains now is to herd the actors into the spotlight.

Warren Heller

All heavy work for the forthcoming city classic was complete yesterday. Coaches Sutherland and Layden sent their charges through their final strenuous workouts, which were not so strenuous at that. The Panthers, with little to gain and everything to lose, continued their business-like polishing up of the offense Coach Sutherland had decided to gamble with against the Night Riders. The Dukes, upon whom the burden of proof rests (it's up to them to prove they are ready for big time recognition by giving Pitt a ball game tomorrow) checked and rechecked their defense and saw to it that all offensive wheels were oiled and in proper working order.

SQUADS IN TRIM

The squads went through their drills in yesterday's mid-winter atmosphere in satisfactory manner. Both squads remain calm and collected. After tomorrow, however, one is going to be calm and the other collected. The choice is yours, but the wagering element in my public likes Pitt at prohibitive odds or at anywhere from 18 points up.

Steve Sinko, the Minnesota husky, definitely has been nominated by Coach Layden for the right tackle job in the Duquesne lineup, replacing the ailing Jack Donohoe. Otherwise, Duquesne's starting eleven will be the same as was used against West Virginia and Westminster. Al Krankota will pair off with Captain Smoke Abels at the ends, Sinko and Armand Noccolai will be at the tackles. The guard jobs will be filled by Nick DeCarbo and Henry Weinberg. Ben Ciccone will flip the ball back from center.

Larry Sullivan is to run the team from quarterback, with DeLuca and Pawlina set as starting halfbacks and Zaninelli in at full.

NICKSICK BACK

Pitt's replacement force was augmented yesterday by the return to action of Mike (Schnozzle) Nicksick, the Burgettstown sophomore, who had the job of understudying Warren Heller at left halfback cinched until he was laid low by a leg infection. Mike returned to the harness yesterday afternoon and appeared little or none the worse for his period of incapacitation.

Both teams will drill in the Stadium this afternoon, the Dukes working out early and the Panthers late. Both sessions will be of private nature. You'll have to lay it on the line to see these home town elevens in the Oakland bowl. In the event that additional rain falls between now and practice time, the big cover will remain on the gridiron and the teams told to confine their cavorting to the grassy strips along each side of the playing field.

With Paul Reider, Panther captain, out of the lineup, because of a leg injury, all eyes tomorrow will be on Pitt's big halfback star, the Panthers' leading candidate for all-America honors, Warren Heller. Heller was in half a dozen plays against West Virginia last week and gained more ground than the entire Mountaineer force did all afternoon. Set for a big year, in perfect trim, and halfbacking as halfbacking should be, the rangy Panther may be the spearhead of the Pitt attack against the Dukes.

A crowd of at least 30,000 is anticipated for the contest. It Pitt had been held to a lower score last week, the chances of the turnout approaching the 40,000 mark would be considered much brighter, but that 40-0 score knocked plenty from the gate.

TECH PRIMED FOR RESERVE

A light signal drill this afternoon will wind up Carnegie Tech's preparation for its tussle tomorrow in Cleveland with Western Reserve. The Skibos, making their second start of the season, are in fine trim after a week of intensive drill. The squad will depart for the Forest City tomorrow morning, arriving shortly before noon, and will return to Pittsburgh immediately following the game, which will be played in Cleveland's new Municipal Stadium.

Coach Bob Waddell has decided on a starting lineup consisting of Red Stewart and Ray Tesser, ends; Croft and Forsman, tackles; Co-Capt. Hooks Sample and Bunny Burzio, guards; Red Jones, center and Bevevino, Sayles, Co-Capt. Kavel and Mihm, backs.

W. VA., TEMPLE CLASH

West Virginia and Wash-Jeff are primed for tussles of importance on foreign fields tonight. The Mountaineers, beaten in their first two games by Duquesne and Pitt, take on Temple University's powerful Owls in Philadelphia, while the Presidents, with a win to their credit over West Virginia Wesleyan, are up against a tough assignment in Detroit, where they must tackle Gus Dorias' Detroit University Titans.

At Beaver Falls, Howard Harpster's Geneva College Covenanters meet Thiel in a Tri-State Conference game, with the Covenanters topheavy favorites to win. Thiel was beaten in its second game of the season last week by Temple, after having downed Morris Harvey in the opener the week previous.

W.-J. CRIPPLED

A last-minute decision by Coach Leroy P. (Hank) Day, the result of numerous injuries on the squad, was the selection of five more men to make the trip with W.-J. The Presidents' party included 33 gridders, trainers, managers and coaching staff. Of the casualties, only Don Rhodes and Bill King were considered serious enough to perturb Coach Day.

King definitely is out as a starter with Al Demendowitz likely to get the call at fullback. Rhodes may be assigned his tackle berth but it is probable Dick Dalrymple will play most of the game.

BEARS CAPTURE LITTLE SERIES

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Newark's Bears won the fourteenth little world series yesterday when its third baseman, Marvin Owen, hit a home run over the right-field fence in the ninth inning to defeat Minneapolis, 8 to 7, in the sixth game of the series.

The victory gives the International League a tie with the American Association in the number of series each has won at seven-all.

Only 2,529 persons paid to see the final game. Receipts of $3,735.25 were the poorest of the series which began last week in Newark, where three games were played.

Yesterday's lead changed frequently, and the Millers were in front, 7 to 5, when the Bears came to bat in the final inning, with Dutch Henry, a southpaw, apparently as strong as when he started. Henry gave Jess Hill a base on balls. Then Woody Jensen tripled to left field, scoring Hill.

Owen, who turned the tide in Sunday's game for Newark with a circuit blow, then cracked the second pitch over the right field barrier, the ball clearing the street beyond.

Jensen, hurt in sliding to third, limped in ahead of Owen, whose score gave Newark a one-run advantage which a final spurt by the Millers could not overcome. The score:

Owner Misses Bet As Horse Wins At 100 to 1

SAN BRUNO, Cal., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—The first 100-to-1 shot of the season galloped past the judges' stand yesterday at Tanforan track when Jockey Charles Critchfield booted home Eleanor M., in front of the field of two-year-olds.

The rank outsider, owned by C. W. Carroll, one-time trainer for Willis Sharpe Kilmer, paid $254.50 for $2.50 preferred options and $31.80 for $2.00 secondaries. Carroll did not have a ticket on his horse.

Opium, the shortest-priced favorite of the meet to date at 1 to 3, had a long lead but ran to the outside fence on the stretch. Opium was second and Savoyard, third.

ERIE PUNCHER KAYO VICTOR

Frank Bojarski, of Erie, set off some dynamite under the nose of Ray Van Hook, of Pontiac, Mich., in the scheduled 10-round main bout at the Palisades, McKeesport, last night, and Van Hook, after staggering through five rounds and part of the sixth, was saved from further punishment when Referee Red Robinson stopped the bout, awarding Bojarski the decision on a technical knockout.

Bojarski was too tough for Van Hook. The Michigan fighter, with a weight advantage of more than three pounds, was beaten from the start. Bojarski put him on the canvas for a count of eight in the second round and, after being down for nine in the sixth, the go was halted. Bojarski weighed 140¾ pounds against 144¼ for Van Hook.

In the eight-round semi-final, Gene Moretti, of Atlantic City, defeated Paul Oger, of Moundsville, W. Va. Moretti weighed 155½ and Oger 153¼.

Al Conrad, of Duquesne, 126¼, defeated Al Waldeck, Tarentum, 126¼, in four rounds in the third bout. Hal Finney, 147, of Pittsburgh, knocked out Billy Sweitzer, 146, of Ambridge, in the first round of the scheduled four-round second bout, and Eddie Shenn, 145¾, of Turtle Creek, knocked out Tiger Joe Hughes, Duquesne Negro boxer, in the third round of the opener.

NAPIER SEASON GUN CHAMP

Four new trapshooting champions rule today in the Western Pennsylvania Trapshooters' League, the new kings being crowned yesterday as the clay bird season was brought to a close with a post-season match at the Wilkinsburg Gun Club.

In Class A, C. D. Smith took down top honors with a score of 94. W. C. Heisey finished second with 93.

H. G. Hammond scored a 92 to lead the parade in Class B, with C. W. Wernke second with 89. In Class C, O. Nadolny led with an 88 and in Class D, W. T. Duff turned in a score of 88.

Jimmy Napier, with a season average of 95 per cent, is the season champion, and did not take part in the class shooting yesterday. In the non-class event, however, he recorded an 89, tying with H. R. Hamilton. V. Richards' 93 won in the professional event and in the handicap race, W. C. Heisey, shooting from the 22-yard mark, tied with A. J. Boal, who banged away from the 20, both scoring 46.

Hinchman Pair Hurt in Wreck

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7.—Capt. Lew Hinchman, of the Ohio State football team, is suffering from cuts and bruises today, suffered when an automobile in which he was riding with his father, Bill Hinchman, scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was struck by a street car and turned over twice. The elder Hinchman was hurt about the legs.

Paul Hosack, a substitute on the Ohio State varsity squad, escaped injury. The two Hinchman's were treated by the Buckeye team physician.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Pitcher Tommy Thomas, who was traded by the Chicago American League Baseball Club to the Washington Senators, was recuperating today from an operation on his pitching arm for relief from a locked elbow.

Technical Knockouts Mark Amateur Show

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 7.—A pair of technical knockouts marked the amateur boxing show staged here last night as a feature of the annual Burgettstown fair. Steve Levendausky, of the Patton A. C., won by a technical kayo over Angelo DeCaro, of Steubenville, in the first round, and James Campbell, also of the Patton A. C., stopped S. Daugherty, of the Central A. C., in the second round.

In other bouts, Jack Pavlich, McDonald A. C., defeated Robert Carmichaels, Central A. C., of Steubenville, in three rounds; Henry Yurban, Central A. C., defeated Polo Halavey, McDonald A. C., three rounds, and Tony Spillman, Central A. C., won over Leonard Patton, Patton A. C., three rounds.

DUKES SET FOR HARD GAME—HARPSTER

INSPIRED TEAM TO OPPOSE PANTHERS

By Howard Harpster

Geneva College Coach; All-America Quarterback at Carnegie Tech, 1928.

Tomorrow afternoon, in the Pitt Stadium, Elmer Layden's Duquesne University football team meets Dr. Sutherland's 1932 edition of the Pitt Panthers, and thereby attains a goal for which the Dukes have been striving for several years. Last fall, Duquesne and Carnegie Tech played a game after the season's close in the interests of the unemployed, but tomorrow marks the first time either Pitt or Tech has given the Dukes a regular place on the schedule.

Mr. Harpster

With last year's fine Pitt line graduating as a unit, it was a little doubtful whether a new forward wall could be fashioned and made to click in the usual Sutherland manner this early in the season, but all doubts were removed last Saturday, when the Pitt backs went reversing and double-wing-backing down the field for three touchdowns in the first quarter against West Virginia. There aren't any backfield men in the country who could score three touchdowns against the Mountaineers in 15 minutes unless they had a line in front of them that was clicking.

COMPARATIVE SCORES OUT

Both teams have played West Virginia, and, if you believe in comparative scores, the Panthers are 37 points better than the Dukes, but I learned long ago that comparative scores mean nothing at all, and only serve to make a coach's task of preventing overconfidence more difficult. Previous records, size and strength of the teams, and individual stars, of course, mean a great deal, but more important than these factors is the mental attitude of the two teams on the day of the game.

The Dukes have been waiting a long time to get a crack at either Pitt or Tech, and, now that their dream at last is realized, they likely will rise to great heights and put up a wonderful fight. Layden will have his players aroused to a high pitch mentally, and, with the incentive in mind that a victory would be one of the biggest upsets of the year, the Dukes figure to give their stronger opponent a merry ball game.

MUST WATCH M'DONALD

I have seen both teams in action this year, and, of course, string along with the popular belief that Pitt is going to win, but my guess is that it won't be by anything like 37 points. If it is by more than three touchdowns, then I'm going to take Pitt for the remainder of the season.

The fellow who may cause the Panthers the most trouble is young Jim McDonald, elusive Duke halfback. McDonald will be as fast as any man on the field and is a very dangerous runner. If he ever gets past the line of scrimmage and out into the open, the Pitt backs had better have their lasso ready, for he is as slippery as any back in this district.

I will witness the game from the press box and will take down some notes for Monday's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. This will give me all of Saturday night and Sunday to get my alibi ready—in case the two teams doublecross me and Pitt doesn't win by just about three touchdowns.

HUNK ANDERSON HAILS PURDUE AS CHAMP

By HEARTLY W. (HUNK) ANDERSON,

Notre Dame Football Coach

One of the standouts on tomorrow's football card is the Purdue-Minnesota game at Minneapolis, which is a real test for both teams and one of the most important early season games in the Western Conference.

Hunk Anderson

Purdue has been consistently on top of the heap, and should tie or win this year.

Pardonner, who weighs 175 pounds and knows how to block, is at quarterback for Purdue again. Hecker, a 185-pounder, is at left halfback, where he will do most of the ball carrying. Horstman has been shifted to right halfback from fullback and should be one of the best blockers in the country with his 200 pounds. Young Purvis, a brother of Jim Purvis, is probably the greatest sophomore back in Purdue history.

He weighs 200 pounds and has plenty of ability. With 200 pounds of bone and muscle, he should be able to take his place among the best line smashers in the country.

KIZER SUCCESSFUL

Coach Noble Kizer, the former star guard with the Four Horsemen, has been very successful as Purdue's coach. He hasn't said anything in the way of a prediction this year, but he hasn't come out with any bear stories either, which is a pretty good sign he'll have something.

Benny Bierman, Minnesota's new coach, is one of the best young coaches in the game, but he hasn't had time to learn his men as yet. He doesn't know what they will do under fire, and how well they will stand up in a touch game.

He has predicted that with the fair material he has, he will have a strong team toward the end of the season, barring injuries. But he will have to do lots of experimenting early in the year before he knows which are his best men.

SYSTEMS COMPARED

Bierman is a Minnesota grad, and will have lots of support in his new position, and that helps any coach a lot. He turned out great teams for Tulane and his last year's team was one of the best in the country.

He will continue to use the Minnesota shift, so he will not have to train a new system into his players. Purdue will continue to use the Notre Dame system and Saturday's game will give fans a good chance to compare the two styles of play.

OAKLEAFS, ROX TEAMS CLASH

The Soho Oakleafs will inaugurate their home campaign in the Tri-County Conference this evening at Greenlee Field, meeting Joe Vitelli's classy Sto-Rox gridders. Kickoff is at 8:15.

The Olympics, of McKeesport, will clash with the champion Rooneys at Greenlee Field Sunday afternoon in the feature game of the West Penn Conference. For years, these famous outfits have been battling each other, but the Olympics have yet to record a win over the Rooneys.

The East Liberty Papales and the Dan Burns gridders battled to a scoreless tie at Greenlee Field last night in a Conference game marred by fumbles.

Both teams were in scoring positions several times through misplays, but both lacked the punch to force the ball over.

FORMER BUCCOS AID NEWARK IN VICTORY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The winning of the little world series by Newark of the International League brings still another Pittsburgh diamond luminary into the game's bright rays as the sun sets on the season. Albert Mamaux, a brilliant Pirate pitcher when he was reaching his majority back in 1915, seems to have displayed rare managerial qualities as he carried the Bears over a grind longer than that which tests the major clubs.

Woody Jensen

HELPED BY BUCS

The success of Mamaux's team in capping its triumphs by defeating Donie Bush's Minneapolis club is a strong reminder of the prominence of men and boys of Pittsburgh connections in the unusual performances of the summer.

Our own Pirates made a fight for the National League flag, and four of the first five clubs in the standings were piloted by athletes who learned most of their baseball with the Buccos.

In copping first honors in the International League, Mamax had the assistance of Charley Hargreaves and Eddie Phillips, catchers, and Forrest (Woody) Jensen, outfielder, all of whom had seen service with the Pirates.

LOCALS BOOST JENSEN

Jensen, by the way, is given a high rating by the several Pittsburgh boys who performed this year in the International. Each of the Native Sons is convinced that Woody is ready for a major-league berth, although, he may be at a disadvantage here owing to his lefthand hitting. The Pittsburgh battlefront is surfeited with southpaw batters.

Speaking of major-league berths, it would appear that the whole Newark club and the city itself is ready for the best classification in the sport. Newark made more money and drew more fans than some of the major-league clubs. And the same might be said of Montreal, great Canadian city of the Class AA organization.

Arthur McPherson, of New York, a veteran of the courts, advanced with a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Jack Stockton, of New York, while J. Gilbert Hall, an odds-on favorite to retain the title he won here last year, went on to the semi-finals with 6-2, 6-2 decision over Rowland Evans, of Philadelphia.

William J. Clothier, of Philadelphia, became a semi-finalist by eliminating Harvey Y. Lake, of Ocean City, N. J., 6-2, 7-5.

THE success of the Gillette Blue Blade has been so spectacular that imitations have appeared on the market. This was to be expected. The extraordinary quality of the Gillette Blue Blade won tens of thousands of friends overnight. The Blue Blade swept the country and soared to leadership. Men everywhere demanded this extraordinary blade and identified it by its color.

Today color identification is not enough. The quality and shaving performance of the Gillette Blue Blade cannot be matched but the color is being imitated. For this reason you must be careful. We urge you to insist on the genuine Gillette Blue Blade. Avoid disappointment. Look for the picture of King C. Gillette on the package. It identifies the genuine. If this photograph does not appear on the package, the blades inside are imitations. Once again we warn you—look for King C. Gillette's picture on the package.

WARNING—Color alone is not sufficient identification. Look for the portrait and signature of King C. Gillette on the package.

When you shave with a Gillette Blue Blade you get comfort hard to describe. You scarcely feel the blade as it removes your beard. You buy Gillette Blue Blades on our positive guarantee of complete satisfaction. If you aren't entirely pleased, return the package and the dealer will refund your money.

STAGG FAVORS PURDUE, OHIO IN BIG TEN OPENERS

NORTHWESTERN MICHIGAN TILT 'TOSS-UP'

By AMOS ALONZO STAGG
Head Coach, University of Chicago

Tomorrow is the day of the big crash in Middle West and Missouri Valley football. Eight of the Big Ten Conference teams meet one another, and four of the Big Six in the Missouri Valley jock horns. This is the opening of the Western Conference season as well as that of the Big Six, as far as matches within their conference is concerned.

A. A. Stagg

Chicago goes East to play Yale in the first East-West match of the season. It will be the first appearance of a University of Chicago team in the Yale Bowl, where, although a Yale man, I never have witnessed a contest, Yale had an easy time defeating Chicago last year, but this game promises to be much closer. Last year Yale profited by two touchdowns as a result of superior reserves. This year Chicago has better reserves, both for the line and for the backfield. I'll miss my guess badly if the spectators do not get their money's worth.

Illinois is the only member of the Western Conference not playing a big game. It has a practice game with Bradley.

It is self-evident that teams made up of veterans or reserves who have participated more or less frequently in contests should reach their maximum efficiency sooner than teams composed of fewer veterans. At this time of the year no team has reached its maximum efficiency, but, here and there, there are teams which approximate it. Just now, it would seem as though Purdue, Michigan, Northwestern and Ohio State have started out in November form. It seems almost too bad that contests involving Conference championships should occur so early in the season before most of the teams have fully matured. Fortunately, the teams which lose tomorrow are not necessarily out of the championship.

WISCONSIN FAVORED

Of the four Big Ten matches it has been thought that Wisconsin would have the easiest time in winning, but Iowa's score against Bradley Institute last Saturday indicates considerable strength. Wisconsin should win, but it will not be a walk-over victory.

The other six Big Ten teams will be engaged in mortal contest with no certainty as to the result. At Columbus, Ohio plays the greatest teams prospectively that Indiana has ever had. Ohio probably will squeeze through with a victory. Both teams are reported to be playing the double wing-back attack, with Ohio having the advantage of three years of training in the system, which gives it the edge.

The Purdue-Minnesota game at Minneapolis promises to be a great battle. Both teams have been centering their preparation for this game since the opening of practice. Purdue, co-winner of last year's championship and generally regarded as having the best chance of repeating, quite naturally will be keyed up to prevent a setback at the beginning of its hard schedule. The feelings of Coach Bierman may be easily imagined. Returning to his Alma Mater after a succession of three championships in the southern field, he has had a tremendous urge to start off his first Big Ten season with a victory. The odds favor Purdue.

MICHIGAN FACES TEST

The Michigan-Northwestern game at Ann Arbor will be a heart-breaker. Both teams have been pointed for this game since last spring. In the charity contest, following the close of last season, it was supposed that Michigan and Northwestern would naturally come together, but the vote of the athletic directors decreed that Northwestern should meet Purdue and Michigan should meet Wisconsin. The feeling aroused among their partisans was so strong that Northwestern asked Stanford to postpone its game to 1934 in order to schedule Michigan on this date. There is no psychological advantage to either team. This is the first time they have met in seven years.

Wallace, Corzine D.-E. Co-Captains

ELKINS, W. Va., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—James Wallace, of Elkins, and Lester Corzine, of Anna, Ill., were named co-captains of the Davis and Elkins football team last night on the eve of the game with New River in the state festival classic today.

Both are playing their last season.

Coach Cam Henderson said he expected 5,000 persons to witness renewal of the gridiron rivalry between the state conference leaders. The Senators won the last game, 7 to 0, a charity contest at Charleston two years ago.

Jimmy McLarnin vs. Benny Leonard and Ted Yarosz vs. Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, 10 rounds each, Madison Square Garden, New York.

Milo Militell vs. Vearl Whitehead, 10 rounds, Hollywood, Cal.

Paolo Villa vs. Harry (Kid) Brown, 10 rounds, Armory, New York.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Lew Massey, of Philadelphia, and Johnny Datto, Filipino lightweight, now making his home here, are set for their 10-round battle featuring the second show in the new Arena on the North Side tonight.

Massey is the Italian who defeated Tony Herrera at Motor Square Garden and Ray Miller at Greenlee Field during the past year. He has boxed many of the leading 135-pounders and ranks high in his class.

Datto is one of the showmen of the sport, a good puncher and a pleasing performer in victory or defeat. He recently knocked out Charley Baxter, dropped Jimmy Dean several times in winning a 10-round bout, and lost a close decision to Joe Marcus in a bout in which he had Marcus on the floor several times.

Matchmaker Lew Raymond has provided a promising preliminary card to back up this clash. Anson Green, Homestead Negro middleweight, boxes Ray Lyle, of Akron, in the semi-final. Al Farone, of the West End, meets Jerry Clements, Jeannette featherweight, and Mickey O'Brien, of Braddock, tangles with Joey Severino in six-round preliminaries, beginning at 8:30.

Yale to Go Slow On Sport Changes

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Making his first statement since his appointment as chairman of Yale athletics, Malcolm Farmer, in an article in the Yale Alumni Weekly, issued yesterday, said there would be no effort to force changes into effect prematurely.

Farmer said the best football coaches available would be sought, training tables may be continued in the new residential colleges, the suggested shortening of pre-season practice and the schedule may be "undesirable and impracticable," and that discontinuance of minor teams should "only be undertaken with deliberation."

Nighbor Retained As Buffalo Pilot

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Frank Nighbor, who led the Buffalo Bisons to the International Hockey League championship last season, has agreed to manage the team again this year.

He is expected to come from his Pembroke (Ont.) home early next week to sign his contract. The Bison players have been ordered to report for practice on October 24.

Between Rounds

The Datto-Massey bout is a return engagement, Massey having won a decision over Johnny in Philadelphia three years ago. Joey Severino will be making his first start as a professional against Mickey O'Brien tonight.

Local fans are as much interested in the Ted Yarosz-Eddie (Kid) Wolfe, 10-round semi-final as they are in the Jimmy McLarnin-Benny Leonard windup in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight.

Davy Grove probably will box Yarosz in the main bout at the Arena here next Friday night. Motor Square Garden, which reopens for boxing one week from next Monday, with Sammy Slaughter and Paul Pirrone boxing the main bout, is trying to arrange a Tony Herrera-Batting Glass battle for its following show.

Frank Klaus announces that his entire stable of boxers, consisting of Jimmy Belmont, welterweight; Angelo Verglone, lightweight; Carl Montebano, middleweight; Joey Speigal, welterweight, and Carl Gross, heavyweight, is ready for action. Since Marty Gornick holds he is a 146-pounder, and therefore is not interested in boxing Speigal, Klaus is gunning for the other welters for Joey.

Football Ratings On Air Tonight

The first of the weekly All-America ratings of the All-America Board of Football will be heard during the All-America Board radio program over WJAS at 9 o'clock tonight, when Christy Walsh interviews A. A. Stagg, Chicago coach, on the eve of the latter's game against Yale, his alma mater, as the feature of the bill. The ratings will be published exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph tomorrow.

James J. Long, sports commentator of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, presents his weekly sports review over WCAE at 7 o'clock.

The Jimmy McLarnin-Benny Leonard and Ted Yarosz-Eddie (Kid) Wolfe bouts in Madison Square Garden, New York, tonight will be broadcast by WWSW, beginning at approximately 9 o'clock.

Salem Tigers Bow To West Liberty, 6-2

WHEELING, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—West Liberty Teachers won from the Salem Tigers, 6 to 2, on the gridiron here last night.

The score that gave West Liberty the margin of victory came in the second period, when Miller carried the ball from the 13-yard line after obtaining the pigskin on a Salem fumble.

A REWARD That Came Too Late!

Once-Famous Opera Star, Forgotten and Stricken by Poverty in Her Old Age, Is Showered with Honors on Her Pauper's Death Bed

AUDIENCES were moved to ecstasy by the golden contralto voice of Marie Delna in the gay nineties. She was then one of France's greatest operatic stars. Her singing moved even critics to stop her performances at the Paris Opera and Opera Comique with their thunderous applause. She enjoyed wealth and fame and beauty. Yet the once-famous diva passed away, only recently, in the charity ward of a hospital, after starving during the many years she spent literally begging for bread on the streets of Paris.

A Tragic Ending!

Thus ended a strange tale from real life that has no parallel in fiction. And peculiarly enough, this last chapter of the French stage's most remarkable "Cinderella" story has an ironical twist that is startling. Read it and see for yourself! You'll find all the details in an article about the prima donna's rise to fame and her rapid downfall appearing in next Sunday's American Weekly.

Above is Mlle. Germaine Sombray, an idol of the French music halls, who, like Delna, sank to the depths of abject poverty

Our 1932 Tax Bill Exceeds World's Gold

By B. C. FORBES

THERE ISN'T enough gold in the whole world to pay the taxes being levied upon Americans this year.

B. C. Forbes

Think of it! You and I and other American citizens are compelled to earn and pay over to federal, state, county and municipal tax gathers:

$26,636 every moment, from January 1 to December 31, Sundays and holidays included.

$44,871,794 every business day of the year.

IF $5 GOLD pieces were piled one one another, it would take a stack 11,000 times the height of the highest building in the world (Empire State) to equal this year's tax bill.

If $1 bills were used, they would, laid end to end, stretch 53 times around the world.

These same bills would reach from the earth to the moon five and one-half times.

THESE EYE-OPENING facts and figures, presented in the Cosmopolitan Magazine, are calculated to arouse the people of this country to the appalling gravity of the tax menace. America's 1932 tax impositions actually exceed fourteen thousand millions, fourteen billions —$14,000,000,000.

No nation ever before had such a terrific tax burden piled on its shoulders.

It has come to such a pass that we have to work one whole day out of every four working days to meet it.

HERE ARE other graphic facts drawn from the same article, by special permission of the editor:

If every dollar of gold in the United States were tendered in payment of taxes, the bill would not be one-third settled.

If all the gold mines in the world shipped every ounce of their production, it would take 34 years to meet America's tax charges for 12 months.

Put the entire United States Army in one scale and balance their weight in gold, would that equal 12 months' taxes? No. You would have to add another whole army and half of a third army to match the tax gold.

All the gold in the Bank of England, for a century the synonym for colossal wealth, would pay American taxpayers' obligations for less than 12 days.

If all the 1,315,334,428 shares of railway, industrial, public utility, mining, oil, food, mercantile and other stocks traded in on the New York Stock Exchange could be sold at the prices current at this writing, they would liquidate our 1932 tax bill, but with no tremendous percentage left over.

The total value of America's entire agricultural production, both crops and livestock, even in the boom year of 1929, would fall two thousand million dollars short of this year's crop of taxes.

The total salaries and wages being paid this year by 200,000 manufacturing establishments to some 8,000,000 executives and employes will not match the nation's tax claims.

This year's taxes could pay off every farm mortgage in the land, with enough left over to donate almost $1,000 to each of 6,000,000 farmers.

HOW FAR short do you think would the total profits earned by American corporations last year fall of meeting the year's tax obligations? The profits would have to be multiplied by 10, and even then wouldn't quite square the account!

Tax money could employ, at the $15-a-week rate paid by relief agencies, no fewer than 17,948,717 men for a whole year.

The combined annual cost of our army, navy and air forces equals less than three week's tax impositions.

Three new Panama canals could be built with one year's tax receipts.

All new building construction in the United States last year represented an expenditure of less than one-tenth of tax exactions.

The value of all our exports last year was only one-sixth of tax assessments.

The tax burden averages $500 for each family in the land.

IF THESE facts don't incite rebellion against every form of governmental extravagance and waste, then we will deserve to be mulcted unmercifully.

BANKERS' HEAD HELD FITTED FOR POST

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—At this time when the prestige of the banker has become impaired, the American Bankers' Association made an especially happy choice in selecting for its president Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, of New York.

With his background of newspaper editing and advertising, Mr. Sisson, with his statesmanlike vision, recognizes the practical importance of the thoughts which are in men's minds. To him banking is far more than adding figures and appraising collateral. Mr. Sisson has always seen benking as a social force and a human agency.

Mr. Rukeyser

And in his inaugural address at the Los Angeles convention yesterday Mr. Sisson candidly admitted the shortcomings of banks and bankers, and stressed the paramount importance of seeking to correct them.

When Senator Glass proposed thoroughgoing banking reforms at the last session of Congress, bankers as a class opposed him without offering constructive alternatives. Instead of continuing a negative policy, Mr. Sisson wisely urged the banks to use their united influence "at the points where substantial agreement is possible."

In the spirit of confession, Mr. Sisson said:

"Events have exposed weaknesses in our banking system .... We are forced to conclude that there is room for improvement. Our banks can and must be made safer .... The individual banker must unite with the others to throw their combined influence into the scales on the side of a stronger banking system. He must take the broadest possible view of his professional function, of his place in the economic world. In some cases we must allow considerations of immediate personal advantage to be overbalanced by regard for the general welfare ...."

After the recent vogue of timidity, fear, hesitation and negation on the part of numerous bankers, it was welcome to have Mr. Sisson emphasize the duty of bankers to restore confidence in the economic future of the United States. When A. P. Giannini, in the Bank of America in California, launched out in recent months in an aggressive yea-saying advertising campaign, he demonstrated in increasing deposits that courage and confidence beget confidence. A few enterprising bankers elsewhere who have encouraged old depositors and new have received an electric response.

It is time for bankers to relearn the importance of character as a safeguard for loans, and for them to know that broadmindedness and intelligent unselfishness in the long run entail the highest degree of self interest.

Then too, of course, all fair minded observers recognize that bankers have been criticized for some things for which they were not responsible, in the blind wrath of an emotional public under conditions of great stress. To the extent that this is true, perhaps no one in the country is as fitted as Mr. Sisson to put the banker's case before the public.

STOCK MARKET BREAKS THEN STEADIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP.) — The stock market broke through its resistance levels of mid-September, as active selling was resumed today.

The list wobbled indecisively during the first hour, but turned emphatically downward toward mid-day, and by early afternoon losses of 2 to more than 5 points were numerous. The list steadied somewhat, however, as trading went into the fourth hour.

Selling appeared first in farm implements and foods, but quickly spread. Union Pacific lost more than 5 points, and issues down 3 to 4 included American Telephone, United States Steel, American Can, American Tobacco "B," Westinghouse, Case, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Du Pont, Corn Products, Borden, International Harvester and others. A few issues recovered a point or so from the lowest, in the fourth hour, as shorts evidently took profits.

Considerable liquidation was reported based on the belief that autumn business revival had about reached its normal peak, particularly in railroad traffic. There were also some estimates on the forthcoming unfilled tonnage statement of United States Steel Corporation, which placed the expected rise at substantially less than the Iron Age figure of 100,000 tons. One estimate was an increase of 50,000 tons or less. In addition, reports were current that the automobile industry, after its brief upswing, had again started downward, with sales, which for a time had been going into higher priced cars, being diverted in the past fortnight to the lower priced divisions again.

WHEAT UNDER PRESSURE

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Further losses were recorded by wheat futures today under continued pressure of liquidation.

Prices dropped to new lows for the season, with the December breaking through the 50c mark and reaching 49 1/4c. Coarse grains touched yesterday's low prices.

Near mid-season wheat was 1/2 to 3/8c lower, recovering half of the earlier losses. Corn was 1/4c higher to 1/4c lower, also recovering. Oats were unchanged to 1/8c higher and rye 1/4 to 1/2c down.

The following quotations on the Chicago Board of Trade are reported by A. E. Masten & Co.:

EUROPE MOVES TO ARREST DECLINE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP.)—Adoption of aggressive policies by foreign governments in their efforts to aid private enterprise is noted in official dispatches from abroad.

Until recently the majority of governments in other lands limited their political aid to palliative measures with the primary purposes of relieving acute situations. In other words, it was a defensive policy to meet an immediate emergency while agaiting recovery through natural means.

But lately, the Federal Reserve Board has been advised, a number of governments are promulgating more direct methods of assistance.

BRITAIN ON OFFENSIVE

The British Empire, by virtue of resolutions adopted at the Ottawa conference, indicated such steps are planned. Already there has been a conversion loan and it is felt in authoritative British circles that sooner or later the weak positions in her economic structure will have to be liquidated through the creation of some institution for that purpose.

France and Italy have followed the example of Great Britain and are planning conversion loans to aid recovery. The latter nation has an institution similar to our Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Thus far it has taken over the security holdings of the Banca Commerciale Italiana, but it intends to take an active hand in financing industrial enterprises.

GERMANY PLANS RELIEF

Germany has adopted an ambitious program of directly aiding recovery through the establishment of an institution to liquidate frozen assets. Switzerland also has a similar agency for the relief of private enterprise.

These examples cited above are expected to be only the forerunner of many others as private dispatches say that most countries have realized the necessity of establishing special financial organizations to meet the world crisis.

VALENTINE

Captivating Story of a Shy Girl Rushed Into Love

By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Val Journeys to California And Plans to See Her Former Sweetheart

CHAPTER XLI.

Val was on the train, going west.

She had cried, leaving Joe. "Just for a little while. I'll be seeing you soon!" she called above the rumble of the wheels, the farewells of the other passengers. She said it to ease her conscience. Joe looked so pathetic, smiling, waving his hand, with his necktie a little bit twisted, and the old, worried crease between his eyes.

But in her heart she knew that it was goodbye.

It was March. They called it spring, in Minnesota. The deep blanket of snow had melted, disclosing winter's accumulation of rubbish. From her window she had watched the drifts recede, leaving cigar butts and bits of miscellany that stood out on little spires of ice above the melting, grayish snow.

She had raised the window to sniff the "spring" Joe and the natives had talked about, and smelled not green, growing things, but horrid things, unholy odors released from winter bondage.

The lakes were great, ugly mud puddles. The sidewalks were coated with slippery ice, or awash with dirty ice water. Passing cars showered mud in all directions. Everyone yawned and talked about "spring fever." As if a few swelling buds on black tree branches and one or two cold and hungry robins make a spring!

Well, she had tried to stick it out. She'd done her best. If Joe had been happy she'd have stayed. But he wasn't happy, either. He had made that clear enough, in the last few weeks. Nagging at her to go out in the slush, telling her she had coddled herself long enough, and it was about time to snap out of it.

AN UNHAPPY MARRIAGE

Besides, she did need the trip. Nobody knew how homesick she was, how starved for beauty. She needed to get back home and see the gentle emerald slopes of the hills back of Oakland. To smell the spicy wild currant, that the children called "incense brush." To see the brassy yellow of the wild mustard, the gilt of the buttercups, the red-gold of the first poppies.

And what was the matter with Joe that he had forgotten it all so soon, and settled down to liking the middle west, and calling it "west" the way the natives did?

Maybe she had been mean to him, breaking up the apartment, taking her own money that Aunt Julia had saved during all those years, to go home. But he had been mean to her, too.

Anyway, what difference did it make? Her marriage was a failure. Might as well admit it now and have it over with. She should never have married Joe in the first place. She could see that clearly now. What ever made her do it? She must have been crazy.

Well, she knew what made her do it . . . she did it because Lester disappointed her. She married Joe on the rebound. And paid for it.

He felt bad now, of course, but it wouldn't last. He'd get over it. He would have his Pearl, and he could have the right kind of foods, correctly prepared . . . just as if food was the only thing in life that counted! Anyway, he could have it.

The train sped through the night. She lay in her berth, tossing, turning, staring out at the meaningless blackness. It might be best to go to Nevada, and get a divorce—have it over with. Las Vegas was near Los Angeles. She could easily go there.

And then she and Lester . . .

Her heart began to pound. She sat up, suffocated, half nauseated.

Lester hadn't wanted her when she was free. She must be crazy to think that he'd wait for her now!

After all, it might be better to go back, and try again. Give Joe another chance. She could still turn back at Omaha.

She half decided to do it.

Joe would realize what she had sacrificed if her cold got worse . . . turned into pneumonia.

For a long while she lay back in her berth, eyes closed, picturing herself, lying dressed in white in her pale casket, lilies—wired from California by Lester—in her lifeless hands.

MEETS MOTHER

A tear or two rolled down her nose, and she brushed them away. Others fell. It did seem a shame to die so young.

She closed her eyes, started to count sheep going over a fence.

Of course, the perfect solution would have been the convent. If Millie had only left her with Sister Anastasia, in the peace of the church. She could have stayed there forever, calm and good, praying for the world. Another saint like Sister Anastasia, only, of course, better looking.

But it was too late to think about that. She was on her way to Lester, the train was carrying her to him at last . . .

She fell asleep toward morning and dreamed that she was lying in Lester's arms, and he was recoiling from her in horror because she was calling him "Joe."

She could hear herself screaming "Joe!" "Joe!"

Awoke, face damp and hair clinging to her wet forehead, thankful for the noise, the whistling of a passing freight train, that had kept her from being heard all over the car.

Millie met her at the station in Los Angeles.

They clung to each other. Millie said, "I have lost my husband," and wept. Val cried a little, too, partly because she felt that she had lost hers, too.

But Millie smiled through the mist of tears, said, "But I must not be sad. I must not make you sad. We're going to be gay! Oh, so gay and young and happy together. Just the way Deems would want it to be."

Looking at Millie as they rolled toward Millie's apartment in the taxi, Val was surprised to see how gay and happy and well Millie did look.

But not so young. The slimness, the pale, almost childishly simple wool dresses that had characterized her the last time they were together, had vanished as completely as poor Mr. Harris.

SAME OLD MILLIE

With a little start of surprise, Val realized that for the first time since she was grown up, she was seeing Millie as she used to look, years ago. A Millie with frankly voluptuous curves, a generous dash of makeup, a big hat, and a fur!

"Millie, you look just the way you used to look, when I was a little girl!"

Millie laughed with pleasure.

"Darling! Oh, but I don't. I was so young then—younger than you are now—well, practically speaking, I did marry young, you know. But, of course, that's a long time ago and I I've got a big girl for a daughter now!"

"Oh, you still look young," Val assured her loyally. She did! And when she wasn't so plump she'd look younger still. "But what I meant was your clothes. Of course they're modern, but they—well, they are the same KIND of clothes you had then!"

Millie smoothed the immense fox collar of her close fitting black cloth coat.

"Hmmm — picturesque, isn't that what you mean? After all, I AM that type. So I may as well dress the part. And, my darling, you do not know what a relief it is to be able to be myself again! Well, you will never know. You've been too sheltered, and you married that sweet boy who would think you looked like The Well Dressed Woman no matter what you wore. But I——"

"Of course Joe always liked my clothes. But didn't—didn't your—I mean, Mr. Shallor and Mr. Harris——"

"Mr. Shallor!" Millie almost spat through her teeth! "That convention-bound old libertine! Don't you remember? How can you forget those polo coats—horse blankets I call them—that he used to make me wear? Ugh! I can remember those slouch hats and brogues yet! And dear old Deemie was just as bad in his own way. A seven-yard length of brocade, preferably moth-eaten, with a hole for the neck and arms was his idea of something stunning for evening. Oh, my soul, how plain I was! And me, yearning for velvets and rhinestones and lace!"

She laughed, and Val laughed, a little less gayly, with her.

There was Millie, back at her old tricks. Disillusioning you about the past that she had once made so glamorous.

"Well, Jim liked your clothes. I have heard him say so. I remember it," she said stoutly.

Millie looked out the window. "Yes, he thought I was perfect. And I . . . I thought . . . Val, are you trying to make me get sentimental over the past? Jim Atkinson was a sailor, with a taste for seashells and pretty girls. And he had a big fat mamma and a half dozen kids waiting for him at home. He said himself that it was a good job I sent him back, finally—"

They both felt depressed for a few moments. Through the city the taxi took its way.

They turned up a side street, off the boulevard. The driver leaned out, looking for numbers.

Millie said, "It's in that apartment house over across the street. The sort of Spanish one. I hope you won't mind a one room and kitchenette, and sleeping with me in a wall bed. I rather like it. It's sort of fun, camping. And, of course, it's only temporary!"

Synopsis

Valentine Macfarlane is practically deserted at the age of 8 by her gay, widowed mother, Millie. She is brought up by a manhating maiden aunt, Julia, and becomes a stenographer. After a brief infatuation for the dashing Lester Sherwood, she marries a neighbor boy, Joe Carey, and goes to Minneapolis, where Joe is an architect. Pearl Neely, one of Joe's friends, visits and begins to take liberties about the apartment. Val dislikes Pearl, but says nothing. Unused to housework, Val becomes discontented. Joe tells Val his plans for the future, but she is unimpressed. Millie's husband dies and she sends for Val to go to New York. Val is disappointed when Millie changes the plans and wires for her to stay at home.

Now Go On

Val's heart began to pound when she thought of Lester.

Heart of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Has a Suspicion Concerning Edith Fairfax

Helena Brixton was delightfully cordial, almost effusive, when I told her over the telephone of the dinner dance I was giving. There is no one more-socially-minded than Helena, and she was plainly delighted at the chance to join us.

"We'll be there on the minute," she promised. "Is Carolyn there?"

"Yes, and anxious to talk to you."

I turned from the telephone and summoned Carolyn, who carried on an excited and evidently successful colloquy with her mother over the subject of a new gown for the dinner-dance, for Helena asked to speak with Lillian, and I heard Lillian say: "I'll attend to it for you. How absurd. I fancy the money can wait until you arrive. That's a liberal estimate. All right. See you Friday, old girl. So long!"

She turned to the girls peremptorily as she hung up the receiver.

"If I'm going to go shopping with you tomorrow, I want you to be a shopping tour—nothing tonight, and be ready to start by daylight. Harry will drive us in, but he's going to be the only male in the party. This is to be a shopping tour—nohting else. We'll snatch lunch where we can."

Marion sprang up with exaggerated alacrity.

A QUICK BUYER

"I'm telling you, girls," she said with a little moue at her mother, "that you'd better heed them cruel words. Did you ever see my mother buying a new outfit? She comes into the department like a whirlwind and says: 'I want to pay not over this sum for a gown. It must be this color or this—she usually gives them two—of this material, and conservative. Please bring me only the gowns that fit this standard. I have very little time.'

"When they bring them to her," Marion went on, "she gives one look, takes two of 'em into the fitting room, decides on one in about 3" seconds after trying them on, and her shopping is done. So let's get busy on our color schemes."

"Let's gather up the morning papers and go into executive session," Mary suggested. "Perhaps there are some sales on."

They hurried out of the room, their differences apparently forgotten in the age-old feminine sartorial urge.

"What do you think?" Lillian asked breathlessly, as soon as they were out of hearing. I knew what she meant and wasted no time in questioning.

"If her manner is any indication I don't think the thought of Mr. Charles Owen is troubling her very much," I answered. "But, of course, she inherits her mother's poker face, so I imagine we'll have to reserve judgment until Friday night, when we see them together."

"God couldn't be so cruel!" Lillian said with sudden passion, and her twisted face had no resemblance to a "poker face."

EDITH CALLS

"Of course not," I said soothingly, and was glad of the telephone's interruption. When I answered it my eyes flew to Lillian's.

"Edith," my lips framed without sound, and she nodded. I answered Edith Fairfax's query:

"Is Mrs. Graham there?"

"'Lo Ede," I said easily. "This is Madge."

"Oh! Hello there!" Her voice held a warm, friendly note that I had not heard in a long time. "I don't need to ask you how are you. The Dicky-bird says you're blooming, as usual. He just flew in, and while perched on the swinging bar he cheeped about a party you're going to sling Friday night. I'm thrilled to tears that you're asking me, and I want to ask you a big favor. May I bring a man with me?"

"A dozen, if you like," I returned.

"Oh; he can dance—this man!" she said. "I never knew a better." I could imagine her sidewise provocative glance at Dicky as he spoke. "You know him. That fourth cousin of mine, Dr. Jim Paige. I've got him on my hands for a week, and as he won't move anywhere without me, I feel sort of duty bound to drag him along. You're a dear to let me bring him! Want to talk to the Dicky-bird? No? So long then."

The receiver clicked, and I hung my own up slowly. So this was the ruse Edith was employing now—trying to make Dicky jealous!

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club who attend the meetings tomorrow which will be held at the 16 theaters listed below will be entertained by Capt. William Campbell, famous airplane pilot.

Capt. Campbell is the official pilot for the Pitcairn autogiro, those tricky little planes which are able to land and take off in a space not much larger than the average-sized room. Besides being the chief pilot for the Pitcairn company, Capt. Bill holds the world's record for making loop-the-loops, having looped 151 times in succession.

At the Rowland Theater, Wilkinsburg, the program again will be in charge of Miss Mildred Rotthoff, assistant cashier, who has conducted meetings so capably in the past.

TO ENTERTAIN

Besides Capt. Campbell, the Rowland Junior Komic Club Orchestra will be on hand to offer several selections and the following boys and girls will entertain:

Joan Smith has promised to play several snappy numbers on her saxaphone and Virginia Eberle is going to sing and tap dance. Hubert Gillette has promised to bring along his mouthorgan. When Hubert starts to play all the youngsters crowd around the stage and join in singing the number he is playing. When Hubert's time is up Miss Rotthoff has a hard job restoring order so that the show might continue, because the youngsters never tire of Hubert's playing. Betty Haslette, that popular mistress of ceremonies, again will act in that capacity and also will do a song and dance for the members.

The Enright's dancing school will continue under the direction of Ruthie Miller, and, although Manager Bill Zeilor is on his vacation, he arranged several interesting games and contests for tomorrow's meeting before he left. His place will be taken by Roy Rowe. Last week all the members gave "Bill" a surprise party after the regular meeting.

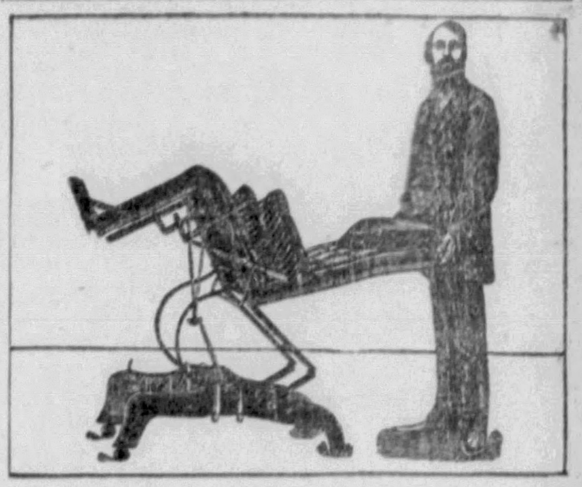
DESKS WILL NOT SUFFER A SCRATCH IN THE NEXT WAR



If the rest of the world declines to disarm, then there is nothing for America to do but prepare for the next war. And don't you think that the busybodies back in Washington aren't ready—they won't be caught napping this time. Above is a picture of the new executive's chair that will be used by executives in the various b[illegible]eaus the minute war is declared. Last Day to Register!

Be Sure to Qualify Tomorrow to Vote in the November Election.

On November 8, besides voting for candidates for President and Vice President of the United States, the people of Pennsylvania will elect a United States Senator, State Treasurer, Auditor General, Justice of the Supreme Court, two judges of the Superior Court, Representatives in Congress in all districts, State Senators in the odd numbered districts, and Representatives in the General Assembly in all districts.

The voters of Pittsburgh have shown apathy. The number who registered on the first two registration days was 41,645 less than the number who registered on the first two days last year, and 28,769 less than the number who registered on the first two days of 1928.

This apathy is inexcusable, because issues of the first importance are to be settled in the forthcoming election, and every citizen should pass judgment on them by voting, as a matter of civic duty.

The issues in the presidential contest have been brought prominently to the attention of the voters. It is time that the issues in some of the state contests were also discussed publicly by the candidates.

We have an example of such an issue in the demand of the Pennsylvania division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, at their convention in Harrisburg Wednesday, for the repeal of the Snyder-Armstrong state prohibition enforcement act and the adoption in its stead of a plan for the regulation of the liquor traffic which will be responsive to the sentiments of the people and so capable of enforcement.

What do the candidates for the Legislature think of this?

The lack of public discussion of the issues in local contests no doubt has something to do with the voters' apathy. The feeling that the Republican nominees are sure to be elected may be another factor. But this confidence in Republican success is not warranted by the straw votes that have thus far been cast by Pennsylvanians in the presidential poll which the Sun-Telegraph and the other Hearst papers are conducting. The poll has been strongly in favor of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Tomorrow offers the last chance for Pittsburghers to register. The polling places will be open from 7 to 10 a. m. and from 4 to 10 p. m. If you are one of those who have been indifferent, shake off your apathy. Register!

A Splendid Philanthropy

The Watson Home for Crippled Children Has Gone Far Beyond the Founder's Expectations.

The late D. T. Watson, one of Pittsburgh's most distinguished lawyers, provided in his will that his beautiful home on the Camp Meeting road, back of Sewickley, should be turned into a home for crippled children. He mentioned 40 as the maximum number that could probably be accomodated and set aside a sum of money for their maintenance.

It was a wonderful gift. Hundreds of little unfortunates, though no more than 40 at a time, have lived in that beautiful home, played on those attractive grounds, been educated by high-class teachers, and given the best surgical and medical attention that could be obtained. And the public has never been asked to contribute a cent.

A visit to the Watson Home would make almost anyone ashamed to be downhearted and pessimistic. For the crippled children who live there, although in many cases horribly afflicted, are the most joyous crowd imaginable, fairly bubbling over with fun and happiness. It is a great treat to be invited to one of their parties or entertainments.

And now comes the best part of the story. Mr. Watson thought his money would only take care of 40 children, but it has been growing during these years since his death, and the trustees have decided the time has come to extend the good work. Buildings have been started which will take care of 90 additional children, and eventually it is expected to provide for 150.

There is no news today that is better than this.

Some Pointed Questions

The Taxpayers Will Appreciate an Official Response to Mr. Bamford's Queries

James W. Bamford, chairman of the taxation committee of the Building Owners and Managers Association, who called for a slash in municipal expenditures in his address before the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce a few days ago, has followed it up by asking some pointed questions about municipal affairs in a speech to the Rotary Club.

He asked why it was necessary for the city as well as the county to employ inspectors of weights and measures. He asked why the Department of Health has a bureau of infectious diseases and also a separate division of transmissible diseases. He asked why it costs three times as much to operate the City-County Building as it costs to operate an ordinary commercial office building of the same size. And he asked many other questions which pointed to overlapping of activities, padded payrolls, waste and inefficiency.

The Kline administration would do the taxpayers a favor if it would answer these questions.

Strange Aquatic Life

Pittsburgh's Streams Would Be More Interesting If They Were Not Polluted

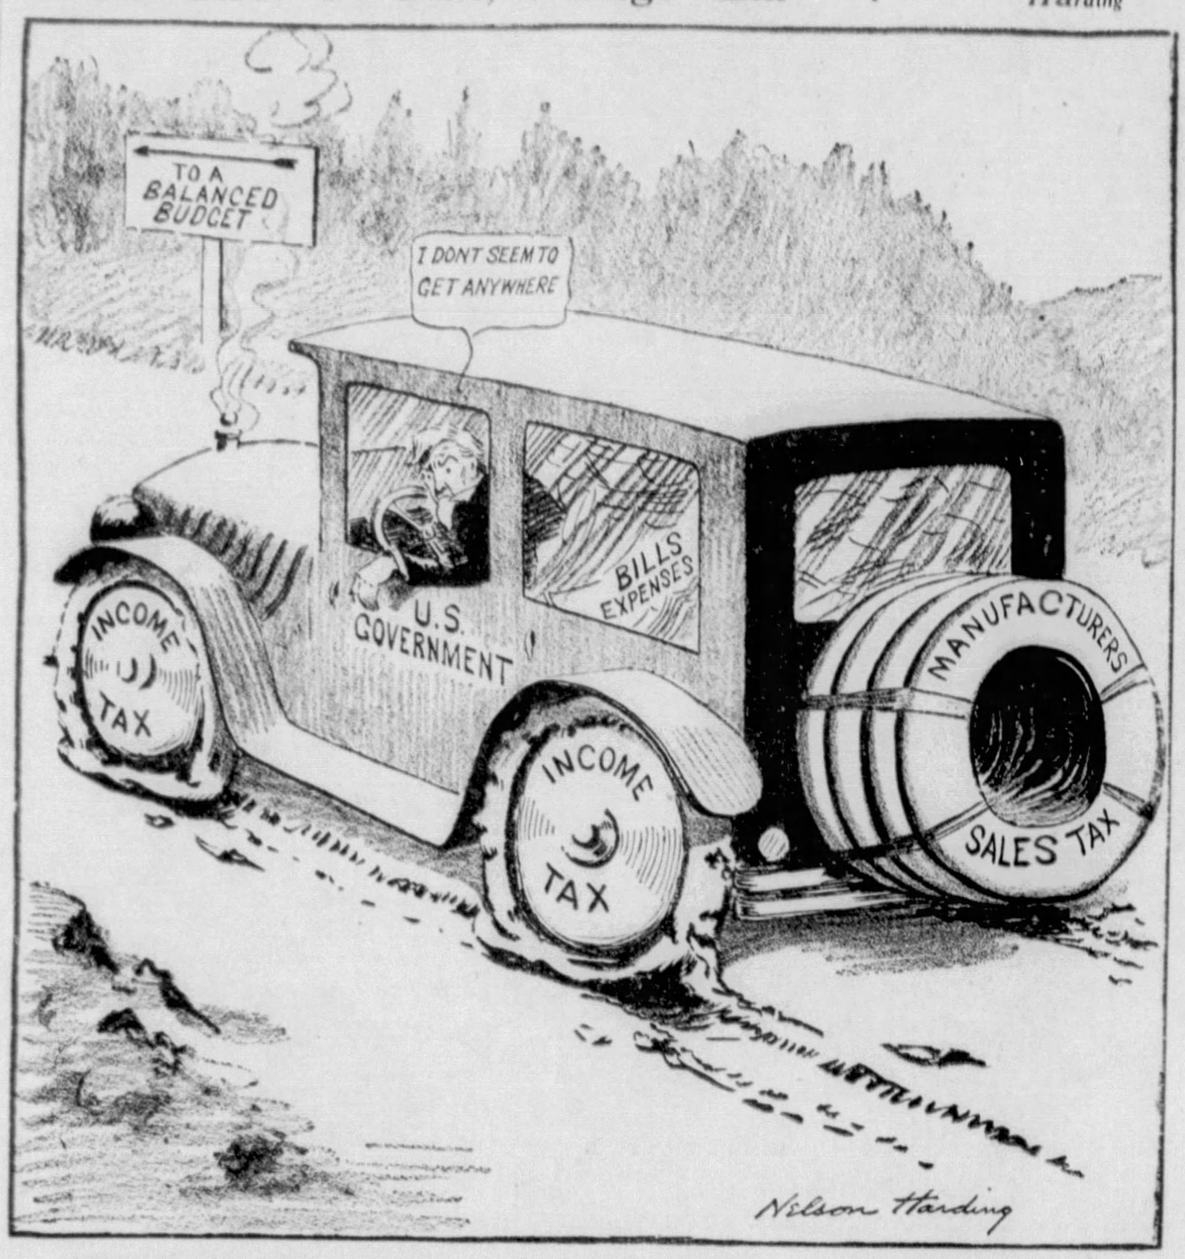
A hydraulic pump at Bellefonte slowed down. Investigation disclosed that the water wheel was clogged with eels, some of which were more than four feet long and as thick as a man's arm.

The Fish Commission reports the capture of two snapping turtles weighing 45 pounds each. One was caught in the Juniata, the other in Tobyhanna Creek.

An angler at Cambridge Springs caught a muscalonge in French Creek weighing 19 pounds.

These are among the more interesting items in the day's grist of fish stories. Such stories never come out of Pittsburgh because our streams, poisoned with industrial drainage and domestic sewage, are lifeless. How much more interesting they would be if they, too, were inhabited by strange aquatic animals!

When Tires Go Flat, Change 'Em -:- By Nelson Harding



Ask any motorist what he would do
If all of his tires went flat.
Still try to drive and expect to get on
In a car that is crippled like that?

You know the answer to that one is: "No."
He'd change tires without delay.
Take off the flats and put on the new spares,
For that is the sensible way.

EUROPE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Being a river boy, there's a sentimental pull for the shadowy quais and the rues ancienne cascading crazily into them. I love to saunter at dusk along the Seine's edge, gazing into the colorless family life of the barges and beholding contrasting quick flurries across the bridges.

Under the stone arches at twilight gather the nightly human scum for the brew of pot-au-feu and a gutter-snipe smoke. Incredibly ragged, they are also indelibly stained with the sticky filth only the Parisian pariah collects. Sprawled on flagging and disked under stars they toss fitfully into another day.

Each Seine bank is cliffed-in with stone buildings still clinging to winter's chill. Concierges flip flop in woolen slippers and thick sweaters on warmest days. From the oddly-ashine canary-colored sidewalk benches the murmur of lovers mingles with the breezy air of poplars. A baker boy's tricycle rattles by.

From a forgotten back street the plaintive whine of a bistro accordion. Listless dogs stretch in bleak courts. Old men greet one another with a single quick shake. The wine carter's shrill "Whee—eej!" Green-fronted maisons d'accouchement. Tacky candy stores with everything out front in jars.

Fascinating book stalls—rows of slanting-topped boxes with leather hinges. Often in the muck, real gloss for the collector. Beside them on high stools dried-up Methuselahs in black straw hats. Knitting wives. In the background, somber grey-white Notre Dame and a setting sun firing a golden barrage at hideous gargoyles.

* * *

In Montmartre's night life, where Joe Zelli held sway so long, they whisper his ill-starred venture in New York was gangster retaliation. They were paying France in its own coin for the eviction of Texas Guinan over here. True or not, Zelli's New York experiment cost him $100,000. Zelli's first bid for fame among Americans was after a story, "Next Door to Zelli's," appeared in the old Smart Set.

* * *

In all the times I've passed the grave of the unknown soldier under the Arc de Triomphe and its perpetual spurt of gas flame, I never joined those standing with bared heads there until today. The bronze covering it—if the hasty jottings on the edge of my figaro are accurate—is inscribed thus: "Ici repose un soldat Francais, mort pour la patrie."

* * *

Harlem's dusky Josephine Baker is in eclipse among cabaret entertainers. Her place is usurped by a blonde Helen Morgan, who, piano-wise, sings topical chansons in French. Her name is Lucienne Boyer, and she holds forth at The Clochard, near Montparnasse Station, packing them in nightly. Six years ago she was in a revue at the Winter Garden, and not a reviewer, she says, mentioned her. Today she has snooted four big offers to return. "Why should I?" she cries. Indeed why?

* * *

A lady of sorrows seen in the restaurants patronized by Americans is the tragically wistful Viola Krause. Her name for weeks studded thick headlines of the unsolved Joseph Elwell murder. Afterward she came to Paris and has never returned. She is a saleswoman in a dressmaking establishment. I saw her this noon lunching alone at Larue and in bowing to a passing acquaintance her flitting smile had the Mona Lisa's quick evaporation.

* * *

Too, I ran into the puckish Fanny Ward, who was in a cricket-scamper across Place Vendome. Landing with 12 trunks and eight hat boxes, she discovered at Rouen she had left the hat boxes at Havre. Her husband, Jack Dean, was turned back to retrieve them and will limp in tomorrow.

There's a legend outdoor cafes are possible in Paris because there are no flies. It's a dirty lie! One singled me out at a sidewalk table tonight. Everytime I shooed it away it returned to a thin spot in my hair. I tried to reason with it—insect to insect—but no dice. Its persistence finally inspired an alec at the next table to make book. Waiters stopped work. All was excitement. I've a feeling it may have been a foreign relative of one whose wings I pulled off when a boy.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

How can a poor life become rich?

A dull life become exciting?

A weak life become powerful?

A limited life reach out to endless horizon?

It can be done. It has been done, again and again, in human history. Indeed, most of our richest treasure and proudest achievement was given to us by handicapped men—poor, sick, obscure men who had not the means to travel or the chance to embrace splendid opportunity. And yet, somehow they contrived to make of life a flame that shall never die.

There was Jesus of Nazareth, for example. Have you ever thought about His life—as a man? Such a short life, lived without glory amongst common people in shabby villages. Simple pleasures. Humdrum tasks. A hut to build. A catch of fish to share. A walk to take at twilight through a quiet field.

Just the common life of any working man. Uneventful; without adventures. And yet, always He made life vivid and vital, for Himself and for others. There was about Him some sense of constant, mysterious renewal, of personal vigor and authority; a freshness and tang which drew men like a magnet and quickened their dull, discouraged souls.

What was His secret? How, from such simple sources, did He wrest such power and potency? The orthodox will say that He could do this because He was a God. But He was also a man, living the life of a man, facing the limitations of a man. How, as a man, was He able to keep life fresh and exciting?

HE WAS ABLE TO MAKE LIFE EXCITING BECAUSE HE HAD THE COURAGE TO FACE LIFE SQUARELY; TO LIVE LIFE COMPLETELY; TO TAKE ALL THERE WAS WITH ALL THAT HE HAD OF MIND AND HEART.

Recently, in a sermon, the Rev. Thomas H. Whelpley, of New York City, gave this fine picture of that valiant Mind—

"CHRIST REJECTED TRADITIONS—AND SAW THINGS FOR HIMSELF. THIS HE DID IN THE FACE OF OPPOSITION AND PERSECUTION. TO THE LEGALIZED ECCLESIASTICISM OF HIS DAY HE WAS A MODERNIST OF THE FIRST ORDER AND THE ARCH-HERETIC OF ALL TIME. CHRIST SAW A KINGDOM IN A GRAIN OF MUSTARD SEED; THE FATHER'S LOVING CARE IN THE LILY OF THE FIELD; AND IN PETER HE SAW A ROCK UPON WHICH THE CHURCH WOULD BUILD."

Life was no second-hand affair to that eager, inquiring, doubting, disputing young man whom His neighbors called Jesus of Nazareth. Not for Him the worn out dogmas, the moth eaten pessimism and sentimental platitudes of His time.

HE THOUGHT FOR HIMSELF, ASKED HIS OWN QUESTIONS, MADE HIS OWN DISCOVERIES. LIFE FOR JESUS WAS A THRILLING PERSONAL ADVENTURE BECAUSE HE MADE IT PERSONAL AND WAS WILLING THAT IT SHOULD BE THRILLING.

Life may be a thrilling personal adventure for any man who will dare to think for himself, dare to question and experiment and discover.

You may not be able to escape poverty or sickness or tragedy. These things are largely beyond our human control.

BUT NO MAN NEED EVER BE BORED.

NO MAN NEED EVER BE STARVED FOR BEAUTY, OR DENIED POWER.

IN EVERY MUSTARD SEED THERE IS A KINGDOM. IN EVERY LILY THERE IS A VISION OF GOD. IN EVERY MAN THERE IS A ROCK ON WHICH THE KINGDOM OF GOD MAY BE BUILT.

Tools of the Oligarchs; Roosevelt 'Dangerous'

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Senator Henry J. Allen, repudiated by the people of Kansas, and one of the managers of Mr. Hoover's campaign, has issued an indignant denial of "malicious stories" that the head of the administration was once a British citizen. We imagine that Mr. Allen is unduly indignant. No one of managerial responsibility in the Democratic organization is even interesting himself in that story which has been current for years.

We understand that there is no evidence to show that Mr. Hoover had ever voted either in England or the United States until in 1918. He had no more interest in public affairs in England than he had in those of this country.

The story, however, is based upon this fact: that as a youth he left the United States and during the greater part of his mature manhood, he lived under the English flag, maintaining a home and office in London. His business and social associations were all British; and there is no reason to assume that he ever would have returned to the United States had not the war offered the opportunity for him to return to advantage.

His business was in Britain. For many years he was interested in mines and mining stock. The Blue Book of the Mining Industry of Great Britain is sprinkled with his name.

All we know about his political predillections up to the time, in middle life, when he voted the Democratic ticket in 1918 is vague. Asked his politics by a distinguished lady of New York, now prominently identified with Republican politics, he replied that he was a "Liberal." That is one of the political parties of England. But that does not imply that he voted the Liberal ticket in England. We are glad to testify that there is nothing of evidence to show that he ever voted in England, or anywhere else until 1918; in truth, he had never interested himself in public affairs and had devoted himself exclusively to the building up of his personal fortune.

Mr. Coolidge Will Defend Himself

Mr. Coolidge will continue the defense of the do-nothing policy of his administration, which, by giving the financial oligarchs a free hand to run riot, led inevitably to the almost criminal inflation of the market and the ruinous crash. He will speak in New York City.

It will be recalled that it was under his presidency that the government conceived the novel notion that one of the functions of the government is to affect the markets by misleading statements, now known to have been false, regarding business conditions. It is highly proper that Mr. Coolidge should rush to the rescue of the unhappy victim of his policies.

Like Mr. Hoover he is firmly convinced that governments are organized among men to serve the interests of the financial group at the top; and such was the policy of his administration. As time goes on neither Mr. Coolidge nor Mr. Hoover will be set down in history as other than minor characters during the 12-year period which began with a saturnalia of corruption and is now drawing to a tragic close in the most tragic panic this nation has ever known.

The vicious inflation of the Coolidge market, the turning of 11,000,000 breadwinners into the street, the loss of the foreign markets, the wholesale crash of banks, the acceleration of the wreckage of the farms are the logical results of the Coolidge-Hoover concept of the state. But the Master Mind who pulled the strings and determined policies was not President; it was Andrew Mellon, whose accession to office history will put down as the first open and defiant proclamation that Wall street had taken the government over.

A year before Coolidge went out of office from three to four million breadwinners were on the street; and only the liberal issuance of false statements from high places at critical moments prevented the market crash under his regime. The Coolidge myth went glimmering long ago. Mr. Coolidge will defend himself, and he has a heavy job.

Meanwhile, more and more it is evident that Mr. Roosevelt has nothing in common with the thinking of the Hoovers, the Coolidges and the Mellons. The best evidence that Roosevelt is not a tool of the financial oligarchs is the fact that Wall street and the public utilities are against him and will spend money like a drunken sailor to defeat him. The strategy of the Hoovers and the Hurleys and the Ogden Mills henceforth is to describe him as a "dangerous man."

He is dangerous; he is dangerous for crooks; he is dangerour for highly respectable swindlers of the public; he is dangerous for the gentlemen who have been making handsome commissions by the dumping of wild-cat foreign securities on the public; he is dangerous for those who have been permitted to use the instrumentalities of government to enrich themselves at the expense of the nation; he is dangerous to the plans of the power trust to take over on their own terms the natural resources of the people for the plucking of the people.

It is a fine and promising prospect to have at the head of the government a man who is "dangerous" to the plans of the few to pick the pockets of the many.

* * *

Wipe Out 'the Causes Of Poverty'

In a remarkable non-partisan speech at Detroit, Mr. Roosevelt showed just how "dangerous" he is. The man actually appeared to feel that one of the functions of an enlightened, truly civilized society, organized into government, is to interest itself in the welfare of the average man! Such sentimentality! Such twaddle! If we could imagine Mr. Hoover and Mr. Coolidge together, and could conceive of the face of either being wrinkled into a smile, what a merry picture it would make to see them discussing such amusing "demagogy."

In that speech he showed in a few sentences the difference between the Coolidge-Hoover-Mellon type of mind and his own when he said:

"The philosophy of social justice through social action calls definitely, plainly for the reduction of poverty. And what do we mean when we talk about the reduction of poverty? We mean the reduction of the causes of poverty."

Could anything be more dangerous than that? Much more comforting to the element which has drawn to itself through governmental privilege so much, and left so many penniless and in poverty, is the thought that private philanthropy must let no one starve. But "the cause of poverty." That is a dangerous thought. And he who utters it is a dangerous man.

* * *

Let Us Be Fair

So dangerous is this man that he uttered these words:

"It is patent in our days that not alone is wealth accumulated but immense power and despotic economic domination are concentrating in the hands of a few, and those few frequently are not the owners but only the trustees and directors of invested funds which they administer at their good pleasure."

Could anything be more dangerous than that?

Imagine Coolidge, Hoover and Mellon mulling that over in their minds! Imagine!

But, dear reader, let us be fair—these words uttered by Roosevelt were an exact quotation from the Pope's Encyclical, which Roosevelt thinks one of the world's "greatest" documents.

But, well—what of it? What a dangerous man the Pope was in Hoover circles and inner circles just four years ago!
